PAINLEVE INVITES GERMAN GOOD-WILL IN PLEA FOR PEACE

French Premier at Frontier City Makes a Strong Appeal for Reconciliation.

OFFERS A POLICY OF TRUST

PRELUDE TO SECURITY TALK

Paris Reads Great Significance Into Words of Premier, Addressed to People of Alsace.

PARIS, June 1.—Premier Painlevé at Strasbourg today, on the eve of the negotiation of the Rhineland peace compact, held out the olive branch to Germany in eloquent words, charged with great meanings. To Alsace and Lorraine he gave assurance that "no measure will be taken without full consultation with your representatives," thus dispelling the uneasiness which has developed in the two recovered provinces during recent differences caused by the proposal to suppress the representation of France at the Vatican.

Soon, he said, a consultative committee, in which all opinions will be represented, will be constituted in Alsace, which will aid in the absorption of the two provinces into the mother country in such a way as to safeguard all local rights. Such assurance of internal liberty and control of their own destiny within the corporate body of France is all the Alsatians wish.

The Premier's promise, made at a banquet to President Doumergue, was greeted with tremendous enthusiasm.

M. Painlevé then turned to the position of Alsace as the frontier province for whose defense, if ever menaced, "France would engage her whole existence."

"But do not think," he added, "that in my words there is the least trace of imperialism or any bellicose threat. France is still heroically ready to assume the eternest duties which the future may impose on her. Only two days ago Parliament unanimously resolved to defend her work of civilization in North Africa against the onrush of fanatic barbarism. But with all her will, with all her mind, with all her heart, our country has no other aspiration than to be a worker for peace, for just peace, wherein will be neither oppressors nor oppressed.

France Will Show Confidence.

"This aspiration is not Utopian and it is not blind. The French people have too much common sense to nurse illusions about the evil forces which torment our old world. They know the perils against which we must keep our eyes open. There are dreamers of domination who never resign themselves to their defeat, there are new nations so long partitioned and enslaved that they cannot avoid suspicion when the future of their independence or their liberty seems at stake. All that is true, but France knows also there never will be fruitful action without optimism, she knows there is something as dangerous as blind confidence and that is blind mistrust which, seeing plots and dangers everywhere, lets pass propitious occasions and shuts itself up in obstinate negations.

"Gentlemen, however deceptive, however disquieting may be the vicissitudes of international politics, I affirm here confidently my faith in the future of European civilization. I proclaim it here on this soil of Alsace. Why should this land which separates France and Germany be destined for all time to be a source of menace and grief? Alsace, by the genius of its own peoples, should aid in the mutual comprehension of its two great neighbors. Must it be true that she should be doomed forever to murderous battles of which she is at the same time the cause and victim, so that nothing is left for her but the sorrowful plaint of Antigone, 'I was born for love and not for hate'?

"No, gentlemen, the day will dawn, perhaps sooner than we think, when from the bitter disillusions of this post-war time will emerge the real lessons of the war, when peoples will throw down the barriers of egotism and hate which still separate them and will each develop its own genius, not for mutual destruction but for common action in the struggle of mankind against nature and against plagues which inflict humanity, irrespective of race and country."

Significance of the Speech.

The Premier's speech couched though it is in general terms, is regarded here as a bid for reconciliation with Germany. It marks very definitely the end of the policy of distrust and everlasting suspicion of which Poincaré has been the most conspicuous apostle. As in the Senate last week, when Briand retorted to Poincaré that he was not "among those who believed it was always right to say no," Premier Painlevé underlined the contrast of his policy with that of his predecessors in the phrase about blind mistrust being as dangerous as blind confidence. He does not dismiss the German menace.

President Doumergue yesterday at Strasbourg stressed the points that France could never feel absolutely secure so long ideas of revenge were encouraged among the people who launched the last war and so long as treaties which have been signed are not loyally fulfilled. But today's speech, on the eve of negotiations with Germany for a Rhineland compact, coming from such an eminent pacifist as Premier Painlevé, and in full accord with Foreign Minister Briand, is considered here as intended to clear the atmosphere for those negotiations and to create, if possible in Germany, a spirit of loyal cooperation in the establishment of peace.

Too Many Statues of Nobodies, He Says, but None of Whitman

Professor Emory Holloway of Adelphi College, speaking last night at the annual Walt Whitman festival held at the Community Church, Thirty-fourth Street and Park Avenue, said:

"New York City should be ashamed of itself for having erected so many statues to nobodies and not one to the man who made her famous in song. There should be a drive for a Whitman statue, to be placed, perhaps, on the Battery, where he could look across to the Brooklyn he loved.

"The foreigner, as he approaches our shores, sees the Statue of Liberty first of all. But that's rather far above him, remote. Rather let him see the paternal hand of Whitman extended to him in welcome."

INSIST DEBT TALKS MUST BE HELD HERE

Kellogg and Mellon Reject the Suggestion That Americans Attend a Parley Abroad.

EXPECT NEGOTIATIONS SOON

With France, Italy and Belgium Approaching a Decision, Talk of New Plan Is Frowned Upon.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Direct negotiations for the funding of the war-time debts of foreign nations to the United States will be held in Washington and under no circumstances will members of the American Debt Commission consider going abroad to attend joint meetings with representatives of the debtor nations.

Such is the position taken definitely by Secretaries Kellogg and Mellon, who, along with Secretary Hoover, act as members of the American Debt Commission. It was pointed out today that if there were no other reason it certainly would be impracticable for three Cabinet officers to go abroad. But in addition to this phase of the situation, the policy of the Administration and of the commission has been that each of the war debts shall be taken up separately and without regard to the debts which the foreign nations owe among themselves.

Under this policy it is expected that Belgium, which has signified its intention of seeking a debt settlement will send a commission to this country soon. No definite date has been set but it is practically assured that the negotiations will be held this Summer. Secretary Mellon, who is chairman of the American Commission, indicated today, that because of this he would not go to Europe on his vacation this year but would remain within striking distance of Washington, in readiness to come here when a date for a meeting was fixed.

There is reason to believe that the prospects for definite agreements with France, Italy and Belgium are brighter than at any time since the armistice, and in view of this situation the Administration is anxious that no talk to the effect that the American commission might be willing to alter its policy, and join in a more or less general conference abroad should go undenied.

The suggestion that the commission might consider accepting an invitation to go to London to discuss debt funding with the French and Belgium Governments, and also that the debt of France to Great Britain might be taken into consideration at such deliberations, was first advanced in an editorial article by George Harvey, former Ambassador to Great Britain, which appeared in The Washington Post on Sunday, the last he wrote before retiring as editor-in-chief of that newspaper.

Because of Colonel Harvey's former connection with the Government and his friendship with Secretary Kellogg, the article attracted considerable attention and was made the subject of dispatches sent by foreign correspondents in America to their newspapers. This bubble was burst, however, by emphatic denials at the State and Treasury Departments that the proposal was in any sense sponsored by the Administration, and that instead it was in direct opposition to the Administration's policy and purely a personal suggestion from Colonel Harvey.

The Belgium Government, it was said today, has given no indications to the Debt Commission of a desire to make a distinction between the pre-armistice and post-armistice debts. It is the expectation of the Debt Commission that no such distinction will be made in the negotiations which are to be held in Washington and that an adjustment will cover the entire obligation. Baron de Cartier, the Belgian Ambassador, called at the White House today and paid his respects to President Coolidge. He will sail for Europe on the steamer Lapland on June 9, and upon his arrival in Brussels will take up with his Government the debt question.

THOMAS R. MARSHALL, WAR VICE PRESIDENT, DIES, BIBLE IN HAND

COLD CAUSED PROSTRATION

Coolidge Expresses Sorrow and Will Attend the Funeral Service Today.

BURIAL TO BE IN INDIANA

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Thomas Riley Marshall, Vice President of the United States for the eight years of Woodrow Wilson's service as President, and before that Governor of Indiana, died this morning in the room at the Willard Hotel which he and Mrs. Marshall had occupied since he came here from his home last week to attend to some business. This room was one of the suite in which Mr. Marshall had lived when he was Vice President. He was 71 years old.

Death came suddenly. Since his arrival in the capital last week the former Vice President had been ill with a severe cold, which caused nervous exhaustion, but last night assurance was given that all danger had passed and he would be able to return to Indianapolis in a few days. It became known today that he had suffered a heart attack in the beginning of his illness, but improvement in his condition had been rapid and a fatal outcome was not apprehended.

When the sudden end came this morning Mr. Marshall was reading the Bible, one of the copies placed in hotel bedrooms. He had turned to the fourth chapter of St. Mark, in which the parable of the sower was related by Jesus to His disciples. This, which was one of Mr. Marshall's favorite biblical stories, concludes with the words:

"With what measure ye mete it shall be measured to you."

A nurse was in Mr. Marshall's bedroom and Mrs. Marshall was in an adjoining room when Mr. Marshall fell back on his pillow. Death is believed to have occurred instantly.

Died as Harding Did.

The circumstances of Mr. Marshall's passing were strikingly similar to those which marked the sudden end of President Harding in a hotel room in San Francisco on Aug. 2, 1923. Mr. Harding was not reading, but was being read to, at the time. Not long before Mr. Harding died he had been pronounced convalescent from the attack of exhaustion which compelled him to abandon the itinerary for his return to Washington after his journey to Alaska.

Tentative plans for the former Vice President's funeral provide that brief services shall be held in the Willard Hotel tomorrow, with the President and Mrs. Coolidge and other notable people attending. The body will then be taken to Indianapolis, where it will be placed in a temporary receiving vault. Eventually the body will be buried in Marion, Ind., where a foster son is buried.

Mr. Marshall had moved recently to Indianapolis from Columbia City, Ind., where he had practiced law before his election as Vice President. He had expressed a wish to be buried beside the grave of his foster son, Clarence Morrison, who was to have been legally adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Marshall during the former's Vice Presidential term and had lived with them four years. The child was taken from a Washington hospital and nursed back to health by the Vice President and his wife, who had no child of their own. Clarence died when he was 10 years old, and his body was buried in Marion. His death was a great sorrow to Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, who were about to take the legal steps necessary to his adoption when his young life came to a close.

Expressions of sympathy poured in on Mrs. Marshall today. Her husband was one of the most popular men who ever held official position in Washington and was on terms of friendship with many persons still residing here.

President Coolidge, who succeeded Mr. Marshall as Vice President, sent a letter of condolence to Mrs. Marshall as soon as he heard of Mr. Marshall's death. This afternoon the President and Mrs. Coolidge, accompanied by the President's naval and military aids, went

Lowry, Ex-Clerk at $7 a Week, Declines $50,000 Job in Big Sugar Refining Company

Frank C. Lowry, one of the active partners of the sugar brokerage firm of E. Atkins & Co., who started his career in the sugar trade as a clerk at $7 a week, declined yesterday the offer of a position which would have paid him, according to report, from $50,000 to $100,000 a year. He was asked twice to become President of the American Sugar Refining Company, and declined each time.

Mr. Lowry, when questioned regarding the report which was circulating in the trade, admitted that he had received the offer, but would not comment on it other than to state that he was well satisfied with his present position.

When Mr. Lowry started to shift for himself in the business world he obtained a position as office clerk with the old sugar firm of Smith & Schipper, an organization affiliated with the Pedigree Sugar Refining Company, one of the largest independents. He climbed to the head of the sales organization, and later was admitted to a partnership in the Atkins firm, which is one of the most active sugar merchandising organizations in the business. His activities with this firm have attracted the attention of the entire industry.

It has been known for some time in the financial and sugar districts that the American Sugar Refining Company has been casting about for new executive blood. Last Autumn, the financial district heard that Mathew C. Brush, head of the American International Corporation, had received an offer of the presidency of the American Sugar Refining Company, and it was reported then that the position would carry a salary of $150,000 a year. Later, when the American Sugar Refining Company had arranged to acquire a controlling interest in the National Sugar Refining Company, it was planned to make James H. Post, head of the latter company, President of the American organization. The Government, however, prevented the consolidation of these two companies, and Mr. Post retained his old position.

Wall Street, however, is expecting almost daily the appointment of a new President of the American company. It is understood that when a new President is appointed, Earl D. Babst, who now holds that position, will become Chairman of the Board of Directors.

Mercury at 88 Here as Snow Falls in Wyoming; 6 Prostrations in City; Forecast Is Cooler

Most persons in and around New York agreed that yesterday was hot. It was. A high of 88 degrees, nothing unseasonable, according to the Weather Bureau, and not anywhere near a record for the first of June, and a low of 68 degrees gave an average temperature for the day of 77 degrees. The highest point the mercury reached was at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the low mark being touched at 6 in the morning.

While men here unearthed last season's Palm Beach suits and women wore their flimsiest dresses, out at Rock Springs, Wyo., according to an Associated Press dispatch, eight inches of snow fell and fur coats were the order of the day.

Two persons in Manhattan and four in Brooklyn collapsed from the heat. Victor Eliaser, 80 years old, of 320 East Eleventh Street, and Robert Taylor, 59 years old, of 115 Bowery, were overcome, but after treatment were able to go to their homes.

A woman believed to be Mrs. Anna Quinn, 45 years old, of 110 Congress Street, Brooklyn, was overcome in front of 236 Clinton Street, Brooklyn. She was taken to the Kings County Hospital.

Jacob Glick of 697 Greene Street, Brooklyn, was prostrated while working in a factory, and treated at St. Catherine's Hospital.

Harry Pastel of 219 Moore Street and Solomon Friedman of 164 Lynch Street, Brooklyn, collapsed at the same time while working in a bakery at 78 Graham Avenue. They were treated at the Greenpoint Hospital.

In Newark, the death of Adolph Berger was attributed to the heat.

In Chicago a record of fifty-five years was shattered when the temperature reached 92 degrees at 5 P. M. Three deaths were attributed indirectly to the heat.

NEGRO IS QUESTIONED ON THE KANE MURDER

ANOTHER ATTACK REVEALED

Girl Was Beaten Unconscious on Elevated Platform, a Mile From Scene of Killing.

Walter Johnson, a negro from Jacksonville, Fla., was questioned yesterday by District Attorney Charles J. Dodd of Brooklyn about the murder of Miss Florence Kane, who was beaten and strangled last Friday as she approached her home at 1,020 East New York Avenue.

While the police were reporting no progress in the search for the girl's slayer, and the District Attorney was checking up Johnson's alibi, another attack on a girl was disclosed. This girl was beaten on the platform of the elevated station at Woodhaven Avenue and Jamaica Avenue, Woodhaven, Queens, early last week. The attack took place about a mile from the vacant lot where the body of Miss Kane was found.

Miss Mary Hots, 20 years old, of Eighty-ninth Avenue, Woodhaven, was the victim of the attack. According to her statement to officials of Mary Immaculate Hospital, Jamaica, where she was treated for lacerations of the scalp and contusions, she entered the elevated station at the eastern end, where there is no ticket agent. She walked through the station to the train platform and while waiting for a train was struck over the head several times. She did not see her assailant.

Rescued by a Passer-By.

She was beaten until she collapsed. When she regained consciousness she screamed for help. A passer-by ran up the stairs and the girl was taken to the hospital. No report of the attack was made to the police until Saturday night. A purse containing the girl's pay was not taken. Miss Hots was unable to furnish any description of her assailant. She said that as she went through the station she recalled that a man was sitting on one of the benches, but she paid no attention to him.

Attention was first directed to Johnson because he fitted in, but only in a general way, with the description of the negro who attacked Miss Augusta Cooperberg at Winthrop Street and Ninety-sixth Street, Brooklyn, two weeks ago. Johnson also resembled the negro who annoyed Miss Helen Connors, a telephone instructor, thirty minutes before Miss Kane was slain. This negro was standing at one end of the open lot when he began to annoy Miss Connors and a girl friend. They escaped by taking a refuge in the Connors home in Ford Street, which opens on the lot.

Johnson was observed on Saturday night on the elevated platform at Broadway and Myrtle Avenue by Frederick L. Mueller, a special officer for the B. M. T. The negro was weeping and when Mueller asked him the trouble he said that he had no home, no money and no friends. He was nervous to the point of being incoherent. He was taken to the Gates Avenue Station, charged with vagrancy and then lodged in Raymond Street jail, where he refused yesterday to talk to reporters.

Finds Loose Points in Story.

"There are several points in Johnson's story of where he was on Thursday night," said Mr. Dodd, "that do not check up. He told me that he came from Jacksonville, but that on his way North had stopped in Washington. He went from that city to Youngstown, Ohio, where he worked for the Carnegie Steel Company, and then drifted to Trenton, N. J. There he joined another negro named Calvin Wood and, after working for a week on a farm at Yardville, they came to New York.

"They applied for jobs at a South Street employment agency and were assigned to the dairy farm of a man named Kraut, whose farm is in Middle Village, Queens. They remained there only a short time and then got jobs in the Juniper Coal Company's yards at Middle Village. Johnson said that he went to sleep in a shack in the yards at 8:30 o'clock on Thursday night and was sleeping until 6 o'clock Friday morning, when a watchman awakened him.

"I asked Captain McCloskey, in charge of the detectives working on the case, to send men out to check up on this story. They reported that Harry Rau, owner of the yards, said that Johnson was out on Thursday night until after midnight. I told Johnson we had been informed of this fact, and he changed his story to say that he had been at a poolroom near the coal yards until about 9 o'clock Thursday night. He denied that he was out after midnight. I also learned that the negro had been discharged on Friday because his work had been unsatisfactory. I expected several witnesses

EGGS, HISSES GREET O'DUFFY AT REVIEW

DISTURBERS HUSTLED OUT

Then He Tells Officers of Old 69th He Has Shed Blood for Ireland.

General Elan O'Duffy, Chief Commissioner of the Irish Civic Guards, against whose invitation to be the guest of honor at a review of the 160th Infantry, the old Sixty-ninth Regiment, Irish Republican sympathizers had protested, was the target of a demonstration at that review at the Armory at Lexington Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street last night. His appearance was greeted with hisses and the hurling of eggs.

The General, who is Chief of Police of the Irish Free State, had been invited when he first came here to attend the International Police conference to be the guest of honor at the review. Colonel John J. Phelan, commander of the regiment, had been both asked and warned by Irish Republican sympathizers to withdraw the invitation. Prominent among the objectors was Michael A. Kelly, former head of the American Society for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, and last Saturday Mr. Kelly's business partner, John F. McAree, headed a committee which waited on Colonel Phelan. It was announced then, and threatened that if the review were held with General O'Duffy present a "violent demonstration would be offered."

Colonel Phelan refused to alter his plans, and consequently there were 125 policemen in plain clothes under Sergeant James J. Geran of the Bomb Squad and perhaps 100 military police scattered about the block and in the building last night just before General O'Duffy arrived. The streets were crowded, but the block was kept fairly clear by the policemen after the gallery of the armory had become filled.

General O'Duffy came with Colonel Phelan, Father Duffy, the regiment's chaplain, and Police Inspector John J. Noonan in an automobile from the Manhattan Club, where Colonel Phelan had given a dinner for him. Captain Bernard Flood, dectective, sat on the seat with the driver. There was no demonstration beyond a murmur as the party got out of the machine and walked into the building.

Woman Cries "Shame!"

Inside the Armory there was quiet until the regiment lined up for inspection. The regimental band struck up "Come Back to Erin." Colonel Phelan, followed by General O'Duffy and Father Duffy, walked out on the big floor to start their tour of inspection.

An egg hurtled through the air and spattered at his feet.

General O'Duffy continued to smile as the first egg was quickly followed by two more, which also fell at his feet, and the women, for only women, it seemed, took an active part in the demonstration, cried "Shame!" "Traitor!" "Benedict Arnold!"

One large, red-haired woman stood up in a group in a corner of the armory whence most of the shouting seemed to come and cried: "Why don't you carry a British flag?"

Then the national guardsmen and the detectives took a hand.

The enforced exodus of the women disturbers started in quick order. The section in which they were seated—there were hardly more than twenty—was cleared in an instant. One by one they were passed down the line of detectives and soldiers as if the guards were passing a medicine ball, down the long aisle to the steps, the women becoming more and more disarrayed and screaming louder as the none-too-gentle hands passed them to others no more gentle.

"Don't you dare touch me!" one would scream, and a detective would shout, "Here's another, Mike!" as he hurled her into a fellow's hands, and then they were all out and the building was quiet.

Meanwhile General O'Duffy had gone on with the inspection as if nothing had occurred, and the band had continued playing Irish melodies—"Killarney" and "Mother Machree" and "The Wearin' of the Green"—and save for the few isolated hisses after that the review was quiet.

In a brief speech made in the officers' room after the review General O'Duffy said that because he had been called a traitor he would like to review his own

SMITH, ILL, CANCELS MEETING HE CALLED FOR BOND DISCUSSION

FACED REPUBLICAN ATTACK

Miller and Mills, Self-Invited to Meeting Tonight, Were to Have Opened Fire.

NEW PLANS BY CITY G. O. P.

May Take Up Five-Cent Fare Issue Lost to Hylan by Revival of "Unified" Transit Proposal.

Suffering from a sore throat and confined to his bed by a doctor's orders, Governor Smith decided last night to call off the conference set for this evening at the Hotel Biltmore to consider ways to promote ratification at the polls of his proposal for a $100,000,000 bond issue, the proceeds to be expended at the rate of $10,000,000 a year for ten years to pay for new public buildings and other permanent improvements.

Two Legislatures at which the Republicans were sufficiently in control to block the measure have approved it, and it will be submitted to the voters in the general election this Autumn. The conference planned for this evening was to have considered not only ways to conduct an aggressive campaign for ratifying this proposal as an amendment to the State Constitution, but also methods to safeguard the expenditure of the money, if the vote proves favorable. Among those invited to attend were Republicans as well as Democrats, but the Republicans invited by the Governor were men and women who throughout his administration at Albany have taken his side of almost every argument, against the contentions of their own party.

Had the conference been held this evening, however, two Republicans who are outspoken out of sympathy with the proposal to issue bonds as contemplated by the Governor would have attended, as some put it last night, "by their own invitation." One was Governor Smith's predecessor in office, ex-Governor Nathan L. Miller. The other was Representative Orden L. Mills. After the conference was called and the invitations issued, with their names not included, both sent communications to Governor Smith, asking that they be admitted, as the matter was one of State concern and they were vitally interested.

Governor Consents.

"Come along, I want every view that I can get on this question and will be glad to have you," was the substance of the Governor's reply. Republican leaders said last night the Governor's letter to the two prominent Republicans was not only courteous but gracious.

Both ex-Governor Miller and Representative Mills are strongly opposed to the $100,000,000 bond issue. Governor Miller, who made economy the keynote of his administration, and succeeded in materially reducing the expenditures of the State, has viewed with great disapproval the financial policy of his successor, and with apprehension the jump in the State's expenditures which has resulted. Representative Mills has taken the same view and has spoken his mind freely on the subject in public. Ex-Governor Miller has kept silent, although—as he has told his friends—he has had to practice severe restraint to keep from talking.

Participation in the conference called by Governor Smith this evening would have been ex-Governor Miller's first appearance on the firing line since he left office.

The move of ex-Governor Miller and Representative Mills is thought to mark the first stage in a State-wide Republican offensive against Governor Smith and his policies. Locally too, the Republicans are preparing to abandon the defensive attitude into which they have been forced through the faulty strategy of the Republican leaders in the Legislature, and are preparing an aggressive war on their Democratic opponents, including Governor Smith.

The 5-Cent Fare Issue.

In this connection, it was learned last night that following Mayor Hylan's loss of the five-cent fare issue, because his Transportation Board pronounced the proposal to run the new municipal subways on a five-cent fare, impossible, except by a large tax levy, the Republicans are planning to annex the five-cent fare issue for themselves. They plan to show how the proposed new subways can be sustained on a nickel fare without adding any considerable amount to the taxes.

Just how this is to be wrought none of the leaders venture to say, but, in discussing the proposal yesterday they were smiling and confident in their

75-Mile Wind in Sioux City Levels Homes, Injures Many

Special to The New York Times.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, June 1.—A tornado which struck the heart of the business section of Sioux City this afternoon caused property damage estimated at $100,000. Many persons were injured, the most seriously being a baby, which probably sustained a broken back.

For ten minutes a seventy-five-mile-an-hour wind blew. Light buildings were overturned, many garages were uprooted, several residences under construction were demolished, walls of a large storehouse were caved in, plate glass windows in stores were blown in and damage to stocks resulted from torrents of rain.

The storm broke a drought which for weeks had been threatening crops of all kinds in Northern Nebraska, Southern South Dakota and Northwestern Iowa.

TRADE BODIES WIN ANTI-TRUST TEST

LOWER COURTS REVERSED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—In two decisions of far-reaching importance to the business world and the great industries the Supreme Court held today that trade associations do not violate the anti-trust laws in gathering and disseminating among their members information as it costs and quantity of production, stock conditions and sale prices, and cannot be prosecuted for so doing.

The decisions were given in the cases of the Maple Floor Manufacturers' Association and the Cement Manufacturers' Protective Association, both of which had been found guilty by the lower courts of breaking the anti-trust law. The Government contended that under the guise of exchanging trade information these associations had virtually formed and were operating a commercial pool in defiance of the Sherman Act.

Three at Court Dissent.

In writing the two decisions Associate Justice Stone argued that whereas a combination between the various manufacturers in these two trades might have come about through the methods complained of, there was nothing to show that such was the intent, and that, on the other hand, especially in the case of the maple flooring manufacturers, diligent effort was made to keep within the anti-trust laws.

The court was not unanimous on the opinion, Justice McReynolds submitting a dissenting opinion which held the activities of the two organizations had been proved unlawful under the decisions already laid down by the court in the hardwood lumber and linseed oil cases and Chief Justice Taft and Justice Sanford dissented on somewhat similar grounds.

The two actions were considered by industrial interests throughout the country as test cases, in which the final decisions would govern to a large extent the future business methods and manufacturing and selling operations of some of the greatest corporations.

The maple flooring case came from Michigan, where, the Government contended, twenty corporations in Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin were banded together to defeat the Anti-Trust act. The cement case arose in New York State, where the Government arraigned the Atlas Portland Cement Company, Allentown Portland Cement Company and nineteen others doing business in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Maryland and Virginia. The Supreme Court decision overthrew injunctions granted by the lower courts in both cases.

In one opinion Justice Stone declared that the flooring manufacturers, "by their course of conduct, instead of evidencing the purpose of persistent violations of the law, had steadily indicated a purpose to keep within the boundaries of legality as rapidly as those boundaries were marked out by the decisions of courts interpreting the Sherman act."

"It is not open to question," continued the opinion, "that the dissemination of pertinent information concerning any trade or business tends to stabilize that trade or business and to produce uniformity of price and trade practice. * * * But the natural effect of the acquisition of wider and more scientific knowledge of business conditions on the minds of the individuals engaged in commerce and its consequent effect in stabilizing production and price can hardly be deemed a restraint of commerce or, if so, it cannot, we think, be said to be an unreasonable restraint, or in any respect unlawful.

"It was not the purpose or the intent of the Sherman Anti-Trust law to inhibit the intelligent conduct of business operations, nor do we conceive that its

John H. McCooey, the Brooklyn Democratic leader, became a member of the Tammany Society last night. About 200 of the Braves gathered in Tammany Hall for Mr. McCooey's initiation, which was animated enough to be heard throughout the Fourteenth Street Wigwam. Former Judge George W. Olvany, the "Big Chief" of Tammany, was present with a dozen other Sachems to smoke the pipe of peace with the recruit.

Mr. McCooey was unanimously elected to membership in the Tammany Society as Columbian Order two months ago. He did not become a member, however, until he had "run the gauntlet" and accepted the obligations of the order.

John R. Voorhis, the ninety-six-year-old Grand Sachem, who usually presides at initiations, is ill at his home and was not able to be present. Dr. Thomas R. Darlington, former Health Commissioner, who is "Father of the Council," presided in his stead. Following his initiation, Mr. McCooey participated in the initiation of several other new members.

OREGON SCHOOL LAW DECLARED INVALID BY SUPREME COURT

STATE CONTROL REJECTED

PRIVATE SCHOOLS JUSTIFIED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The inherent right of a parent to send his boy or girl to any school he deems best was upheld and the right of a State to insist that the children must attend certain institutions was sharply denied when the Supreme Court declared unconstitutional this afternoon, the Oregon law prescribing that children between 8 and 16 years of age must be educated in the public schools.

The Court, at the same time, declared that to sustain the Oregon law would mean the destruction of thousands of dollars worth of property belonging to the parochial and secular schools, and that this would amount to depriving them of their possessions without due process of law.

Few decisions in years have attracted as much attention as the present one which was rendered unanimously and was handed down by Associate Justice McReynolds.

Charges that the law was backed by the Ku Klux Klan and was aimed at the Roman Catholic Church have been heard on every side since the statute was enacted. The law, however, makes no distinction against parochial schools, and in the case which was decided this afternoon, the Hill Military Academy, a non-sectarian institution, joined with the Society of the Sisters of the Holy Name of Jesus and Mary in appealing the State authorities, who were officially listed as Walter M. Pierce, the Governor; Isaac H. Van Winkle, the Attorney General, and Stanley Myers, the District Attorney for Multnomah County.

The dual fight of the parochial and the secular schools had already been won in the Federal Court for the District of Oregon, but the State officials appealed from that decision to the Supreme Court, which today upheld the lower court's dictum.

Holds Child "Not Creature of State."

"The child is not the mere creature of the State," declared Justice McReynolds in that part of his opinion which dealt with the right of the parent to dictate the school to which his child should go.

"Those who nurture him and direct his destiny have the right, coupled with the high duty, to recognize and prepare him for additional obligations," he continued, speaking for the court.

"We think it entirely plain that the (Oregon) act of 1922 unreasonably interferes with the liberty of parents and guardians to direct the upbringing and education of children under their control. As often heretofore pointed out, rights guaranteed by the Constitution may not be abridged by legislation which has no reasonable relation to some purpose within the competency of the State.

"The fundamental theory of liberty upon which all Governments in this Union repose excludes any general power of the State to standardize its children by forcing them to accept instruction from public teachers only."

It could not be expected that the Supreme Court would touch on the Ku Klux Klan issue because it had not been spread officially on the records of the case, but at one point Justice McReynolds stated:

"The appellees are engaged in a kind of undertaking not inherently harmful, but long regarded as useful and meritorious. Certainly there is nothing in the present records to indicate that they have failed to discharge their obligations to patrons, students of the State. And there are no peculiar circumstances or present emergencies which demand extraordinary measures relative to primary education."

Text of the Court's Opinion.

These appeals are from decrees, based upon undenied allegations, which granted preliminary orders restraining appellants from threatening or attempting to enforce the Compulsory Education act adopted Nov. 7, 1922, under the initiative provision of her Constitution by the voters of Oregon, Judicial Code, Section 266.

They present the same points of law: there are no controverted questions of fact. Rights said to be guaranteed by the Federal Constitution were specially set up, and appropriate prayers asked for their protection.

The challenged act, effective Sept. 1, 1926, requires every parent, guardian, or other person having control or charge or custody of a child between 8 and 16 years to send him "to a public school for the period of time a public school shall be held during the current year" in the district where the child resides; and failure to do so is declared a misdemeanor.

There are exemptions—not specially important here—for children who are not normal, or who have completed the eighth grade, or who reside at considerable distances from any public school, or who hold special permits from the County Superintendent.

The manifest purpose is to compel general attendance at public schools by normal children, between 8 and 16, who have not completed the eighth grade. And without doubt enforcement of the statute would seriously impair, perhaps destroy, the profitable features of appellees' business and greatly diminish the value of their property.

Reviews Work of Catholic Schools.

Appellee, the Society of Sisters, is an Oregon corporation, organized in 1880, with power to care for orphans, educate and instruct the youth, establish and maintain academies or schools, and acquire necessary real and personal property. It has long devoted its property and effort to the secular and religious education and care of children and has acquired the valuable good-will of many parents and guardians.

It conducts interdependent primary and high schools and junior colleges, and maintains orphanages for the custody and control of children between the ages of 8 and 16. In its primary schools many children between these ages are taught the subjects usually pursued in Oregon public schools during the first eight years.

Systematic religious instruction and moral training, according to the tenets of the Roman Catholic Church, are also regularly provided. All courses of study, both temporal and religious, contemplate continuity of training under appellee's charge; the primary schools are essential to the system and the most profitable.

It owns valuable buildings, especially constructed and equipped for school purposes. The business is remunerative—the annual income from primary schools exceeds $320,000—and the successful conduct of this requires long-time contracts with teachers and parents.

The compulsory act of 1922 has already caused the withdrawal from its schools of children who would otherwise continue, and their income has steadily declined. The appellants, public officers, have proclaimed their purpose strictly to enforce the statute.

After setting out the above facts, the society's bill alleges that the enforcement conflicts with the right of parents to choose schools where their children will receive appropriate mental and religious training, the right of the child to influence the parents' choice of a school, the right of schools and teachers therein to engage in a useful business or profession, and is accordingly repugnant to the Constitution and void.

And, further, that unless enforcement of the measure is enjoined the corporation's business and property will suffer irreparable injury.

Contentions of Military Academy.

Appellee Hill Military Academy, is a private corporation organized in 1908 under the laws of Oregon, engaged in owning, operating and conducting for profit an elementary, college preparatory and military training school for boys between the ages of 5 and 21 years. Its average attendance is 100, and the annual fees received for each student amount to some $800.

The elementary department is divided into eight grades, as in the public schools; the college preparatory department has four grades similar to those of the public high schools; the courses of study conform to the requirements of the State Board of Education. Military instruction and training are also given under the supervision of an army officer.

It owns considerable real and personal property, some useful only for school purposes. The business and incident good-will are very valuable. In order to conduct its affairs long-time contracts must be made for supplies, equipment of teachers and pupils.

Appellants, law officers of the State and county, have publicly announced that the act of Nov. 7, 1922, is valid and have declared their intention to enforce it; that since its passage, and the threat of enforcement, appellee's business is being destroyed and its property depreciated; parents and guardians are refusing to make contracts for the future education of their sons, and some are being withdrawn.

The academy's bill states the foregoing facts and then alleges that the challenged act contravenes the corporation's rights guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment and that unless appellants are restrained from proclaiming its validity and threatening to enforce it irreparable injury will result. The prayer is for an appropriate injunction.

No answer was interposed in either cause and after proper notices they were heard by three Judges (Jud. Code Sec. 266) on motions for preliminary injunctions upon the specifically alleged facts.

Findings of the Lower Court.

The Court ruled that the Fourteenth Amendment guaranteed appellees against the deprivation of their property without due process of law consequent upon the unlawful interference by appellants with the free choice of patrons, present and prospective. It declared the right to conduct schools was property and that parents and guardians, as a part of their liberty, might direct the education of children by selecting reputable teachers and places.

Also, that appellees' schools were not unfit or harmful to the public, and that enforcement of the challenged statute would unlawfully deprive them of patronage and thereby destroy appellees' business and property. Finally, that the threats to enforce it would continue to cause irreparable injury; and the suits were not premature.

No question is raised concerning the power of the State reasonably to regulate all schools, to inspect, supervise and examine them, their teachers and pupils; to require that all children of proper age attend some school, that teachers shall be of good moral character and patriotic disposition, that certain studies plainly essential to good citizenship must be taught, and that nothing be taught which is manifestly inimical to the public welfare.

State Cannot "Standardize" Children.

The inevitable practical result of enforcing the act under consideration would be destruction of appellees' primary schools, and perhaps all other private primary schools for normal children within the State of Oregon.

Appellees are engaged in a kind of undertaking not inherently harmful, but long regarded as useful and meritorious. Certainly there is nothing in the present records to indicate that they have failed to discharge their obligations to patrons, students or the State. And there are no peculiar circumstances or present emergencies which demand extraordinary measures relative to primary education.

Under the doctrine of Meyer v. Nebraska, 262 U. S. 390, we think it entirely plain that the act of 1922 unreasonably interferes with the liberty of parents and guardians to control the upbringing and education of children under their control.

As often heretofore pointed out, rights guaranteed by the Constitution may not be abridged by legislation which has no reasonable relation to some purpose within the competency of the State. The fundamental theory of liberty upon which all Governments in this Union repose excludes any general power of the State to standardize its children by forcing them to accept instruction from public teachers only.

The child is not the mere creature of the State; those who nurture him and direct his destiny have the right, coupled with the high duty, to recognize and prepare him for additional obligations.

Right to Protect School Property.

Appellees are corporations, and, therefore, it is said, they cannot claim for themselves the liberty which the Fourteenth Amendment guarantees. Accepted in the proper sense, this is true. Northwestern Life Insurance Company v. Riggs, 203 U. S. 243, 253; Western Turf Association, v. Greenburg, 204 U. S. 359, 363.

But they have business and property for which they claim protection. These are threatened with destruction through the unwarranted compulsion which appellants are exercising over present and prospective patrons of their schools. And this Court has gone very far to protect against loss threatened by such action. Truax v. Raich, 239 U. S. 33; Truax v. Corrigan, 257 U. S. 312; Terrace v. Thompson, 263 U. S. 197.

The Courts of the State have not construed the act and we must determine its meaning for ourselves. Evidently it was expected to have general application and cannot be considered merely as intended to amend the charters of certain private corporations as in Berea College v. Kentucky, 211 U. S. 45. No argument in favor of such view has been advanced.

Generally it is entirely true, as urged by counsel, that no person in any business has such an interest in possible customers as to enable him to restrain exercise of proper power of the State upon the ground that he will be deprived of patronage.

But the injunctions here sought are not against the exercise of any proper power. Appellees are protecting against arbitrary, unreasonable and unlawful interference with their patrons and the consequent destruction of their business and property.

Their interest is clear and immediate, within the rule approved in Truax v. Raich, Truax v. Corrigan and Terrace v. Thompson, supra, and many other cases where injunctions have issued to protect business enterprises against interference with the freedom of patrons or customers. Hitchman Coal and Coke Company v. Mitchell, 245 U. S. 229; Duplex Printing Press Company v. Deering, 254 U. S. 443; American Steel Foundries v. Tri-City Central Trades Council, 257 U. S. 184; Nebraska District of ostera v. McKelvie, 262 U. S. 404; Truax v. Corrigan, supra, and cases there cited.

The suits were not premature. The injury to appellees was present and very real. Not a mere possibility in the remote future. If no relief had been possible prior to the effective date of the act, the injury would have become irreparable.

Issues in the Oregon Controversy.

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP).—In educational and religious circles keener and wider interest was shown in the attack upon the constitutionality of the Oregon Public School law than in any other controversy which reached the Supreme Court in recent years.

Like most States, Oregon has a compulsory education law which requires children to attend school, and prescribes the course of study. The right to enforce such regulations has not been seriously questioned in the courts. But in 1922 the voters of Oregon, 115,506 to 103,685, went a step further and enacted a law under which children between the ages of 8 and 16, with some exceptions, would, after September, 1926, be required to attend "public" schools.

Summarized, Oregon's argument was that the National Government was founded upon the theory that Church and State should be maintained separate, a principle to be closely guarded in the education of its youth; that the right of a State to control a minor when public welfare required had been thoroughly established in the courts and included control over education.

That private and parochial schools are not superior to public schools, therefore the same law would not deprive them of any rights or privileges or subject them to any disadvantages; that the opposition came from those who wanted children given sectarian religious instruction; that the fight involved the survival of the public schools.

The Protestant Episcopal Church, the Seventh Day Adventists and the American Jewish Committee each filed a brief as friend of the court in support of the position taken by the parochial and private schools.

Opponents of the new law declared it a serious menace. They attributed the increasing lack of moral fiber of the times to the lack of religious and moral training, particularly in children, declaring that unless present tendencies were restrained conditions here would be worse than those in Soviet Russia.

Oregon's idea of separation of Church and State would mean, they declared, no Church but only State, because if schools could be prohibited from teaching religion and morality all religious instruction would be brought within the control of the State.

TROTSKY ASSUMES OFFICE.

Opening New Institute, He Predicts Technical Grouping of Society.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, June 1.—Leon Trotsky took office today as head of the Scientific and Technical Branch of the Supreme Council, delivering a speech on the occasion of the opening of the Experimental Institute for the Consumption of Fuel.

This institution was built on the express wish of Lenin, who conceived the idea of the necessity of experimenting with steam energy owing to the difficulties experienced with fuel during the period of the war for communism.

The opening ceremony was one of great solemnity, the whole diplomatic corps attending. M. Trotsky, presiding over the distinguished gathering, said:

"Soviet Russia is preparing to embark upon the upbuilding of a great socialistic national economy. Its success depends on time. At present there is some conflict in Russian national economy between the elements of State and private capital. There is some coordination as well as a certain struggle.

"The side which will gain in time might win the battle by the application of the methods of a higher technique. This means socialism."

He predicted that politics would not always play the most important part in human society. With the attainment of a higher technique, humanity would be grouped not according to political views but in accordance with technical parties, he said. Competition would vanish and its place would be occupied by scientific and technical rivalry.

M. Trotsky received a tremendous welcome. He chatted with several of the many foreign envoys who were present and conducted a party over the machine rooms of the new institute. The ceremony concluded with the playing of the International by an orchestra as M. Trotsky, cutting a red ribbon, released a big turbine.

The Soviet authorities declare that the institute is the third largest of its kind in the world, having a 10,000-kilowatt experimental station, while a similar American institute has only a 500-kilowatt plant.

JUDGE'S SALARY UNTAXABLE

Supreme Court Holds It Cannot Be Treated as Gross Income.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—No income tax shall be applied to the salary of a Judge of the Court of Claims, because his salary is fixed by law as his compensation, the Supreme Court held today in an opinion by Justice McReynolds.

Joshua W. Miles, formerly Collector of Internal Revenue for the Maryland District, sued Judge Samuel J. Graham of the Court of Claims to have the Supreme Court interpret whether the $7,500 salary of judges of that court should be subject to the income tax.

Judge Graham was required to pay income taxes for 1919 and 1920, his judicial salary being treated as part of his gross income. He brought suit and the District Court in Maryland decided that he did not have to pay the tax.

MOTORS STOCK IS TAXABLE.

Supreme Court Holds That Owners of New Issue Must Pay Levy.

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP).—Stocks issued by the General Motors Company in its reorganization as a Delaware corporation were subject to a Federal income tax, the Supreme Court ruled today in a case brought by Walter L. Marr, a stockholder.

When the General Motors Company reorganized it exchanged stock in the new corporation for that in the old. The new stock having a greater market value, the Government contended that the difference represented the distribution of surplus and was taxable.

Marr and his wife owned common and preferred stock in the General Motors Company of New Jersey which cost them $76,400. They exchanged it for the new Delaware corporation stock which had a market value of $400,300.

$25,000 for Girl Hurt by Truck.

A jury in Justice Norman S. Dike's part of the Brooklyn Supreme Court yesterday awarded $25,000 damages to Evelyn Lane, 3 years old, and gave $3,000 to her father, Charles C. FIVE MORE SLAIN IN SHANGHAI RIOTS

Police Fire Upon the Mob Again, Making Casualties 17 Killed and 26 Wounded.

JAPANESE KILLS ONE

American Cavalry Joins Patrol to Maintain Order in the City.

SHANGHAI, Tuesday, June 2 (AP).—New outbreaks in the Japanese spinning mills strike agitation continued yesterday, resulting in the killing of four more Chinese students, bringing the total dead to sixteen since rioting started in the streets on Saturday.

There was another death this morning when a mob of 2,000 students and workmen formerly employed at the Nagai Wata Kaisha cotton mill, which was closed owing to the labor disorders, attacked a Japanese police constable on the West Soochow Ferry road and threw him into a creek.

Clambering out, he opened fire, killing one and wounding another rioter. The defense units dispersed the gathering.

The situation is more intense today, with the Court hearing the riot cases, and inquests being held in the mortuary under cordons of armed guards on the victims of Saturday's clash.

Native schools are closed and thousands of students are gathering in the trouble centres, presaging grave developments.

Outbreaks at 1 P. M. yesterday at Peking and Chekiang Roads, Sikh police fired into a crowd of demonstrators, mortally wounding one Chinese student. Throughout the morning police patrols, armed with sabres and rifles, marched through the streets.

In the morning the rioting spread to the main business section. A clash between police and the crowd resulted in the wounding of more than twenty agitators. The total number of wounded, as the result of street fighting thus far, was given as twenty-six. Included were several known to be mortally wounded.

Three Russian agitators were arrested yesterday. The police charged, after the first outbreak on Saturday, that Bolshevik propaganda was responsible for the demonstration by students.

American Cavalry Troop on Duty.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1 (AP).—Today's disturbances in Shanghai occurred near a large department store, thousands blocking the cross-streets and attacking buses, automobiles and tramcars. When fire hose was turned on the demonstrators they retaliated by hurling paving stones. Police squads of Sikhs and Chinese, reinforced by several foreign officers, saved the firemen. The use of bullets was effective.

The directing officer reported that the Chinese police had discharged their carbines into the air when ordered to fire. These were withdrawn, and the district placed under the patrol of the foreign units, including a troop of American cavalry. The foreign units are equipped with armored cars.

The Municipal Council has issued a proclamation that a state of emergency exists and announcing a firm determination to preserve order at all costs. Light artillery has been ordered out and is being held in readiness.

Consul Exonerates the Police.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Sikh policemen who killed nine rioting Chinese students and wounded about twenty others in Shanghai on Saturday acted as the situation seemed to require, according to a cablegram from Consul General Edwin S. Cunningham, which was released today by Secretary Kellogg.

Japan Watches Shanghai Trouble.

TOKIO, June 2 (AP).—The Foreign Office has announced a policy of "watchful waiting" in regard to the situation in Shanghai arising out of riots resulting from the prosecution of Chinese connected with the strike in Japanese spinning mills.

The officials, however, are obviously worried.

YALE MAN KILLED IN FRANCE

Assistant Secretary of Guaranty Trust Dies in Auto Crash.

PARIS, June 1 (AP).—Ray Walter of the Paris office of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, whose address was given here as Selinsgrove, Pa., was killed yesterday afternoon in an automobile accident near Mantes. His wife and child were slightly hurt.

The Guaranty Trust Company here was without confirmation yesterday of the death of Mr. Walter of the Paris office. It was explained that lack of cable advices regarding the accident was probably due to observance of the holiday, Whit-Monday, in France.

Mr. Walter was appointed assistant secretary at Paris after an association with that office of four years. He came to the Guaranty Trust Company in September, 1919.

He was born in Middleburg, Pa., in 1894, and was graduated from Yale in 1917. He served on the Mexican border with the National Guard and two years in France. After the war he studied for several months at the University of Grenoble. His father, R. C. Walter, is cashier of the Farmers National Bank at Selinsgrove, Pa.

belief that the proposal would make a hit with the voters and place Mylan in difficulty. They appeared to contemplate a revival of the "unified plan" advocated by the State Transit Commission, which would involve the taking over of all transportation lines, surface, underground and elevated, and welding them into one system, controlled by the City but privately operated. It was stated that the Republican plan probably would be promulgated before many days.

The postponement of tonight's conference was decided last night after Governor Smith's physician, Dr. Harman Smith, a throat specialist of 44 West Forty-ninth Street, had advised him against any public speaking. The Governor was in bed part of yesterday and was kept in seclusion all day. His former secretary, now Public Service Commissioner George R. Van Namee, was summoned hurriedly from Albany to take charge of affairs and meet callers at the Governor's suite in the Hotel Biltmore. Mr. Van Namee said last night that the Governor's condition had been pronounced by a specialist as not serious, but that he needed rest.

Telegrams postponing the conference were sent out from the Executive Chamber at Albany yesterday at the Governor's direction. They read:

June 1 Brings Rush for Marriage Licenses; 444 Couples Give Bureaus a Record Day

Yesterday being the first of June, 444 couples decided that it was high time to get the marriage license. So in Brooklyn, the Bronx, Manhattan and Richmond the clerks in the bureaus had a busy day and when they checked up at night they found that yesterday's total of applications showed a decided gain.

In the Municipal Building 230 couples obtained the legal right to be married, while in 1924 there were only 196. This gain of 29 gave Manhattan the honors for the day. Over in the Richmond Borough Hall at St. George, Staten Island, Deputy City Clerk Cachil attached his signature to nine licenses, whereas last year he wished happiness and all that to only six prospective bridal couples.

Stewart Harris, who supervises the issuing of marriage licenses up in the Bronx, said that he looked for no great rush, albeit June is the widow favorite month. He admitted, however, that 50 couples had dropped in during the day for their documents, which was five more than applied on the corresponding date last year.

Deputy City Clerk Thomas F. Maher said that even before the Brooklyn Marriage License Bureau opened its doors there were several young men and young women waiting for the licenses. When business closed for the day, 199 licenses had been issued. While pointing out that this made the day one of the largest the bureau ever had, Mr. Maher thought that as Saturday was a holiday and his office closed, this might account for some of yesterday's rush.

In June, 1924, he added, 3,346 licenses were issued, this stands as the record for any month since the opening of the bureau. The next highest month was in June, 1920, when 3,091 licenses were handed out. Although Mr. Maher did not expect yesterday's pace to be maintained, he predicted that the end of the month would find the figures close to the record mark. He said that Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays are the popular days for marriage license applicants, but he could not offer a reason for it.

INSPECT THE ROUTE OF PROPOSED PARKWAY

Nassau Men, Who Oppose Wheatley Hills Plan, Also Visit the Sites They Suggest.

Several members of the Nassau County Committee, which is opposing the plan of the Long Island State Park Commission to run its Northern State Parkway through the Wheatley Hills section, went over the approximate route of that thoroughfare yesterday and of the Middle Parkway, which they propose as a substitute.

Their trip included also a visit to the site of the park the commission has taken at Lloyd's Neck, near Huntington, and the Taylor estate near Islip, for possession of which the former owners are now contesting with the Park Commission in the courts.

The party was led by David Dows and Charles Downing Lay, landscape architect, who drew up a report for the committee on a park system for Long Island. In their tour through the Wheatley Hills section the members of the committee pointed out that on account of the large estates of wealthy persons of which that section is almost entirely made up, it would be the most expensive possible land the State could acquire for park purposes, whereas further to the southland was not so high priced.

They also argued that the proposed Northern Parkway went through very thinly populated regions, whereas, they said, the Middle Parkway they proposed as a substitute would make the South Shore resorts accessible to travel, and this was the region most visitors wanted to reach.

Although it has only an indirect bearing on the Northern Parkway question, they criticized the Lloyd's Neck site which the Park Commission has acquired from the Federal Government for its inaccessibility. On the road out to this site beyond Huntington the automobiles of the party had to go over private property, and on two occasions had to open gates that stretched across the road. Finally the machines had to be abandoned and the journey completed on foot.

The party went through the Mannetto Hills from a point near Huntington along the Old Country Road, which will parallel the route the committee suggests for the Middle Parkway. These hills include one with an altitude of 420 feet, which makes it the highest spot on Long Island.

DELAY COLUMBUS STATUE.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., June 1.—The offer of local Italians to erect a $20,000 statue to Christopher Columbus was referred to the Streets Committee of the City Council tonight, after two hours of speeches in favor of the resolution without a word spoken against it.

Speakers in favor of the resolution, one a Catholic and one a Protestant, demanded that the Utilities Committee, which recommended the resolution for rejection by a vote of 5 to 4, explain the adverse action. The three members of the committee present, Councilmen Miller, Tyler and Lane, remained silent. When Councilman English directed the question direct to Councilman Miller the latter replied that he had "voted his convictions."

Apparently the council was divided 9 to 9 on donating a site for the statue. Several Councilmen pressed for action without delay and a majority of those present were in favor of granting the petition.

The council chamber was crowded and the spectators flowed out into the hall, but there was no threat of disorder and the two policemen on hand were not needed.

Richmond has been laughing at the Utilities Committee ever since that body solemnly recommended the petition of the Italians be rejected. The committee acted, without comment, on the protest of 101 citizens who signed a petition asking that the statue not be erected.

The streets committee is scheduled to meet tomorrow night.

SUSPICIOUS BOXES FOUND.

Two on 3d Av. Elevated Turned Over to Combustibles Bureau.

Two mysterious boxes which the police thought might contain explosives were found early this morning on the Third Avenue Elevated and were turned over to the police. A trackwalker found one box, leather-covered, at the Eighty-ninth Street Station and the second, a wooden box, was found at the Ninety-ninth Street Station.

Two inspectors of the Bureau of Combustibles of the Fire Department later claimed them and their contents will be investigated today.

BOTH ARE SMUGGLED IN

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 1.—The British Communist Party, which is holding its annual meeting in Glasgow, demonstrated today that it had defeated the Scotland police authorities in their attempt to prevent foreign Communist delegates from entering the country.

Dr. Stocker, a member of the German Reichstag, and Mlle. Marcelle Lebel, representing the French Communists, made a dramatic appearance on the platform, delivered speeches despite the Home Secretary's attempt to keep them out of the country, and after being soundly cheered, succeeded in escaping from the building as mysteriously as they entered.

To expedite their flight, their supporters and all others were kept in the hall for an hour after they had left. When the police did begin to look for Dr. Stocker and Mlle. Lebel they could not find any trace of them, although all roads and railway stations were closely watched.

It is understood that Stocker has been in Glasgow for the last ten days, but that Mlle. Lebel only arrived in Glasgow today.

"If the British Government thinks," said Dr. Stocker in his speech, "by such petty means to prevent the representatives of one section of the International from coming to meet those of another and that they can stop the British revolution they are childish and absurd."

Mlle. Lebel, who is dark and of ample build, was neatly attired in a black and white suit. She said jubilantly:

"Despite many ingenuous police ambushes we have managed after all to arrive. Whatever may happen the Communist parties of the world will always succeed in communicating with one another."

Her statement that four Fascists had been shot in France also aroused much enthusiasm.

BOSTON, June 1. (AP)—Secretary of War Weeks, after a restless twenty-four hours, was more comfortable this evening than Sunday evening, when his physicians had described his condition as "not entirely satisfactory." They issued this bulletin tonight:

"Secretary Weeks was more comfortable this afternoon and his condition tonight was improved. Pulse 90, Temperature normal.

"DANIEL FISK JONES,
"F. GORHAM BRIGHAM."

Secretary Weeks was operated on for gallstones last week at the Massachusetts General Hospital and his convalescence had been favorable until yesterday. At no time has his condition been considered alarming.

SAY ARMY EXPENSE CUT MEANS CUTTING FORCE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Acting Secretary of War Davis today declined to comment for publication on the suggestion of President Coolidge that a survey be made in the War Department with a view to a substantial reduction in expenditures.

It was learned in responsible quarters, however, that any reduction in the appropriations for the War Department hereby would mean a reduction of the regular army, the National Guard, or the reserves, and possibly a reduction of all three. The War Department, it was stated, is at present doing its utmost to carry out the provisions of the national defense act with what it declared to be the inadequate means at its disposal.

The army has been living on surplus property and supplies almost since the end of the World War, it was declared, and at present has practically no reserve supplies, though it is regarded as vital that such adequate reserves be maintained.

Most of the war stocks have now been used up, and they will virtually have disappeared by 1927. New appropriations will then be necessary, it is declared, if the War Department is to have a reserve stock, or even if it is to maintain itself at its present status.

PATERSON, N. J., June 1.—A meeting to protest against the conviction of Roger M. Baldwin, Director of the American Civil Liberties Union, sentenced to six months' imprisonment last October, will be held in the High School on Thursday night. The meeting is sponsored by the American Civil Liberties Union and the Associated Silk Workers of America. Chief of Police John M. Tracey said today he would have the meeting amply policed.

64 YOUNGSTERS VIE FOR MARBLE TITLE

Only Girl in Annual Contest Has Fighting Chance for Place in the Finals.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 1.—Sixty-four entrants, winners in local competitions in as many different cities in twenty-four States and the District of Columbia, began play today in the third annual United States marble championship tournament here on the beach.

The popular favorite in the field is the only girl, she is Marie Lawley of Harrisburg, Pa., where she defeated more than 1,000 to qualify for the national tournament. Marie will be thirteen this month and attends high school. In her suede purse, with her marbles, was a four-leaf clover and a rabbit's foot to bring her luck.

The 64 cities are bracketed into 8 leagues. The winners in each set will be decided Wednesday. The survivors then engage in an elimination round for the much coveted national championship which will be determined Friday.

Marie Lawley was drawn in the Eastern League, which tonight finds Russell Hamilton of Philadelphia in the lead, with 6 games won and 3 lost, in the opening day's schedule. Marie is second, with 5 games won and 4 lost, which still gives her a fighting opportunity to go into the finals.

George Lenox of Baltimore, last year's champion, came out strong for Southern courtesy today. "If Billy Knauff, the Baltimore boy, doesn't win this year's championship I hope it goes to Marie Lawley," said George.

Charles Stock of Trenton leads in the Atlantic League, which also comprises Newark, Camden, Passaic, Binghamton, Buffalo, Syracuse and Bridgeport, Conn.

Talking About Surety Bonds to City of New York!

Few people realize the very important,—indeed serious nature of the obligation surety companies assume when they guarantee the performance of construction contracts with the City of New York.

A few years ago, this Company (with an associate) became surety on the bond given by a well-known contracting company, guaranteeing the construction of the great Shandakan Tunnel. This contract covered, among other things, blasting a tunnel through solid rock more than eighteen miles long and almost wide enough to drive through it two automobiles side by side. The total amount of the contract was $13,000,000.

When the work was less than 20% completed, the contractor was compelled to discontinue. His financial resources were inadequate to overcome the tremendous increase in the price of labor and material brought about by War conditions, and this Company and its associate had guaranteed to the Board of Water Supply that the contractor would fully perform the contract for the sum of approximately $13,000,000 and failure on the part of the contractor so to do would require the sureties to cause it to be done or pay the amount of their bond. Other contractors were invited to submit estimates for the completion of the unfinished work. They estimated that the cost would be $3,000,000 more than the original contractor was to receive for completing. The bond of the National Surety Company and its associate was $850,000. If paid, and the surety retired, the loss to the City of New York would have been not less than $2,150,000. The National Surety Company and its associate decided, in the interest of all concerned, that it would be best to have the contract completed by the surety companies. This was done and the work was completed nearly a year ahead of time and the City of New York was actually, by the surety action, saved $2,150,000 and the sureties saved $850,000. But above all other things it saved the City of New York from what appeared to be the prospect of a very serious water famine.

The value of surety bonds guaranteeing the performance of contracts, when such sureties have the willingness and the ability to fulfill their obligations, is annually proven by this and thousands of other cases.

On contract bond losses, the National Surety Company alone has paid out in the last five years approximately $7,000,000.

It would be of distinct advantage to owners contemplating building operations to request their architects to insert a provision in the contract that a "bond of the National Surety Company must be given to guarantee the faithful performance" of such contracts.

ENDLESS CAVERNS BAFFLE EXPLORERS

New York Party Forced to Turn Back in Trip Through Virginian Cave.

FOUND PALEOZOIC FOSSILS

His Graptolite, of Clemacograptus Family, Dr. Reeds Estimates, Lived 500,000,000 Years Ago.

A midnight journey into the depths of the earth, where, crawling along the winding tunnel of a subterranean stream, his party came upon caverns and corridors of brilliant hued, grotesquely shaped stone, on a water fall that made no noise, and the remains of creatures who lived at the beginning of the world, was recounted yesterday by Dr. Chester A. Reeds, Associate Curator in charge of the Department of Geology of the American Museum of Natural History.

Dr. Reeds headed a party which went recently from the Explorers' Club, including Horace D. Ashton, Merle Lavor, Major E. T. Brown and Gordon Brown. Its objective was to penetrate to the extremity of Endless Caverns, near New Market, Va. He admitted upon his return to New York yesterday that they failed of that objective. But failed gloriously, he held, for they had set foot on ground that no human beings, so far as is known, had ever trod. This ground, now a mile and a half from daylight, he declared, was hilly upland territory millions of years before Adam, and was Atlantic Ocean bed aeons before that.

Starting from "King Solomon's Temple," the farthest spot within the cave labyrinth to which the public is allowed to go, the party of five men, equipped with tallow candles and tin reflectors, set out at 10 P. M. on the night of May 25. By midnight they had progressed only a few hundred yards. Sometimes they could walk along the smooth limestone bed of the Endless Cavern River. At other times they climbed along precarious ledges, several feet above the stream. The light of their candles threw ahead wierd shadows of the countless stalactites and stalagmites that lined the way. Sawdust thrown on the subterranean stream appeared fifteen hours later in a near-by spring outside the cave.

In places the river ran through mere holes in the solid limestone, and here it was necessary for the men to get down in the water on hands and knees, and, holding their candles above their heads, crawl slowly along until again the cavern opened up.

Many-Colored Rocks.

The rock formations were of many hues, ranging from pale yellow through pinks, deep reds and purples, to pale blues. Dr. Reeds referred to some of the caverns through which the explorers passed as indescribably beautiful.

After progressing one-third of a mile along the winding path of the hidden river, the party came to a large pool. It was in the cavern surrounding this pool that the startling discoveries of the trip were made, the silent waterfall, and the fossils preserved for millions of years.

At the far end of the pool the waterfall was discovered. It was 15 feet high. By flowing over the edge of limestone for thousands of years, the water had built a curved surface down which it descended. Due to this and to the porous nature of the stone, not a sound was emitted.

Fossil of a Trilobite.

In the course of a candle-light examination of the rock shelves about the pool, Dr. Reeds came across the fossilized tail of a triobite, a deep sea creature which Dr. Reeds estimates lived about 500,000,000 years ago.

No such animal exists today, he said, although the horse shoe crab was not unlike it. Another find was the fossilized remains of a graptolite, a little creature looking much like a tiny jigsaw blade. This particular graptolite was of the genus clemacograptus. The limestone of the whole region, Dr. Reeds declared, was made up of the shells of these bryozoa or molluscidae. They were of the Ordovician period of the Paleozoic Age, he said, and explained that this meant that they dated back to the earliest days of the world.

Being unable to pass the silent waterfall with any surety of getting back again, the party placed in an empty bottle a message reading:

"Whoever shall find this memorandum will kindly forward it to the American Museum of Natural History, New York City. Take this bottle farther if you can." The explorers signed their names.

Brooklyn Legion Opens Drive.

The American Legion in Brooklyn yesterday opened its drive to raise $400,000, the quota assigned to it in the country-wide campaign for $5,000,000 for disabled veterans and the children and dependents of deceased veterans. The opening event took place on the steps of Borough Hall. Former Sheriff Peter S. Seery, Commissioner of Public Works James J. Byrne, Surrogate George W. Wingate and Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett made speeches.

NEGRO QUESTIONED ON KANE MURDER

to come to my office today, but they cannot get here unti tomorrow."

A pair of boy's gray knickers upon which were several strands of blond hair and red stains were turned over to the District Attorney by Samuel Plotkin, a tailor, of 1,063 Rutland Road, four blocks from the scene of the crime. The same suit was turned over to detectives at the Empire Boulevard Station last Saturday afternoon and after tests they were convinced that the hair was "combings" and the stains merely paint or fruit juice. Mr. Dodd said that he would subject the stains to chemical analysis.

Puts Little Faith in the Clue.

Plotkin told the District Attorney that the suit had been left with him for dry cleaning by a boy, about 15 years old, on Saturday. He said that an attempt had been made to erase the stains by washing. When Plotkin read that Miss Kane had long blond hair he decided to let the police know about the hair and the stains on the knickers. While Mr. Dodd did not rely very much on the value of the "clue," he said that he would investigate everything in connection with the murder that came to his attention.

Mr. Dodd, accompanied by Dr. J. J. A. O'Reilly and Detective James F. Kane, brother of the victim, went over the scene of the murder late in the afternoon.

Detectives under Captain McCloskey, again questioning persons living near the lot, talked to Mrs. Mary Rogers of 33 Ford Street. From a window in her home she can obtain a view of the vacant lot where the murder was committed. She said that at 12:40 o'clock Friday morning she heard screams—as did other neighbors—and then cries of "Mamma! Mamma!" She looked out but saw nothing in the darkness. She awakened her daughter, Mildred, 12 years old, and told her about the cries. As she was telling the girl the cries were repeated. Both failed to see anything out in the dim lot.

The funeral of the slain girl will be held today. There will be a requiem mass at 10 o'clock in St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Church, Eastern Parkway and Utica Avenue. Interment will be in Holy Cross Cemetery. Detectives will mingle with the crowd at the funeral.

SPEEDING BISHOP PAYS HIS FINE IN DELAWARE

Special to The New York Times.

LAUREL, Del., June 1.—Bishop Philip Cook of the Delaware Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church, who was arrested here last week on a charge of speeding, instead of appearing for trial today sent Justice Spicer a check covering a $25 fine and costs, with a letter thanking Justice Spicer for his courtesy, but strongly repudiating the charge of reckless driving, as testified to by Patrolman Wardell, road policeman.

The Bishop's letter, delivered to Justice Spicer by the Rev. Dr. Whitehead, rector of St. Phillip's Church here, reads:

My Dear Justice Spicer:

"Enclosed please find my check to cover the fine for the charge brought against me by Traffic Officer Wardell, for driving in excess of the limit of thirty-five miles on the highway.

"You were good enough to continue the case until Monday but what I thought might happen has happened—the matter has been taken up by the press and given wide publicity in this State and elsewhere. Under the circumstances I feel it would be very unfortunate, even if you were willing to remit the fine, to do so. However unfairly that judgment might be, there might result the feeling that partiality had been shown, or that the law was laxily enforced. For this reason I prefer to pay the fine without further consideration of the case.

"At the same time I must still repudiate the charge of reckless driving and plead guilty only of exceeding the prescribed limit. There was no car in sight upon the road and no life or limbs in danger. I feel the officer would have done all that the case required had he warned and reprimanded me. But since he insisted on making a case of it, this is the best way to bring it to a conclusion.

"I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for your courtesy and consideration in handling the case."

SAYS RENT WAS $3,600 ON A $10,000 INCOME

Defendant in Tax Fraud Trial Also Had a $6,600 Auto—Declares It Was Gift.

Testimony ended yesterday in the trial of Charles J. Steinberg before Federal Judge Knox and a jury, on an indictment charging perjury in making a fraudulent income tax return for 1921. The case is expected to go to the jury today.

The cross-examination of Steinberg by Federal Prosecutor Maxwell S. Mattuck, brought from the witness an admission that in 1920 and 1921, hundreds of thousands of dollars had been paid to lawyers to get applications approved for the withdrawal of liquors, and that besides the Cardo and Reliance drug stores he also had a $10,000 interest in the Long Island and West End Drug Companies.

The purpose of an interest in so many drug concerns, it was explained, was to gain the privilege of larger liquor withdrawals. Questioned concerning his manner of living in the period covered by the tax return, the witness said he paid $6,600 a year rent for his apartment in West End Avenue, andn had bought an automobile which cost $6,600. The witness had sworn that his net income for 1921 was only $10,000 while the Government claims it was about $1,500,000.

When it was pointed out that his rent and the cost of the automobile exceeded the income he had sworn to, the witness stated that the automobile was given to him by his father.

Mr. Mattuck read from a list the names of many prohibition enforcement agents who were in office in 1921, and asked the witness if he knew any of them. The witness admitted that he knew three of them, but denied paying any of them any money.

PRINCESS LUNCHEON GUEST

Mme. Alexandrine Cantacuzene Entertained at Whitehall Club.

Princess Alexandrine Cantacuzene, who was one of those representing Rumania at the International Counsel of Women's Convention recently held in Washington and was elected Vice President, was the principal guest at a luncheon which Mrs. Bausmann gave yesterday at the Whitehall Club, on the Whitehall Building roof. Princess Cantacuzene, who is visiting this country for the first time, returned only two days ago from a trip to California.

Others in the luncheon party included Miss Catherine Cerkez, also of the Rumanian delegation to the convention; Mme. Odette de Arnaud and Mme. Madeline Heimann.

Princess Cantacuzene will sail on La Savoie on Thursday, while in the city she is devoting much of her time to observing social welfare organizations activities.

M. Perrier, French Deputy Consul, escorted Princess Cantacuzene and a party of friends last night on a visit to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 1.—A curious incident of a canon contradicting a Bishop from the same pulpit occurred yesterday at Brighton.

In the morning Bishop Barnes of Birmingham, well known as a scientist and the only Fellow of the Royal Society on the Episcopal bench, preaching before the Royal Institute of Public Health, advocated birth control.

"Human welfare," he said, "is now menaced by human fecundity. The change from large to small families is not to be impatiently condemned. Victories in medicine and hygiene may be disastrous for public welfare unless the desire for many children, which is natural and until recently laudable, is held in check."

In the evening the vicar of Brighton, Canon F. C. N. Hicks, said he owed it to the people of his congregation and Brighton at large to announce he disagreed profoundly with the Bishop's teaching.

Bishop Barnes was not preaching in the diocese of which he is the Bishop, and was therefore expressing merely an individual opinion without carrying the authority of the Church. The canon would say nothing on the value of the Bishop's words as contributions to the discussions of the Public Health Institute and had no wish to foreclose the discussion in its proper place, but he intended himself, he said, to abide by the Church and its teaching.

The canon added that he told the Bishop he should make some such statement and the Bishop accepted the position fully and generously.

BRITAIN TO SET UP FOOD COMMISSION

Prime Minister Announces Plan for a Permanent Check on Prices and Supplies.

SEEKS CURE FOR SOCIALISM

Industries Must Achieve Higher Efficiency to Survive Present Crisis, He Declares.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 1. — Prime Minister Baldwin, addressing a mass meeting of Conservatives at Welbeck Abbey tonight, announced that the Government proposed, as a result of the Food Commission's recommendations, to set up a permanent food council to watch prices and supplies. The council will be of representative character and will study the problem of food prices where the commission left off. It will be charged with the duties of watching prices and supplies of the principal foodstuffs, advising the Government on all food questions, examining complaints and making public from time to time in periodical reports important facts about food prices.

If experience shows compulsory powers are necessary, the Government will not hesitate to ask Parliament for any powers that may be required.

"The Government proposes to consult representatives of local authorities and if they are satisfied that the system of registration of butchers would be practical and in the interests of the consumer, it would invite its food council to report as to conditions of registration and grounds on which registration should be cancelled or temporarily suspended.

"The Government has adopted the recommendation of the food commissioners that cold storage proprietors should be required to furnish statistics of food in cold storage.

"Describing the Government's social program which is designed to attack causes of unrest upon which socialism thrives, Mr. Baldwin said:

"It is not socialism and the extreme movements of socialism that I will waste my time in denouncing, it is the causes, it is the evils that create these things, that I am out to attack, because these evil doctrines are really begotten of a sense of social injustice and out of ignorance and it is our duty to dispel both, and therefore we want for our people better education, better housing and insurance against the worst hazards of life and we want to see more widely diffused possession and investment in capital. Doctrines preached today in regard to capitalism are misleading and mischievous because capital is only our savings—savings of the rich and poor alike. We cannot get on without it, we want as much as we can get and we want it cheap. Achievements and improvements have come in this country with cheapness and growth of the amount and extent of capital and we want to learn that you can dissipate and waste the capital of the country just as much by indulging in strife at home as you can by waging war in France and Flanders," by waging war in France and Flanders."

The Premier in conclusion dwelt on the industrial situation. He mentioned that while many industries are carrying on not without success, four of the greatest industries in this country—the coal trade, iron and steel trades, shipbuilding and engineering—are going through the cruellest times they ever experienced, and he appealed for more efficiency and scrapping of old methods.

"I should like to feel certain," he said, "that all those who are directing industry have come to realise that we are in a different world from the world before the war, that we are up against the keenest competition that we ever have been up against, and that unless we can sell our goods to meet that competition we shall not sell them at all. To do that, it many ways we shall have to throw aside old methods and practices. Businesses in the same trade will have to come together, they will have to concentrate on modern plant, they will have to scrap old methods, and nothing but the using of the best brains among them and the best endeavors on the part of all concerned will enable us to pull through these times. There is no room today in England for the wrecker or slacker.

"I want to harness some of the enthusiasm that is about for international peace to our home problems. I want all the whole of our party wants unity in place of discord and cooperation in place of antagonism. Without peace in our country, without peace in our hearts, without the will to peace and the will to cooperate, and the will to work, we can never have that moral power which will enable us to impose on the world at large that peace which it is yearning for, which it desires and which it must have."

TWO AUTO DEATHS REVEAL ROMANCE

CRASH NEAR NEW HAVEN

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 1.—Full identification today of the victims of the fatal automobile accident near Woodmont early this morning as Helen Barnes, a Ziegfeld Follies girl, and John M. Griffin, a Sheffield Scientific School junior, brought to light a hidden romance involving the couple. Griffin's friends related that he was in love with the woman and wanted to marry her, in spite of the fact that she was six years his senior. From her relatives came a statement that a Princeton graduate of New York City, whose name they withheld, was also deeply in love with her.

The couple were almost instantly killed at a point between this city and Bridgeport. Griffin's high-powered machine was traveling at a terrific rate of speed and at a curve near the so-called Alms property it first struck a machine driven by Gerald Casey, who was accompanied by David Rosenthal, also of this city. Then Griffin's car struck a machine driven by Irvin Weiner of Westhaven, who tried to turn off the turnpike and evade the onrushing car. After this collision Griffin's machine turned over four times before it tore through a fence, careened off a boulder and rolled into the gutter.

The drivers of several cars who went not far behind extricated the bodies from the wreckage with difficulty. Miss Barnes in death was clinging tightly to Griffin.

Casey and Rosenthal, when examined by Coroner Mix, admitted that the car they drove did not belong to them, and they were held for operating an automobile without a license. Friends of Griffin insist that the accident was caused by the Casey-Rosenthal car swerving to the wrong side of the road.

Griffin and another Yale junior had spent the evening at the home of Miss Barnes and her sister at Woodmont and the pair had decided to run up to East Haven to one of the all-night lunch stands for a round of "hot dogs."

Miss Barnes was the daughter of William Barnes, a New Haven typewriter dealer, and had been on the stage several years. She lived in West Ninety-eighth Street, New York.

Griffin stood high in scholarship. He was a non-drinker but Coroner Mix found liquor in the wrecked automobile. Griffin is the son of a Fort Wayne, Indiana, manufacturer.

LEWIS COMES BACK TO WRITE NEW TALE

Author of "Arrowsmith" Says He Found Europeans Eager for American Writings.

Sinclair Lewis, the American novelist, who returned from an eight months' vacation in Europe on the Hamburg-American liner Albert Ballin yesterday morning, said in an interview last night at the Great Northern Hotel that the most surprising literary development in Europe was the sudden interest in modern American writers evinced by the people in Germany and Austria.

"I found all over Germany and Austria an intense interest in American literature," declared the author of "Babbitt," "Main Street" and "Arrowsmith." "Wherever I went I was asked by journalists, bankers, business men, teachers, artists, writers and the man on the street in Vienna, Munich and Berlin, 'Who are your authors? What are the names of your best-recent books?'

"They want novels which represent modern America, they want to read our fiction and our poetry. I found that they all knew about Carl Sandburg, Vachel Lindsay, Hergesheimer, Mencken, Theodore Dreiser, Jack London, Sherwood Anderson and, of course, Walt Whitman. In Munich Kurt Wooiff, the publisher, is planning to bring out a series of American novels."

Mr. Lewis warmly denied that he had ever described Americans as "pigs" on the occasion of his return from abroad last year. "I never used such an expression and the whole interview was a fake," he said.

Mr. Lewis declared that he found more vitality in American authors than in any new writing upon the Continent, with the exception of England, where he said there is much splendid writing. He also found signs of some literary vigor in Germany, but a dearth of it in Italy, France and Austria.

experience as an Irish volunteer fighting on the hillsides of Ireland. He declared he was a soldier and not a politician, and added that it was the interference of politicians that always brought discord.

His work as a soldier began in 1917 and he rose in rank until at the time of the treaty that established the Free States he was Chief of Staff of the Volunteers.

"My blood has run red for Ireland," he said. "I have led hunger strikes and for two years I did not sleep for two nights in any one house. A handful of men with little arms forbed England to make a treaty. We were prepared to go on, but we had to consider the women and children of Ireland who had suffered through the years. I took an oath to help establish the Irish Republic. I have been loyal to that oath and please God I will continue to be true.

"We are not King's soldiers. I am a soldier of Ireland commissioned by our President. Unfortunately everybody did not agree as to the treaty and we had a civil war. You do not realize what that meant to us. It was said to us and said to me."

In introducing General O'Duffy Colonel Phelan said that the regiment hoped that Ireland would be guided to her freedom. "It is the dearest wish of our hearts," he said.

Decorations were awarded at the review to the following members of the regiment:

Regimental Sergeant Patrick J. McEvoy, for twenty-five years' service.

Staff Sergeant Michael J. Murphy, for twenty years' service.

Captain Richard J. Allen, Adjutant; Staff Sergeant Patrick Hedderman, Second Battery; Staff Sergeant James Quinland, Service Company; First Sergeant Richard E. Rodgers, Company I; Private Michael F. Kelley, Service Company, all for fifteen years' service.

First Lieut. Frank M. Murray and Private Irving Tilson, both of Company M, received decorations for recruiting service.

O'Duffy Found Need for Clubs.

General O'Duffy, who as a degegate here to the International Police Conference, told how Irish policemen go about unarmed and without even a nightstick and advocated similar regulations for policemen everywhere, was a guest Sunday at Celtic Park, the famous Irish playground of New York. Soon he was the centre of a surging crowd of admirers who wanted to shake his hand.

The crowd and the surging increased. Suddenly a man who said later he was William Taggart, 31 years old, of 156 West Thirty-seventh Street, fell, crying he had been kicked, and in a moment the crowd which sought to shake General O'Duffy's hand was in a free-for-all fight, with the General in the midst of it.

Patrolman Wesley Juber of the Hunters Point Precinct had a club, but the jam was too great for one policeman and one club. He telephoned for reserves, who came from two precincts in patrol wagons, and, aided by clubs, they first rescued the General and then called an ambulance for Taggart, who was taken to St. John's Hospital.

Patrick O'Donohue, 31, of 126 Celtic Avenue, Laurel Hill, Queens, was arrested on the charge of felonious assault and was held by Magistrate Doyle in the Long Island Police Court in $1,000 bail for examination Wednesday. Taggart, who suffered serious injury, is expected to appear against him.

COAST GUARDSMEN QUIT THE DRY FLEET

Nine Say the Work Is Too Hard and Perilous, and Will Not Re-enlist.

MORE ARE EXPECTED TO GO

Reports of Bootleg Offers—Liquor Ring Orders Fast Armored Ships.

Nine members of the Coast Guard attached to Base 2, Staten Island, quit the service yesterday, and 100 more are expected to leave when their enlistments expire on July 1. It was reported, but not confirmed, that bootleggers were offering inducements to other members of the Coast Guard to abandon the task of chasing rum-runners.

Those who left the service yesterday had served two years. They said they were not re-enlisting because they had not had enough shore liberty since the present crusade against the rum fleet started. After spending twenty-one days at sea, they said, they had received only forty-eight hours' shore leave. Those who had served on small boats also said their lives had been jeopardised from machine-gun fire from rum runners, and that they had to chase whisky boats into shoal waters, where there was serious risk of running ashore. They denied they had been approached by bootleggers.

It was learned yesterday that a big New York bootlegging ring had given orders to a shipyard in the metropolitan district for the construction of a fleet of armored rum-runners as fast as the famous Cigarette. As soon as these boats were finished, it was predicted, they would go out and give the Coast Guard a battle. They will carry machine guns. Crews of rum-running ships are said to have refused to go out to sea since the blockade started unless they were afforded protection against Coast Guard fire.

The Cigarette, which can do forty-two knots an hour, was seized for the third time yesterday at a dry dock in Staten Island, charged with violation of the navigation laws. She was taken to the Battery. Her name had been painted out, and she had been repainted and refitted. She had bullet-proof windows. Customs officials said that it was a violation of the law to change the name of the ship without a permit. Edward Barnes, assistant solicitor of the legal division of the Customs Service, said that the owners of the Cigarette had recently canceled her yacht license and obtained a motorboat license at Bridgeport, Conn. An investigation is being made to learn her present owner.

The destroyer Cunningham of the dry navy returned to Staten Island yesterday, reporting that she had stopped a 400-horsepower speed boat leaving Egg Harbor Inlet for Rum Row last Saturday by firing a shot across her bow. The Coast Guard men found no liquor, but learned that the skipper had $1,200, which he said he had received for a cargo of fish. The destroyer could do nothing except keep the boat under surveillance until it returned to shore.

It was believed that the speed boat was trying to reach a three-masted schooner which has been lying off Atlantic City for almost a month. The crew of the cutter Seneca, which returned to Staten Island yesterday after a cruise to East Haven to one of the all-night lunch stands for a round of "hot dogs."

Many dry navy ships were anchored off Staten Island yesterday, and it was said that the task of maintaining the blockade had become much easier.

'WET' GRAND JURORS 'TRAITORS,' SAYS JUDGE

Philadelphia Jurist Warns New Body Against Ignoring Dry Law Violations.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—Grand Jurors who allow their prejudices to sway their decisions were branded as "traitors to the sanctity of their oaths" by Judge McDevitt today in charging the June Grand Jury, after a direct reference to the May and April Grand Juries, which ignored many liquor indictments.

The May Grand Jury last week in its report stated that a number of liquor indictments were ignored because the members were opposed to prohibition and were convinced public opinion was against its enforcement.

"We are being harrassed on all sides by a wave of unprecedented lawlessness, disrespect for the law, disregard for authority and contempt for an oath," Judge McDevitt declared.

"This is no time to advocate mitigating the rigors of the punishment of the criminal. This is the time to inject common sense into the treatment of the wilful violator of the law, the persistent desecration of the temple of justice.

SCHOONER'S CREW FREED.

Say They Are Fishermen and Resent Seizure by Coast Guard.

The nine men detained aboard the fishing schooner William A. Morse when the Coast Guard seized her on the charge of running without lights last Sunday, were released yesterday. Their ship was held pending investigation by the United States Attorney.

The crew denied they were rum-runners and denounced the Coast Guard men as "savage pirates" for interfering with their mackerel fishing. They said they were losing thousands of dollars while their ship was held.

Marco Manella, owner of the schooner, denied that he was engaged in supplying the rum fleet with food. He showed a small supply of canned goods, potatoes, bread, bacon, sugar and coffee, saying it would last his crew for only a week's fishing.

AUTO KILLS MOTHER OF FIVE

Driver, Arrested, Says She Stepped Into the Path of His Car.

Mrs. Caroline Durgi, 40 years old, of 3,233 Barnes Avenue, the Bronx, the mother of five children, was instantly killed at 10 o'clock last night by an automobile at White Plains Avenue and Rosewood Street, the Bronx. Joseph King, driver of the car, of 23 North Railroad Avenue, Mount Vernon, told Policeman Kehoe of the Wakefield Station, where he was charged with homicide, that the woman stepped from behind an "L" column in the path of his car.

Marion Tompkins, 20 years old, of Kitchawan, near Ossining, was killed in the afternoon when the automobile he was driving slipped over an embankment at Yorktown when he tried to avoid another automobile coming in the opposite direction.

Lawyer Sentenced to Sing Sing.

S. Charles Sugarman, 47 years old, a lawyer, who formerly had offices at 135 Nassau Street, was sentenced to from three to six years in Sing Sing yesterday by Judge Nott in General Sessions. Sugarman was convicted last week of forging the name of George Pratt Smith, nephew of the late James H. Henry (Silent) Smith, financier, to six notes, aggregating $35,600, as collateral for a loan of that amount from Samuel Berlin, a broker.

RIFFIANS BOMBARD FRENCH POSITIONS

SPANIARDS TO LAND SOON

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 1.—With a demonstration of considerable progress in the use of cannon, the Riff forces appear engaged in a movement for concentration in the region of Bibane. The French post there was subjected to a severe attack on the nights of May 30 and 31. The Riffians were repulsed, but occupation of the region by enemy forces constitutes an increasing menace to the loyal natives, whose supplies are in constant danger of being cut off from the north.

Toward the centre there is scattered fighting. The French yesterday successfully cleaned up the region of Bab Mizab and Koudia Sedrate. North of Montain Senadia, however, the Riffians, supported by a force of insurgents, are evidently assembling for an attack. They are believed to have 2,500 rifles at their disposal in the region of Moulay Ain Djenane.

What is worrying the French command most, however, is the increasing skill which the enemy is showing in the use of cannon. During the Bibane operations the Riffians executed a bombardment with Spanish 75s which, while not particularly destructive, revealed marked improvement over former performances from the viewpoint of accuracy of aim. In other sections in the same region the Riffians established a fortified front and strong entrenchments.

While the situation in the east remains calm, agitation and enemy propaganda proceeds at an unrelenting pace toward Loukhos and Rihana in the west. In the west insurgent forces, which attempted a coup in the region of Bibane were driven back inward the north. Concentration of enemy forces in this region nevertheless continues and the menace is not entirely eliminated. The French, however, believe possession of this part of the front is practically assured.

French intelligence officers in an attempt to ferret out promoters of the Moroccan agitation have interested themselves in the activity of a mysterious youth, 25 years old, who appears to have been one of Abd-el-Krim's leading agents. He is believed to be of German nationality. He came to Fez in October last, posing as the nephew of Abdel-Krim and an ardent Francophile. Suddenly he disappeared and in April turned up a Casablanca, where he conferred with Spanish Communists. Now he is believed to be in Hamburg seeking support of a material nature for Abd-el-Krim's campaign.

Spaniards to Make a Landing.

MARSEILLES, June 1 (AP).—Military observers arriving here from Morocco state the Spanish are making new efforts to subjugate the Riffian tribesmen by dropping large quantities of bombs on the newly sown land and upon the ripening crops of barley and wheat in the vicinity of Alhucemas Bay. Every day since May 26 air squadrons have left Melilla for the Alhucemas district, but the aviators report their efforts seemingly have had little effect, as the Riffians worked calmly in their fields both before and after the aerial attacks.

When the aerial bombing begins in preparation for the proposed Spanish campaign in the Alhucemas district, planes carrying gas bombs will fly back and forth between Melilla and Tetuan. Those leaving Melilla will make their attacks and then proceed to Tetuan, replenishing their supply of bombs and returning the following day to Alhucemas, and then to their base at Melilla. The planes from Tetuan will reverse this operation.

The date for the opening of the major Spanish operation, the landing on the shores of Alhucemas Bay, has not yet been fixed, or at least has not been made public; but it is expected within ten or fifteen days.

Weeks of aerial activities have preceded the movement, and all assistance possible will be given the army to make the campaign a success. A large number of small warships will partially blockade the coastline, closely approaching the shore line in the Alhucemas Bay, which practically will be closed. When the moment for landing arrives these vessels will spread a curtain of fire under the cover of which two groups of regular native troops will land from rafts.

The Spanish effort will be directed toward the commanding heights of Morro Nuevo, which it is hoped will be quickly occupied. Then forced advances will be made into the heart of the Beni Urriaguel country, five battalions of the Foreign Legion being utilized. These advanced troops will be supported by two or three battalions of the newly organized African riflemen and by battalions of marines.

A fully organized brigade of mechanized troops is expected to arrive from Almeria, where a steamship company has received orders to concentrate a number of transports on June 5.

Spanish military leaders first planned to land on the beach of Suani, in the center of the Alhucemas Bay shore line, but this presented considerable difficulty because of the excellent defensive position maintained by the Riffians at this point. Consequently the plan was changed to effect a landing at Morro Nuevo, at the northwest point of the bay.

Meanwhile there are many reports of a possible political arrangement between the Spanish and the Riffs. In return for sufficiently large payments of money, it is said, the Riffian leaders will merely make a show of resistance to the Spanish landing, in order to maintain their prestige with the tribesmen.

SAY BROOKHART FORCES ARE LEAVING SENATOR

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Friends of President Coolidge have informed the President that the Northwest is going through a readjustment that insures its return to the Republican fold in the Congressional elections of next year.

Chairman Butler has received reports from Iowa that many Brookhart and La Follette leaders in Iowa who left the party in 1924 have fallen in line behind the candidacy of Albert B. Cummins to succeed himself as Senator. Dania Pierce, publisher of Farm Facts, who handled the La Follette campaign in Iowa last year, is one of those mentioned as having decided to return to the party.

The Cummins people assert that the desertion of former friends will force Mr. Brookhart to play a lone hand in Iowa politics in the future.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Senator Brookhart of Iowa, spoke here tonight at the opening of the Illinois Progressives' campaign of reorganization.

He told his hearers that the Republican Party had failed to live up to its platform promise of relief for the farmer. He wanted to establish, he said, a Government export corporation which would fix the export price of farm products, and thus domestic prices as well.

OPPOSE 11 ARTICLES IN ARMS BAN DRAFT

Subcommissions Urge Dropping One on Shipment Sanction and Ten Covering Search of Vessels

AMERICAN LEADS ATTACK

Delegate Says Country Cannot Enter Into Treaty on Pretext to Punish a Sovereign State.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, June 1.—Recommendations were made by the Legal and Military Commissions this morning to eliminate eleven more articles from the draft of the convention for the control of the international trade in arms. The articles deal with sanctions and wartime zones.

The United States member of the Legal Commission made an eloquent attack on Article 12, dealing with sanctions, and declared it had no place in the convention.

The unluckily numbered article provides that when a nation in a prohibited zone has to transport arms across the territory of another State it must obtain the authority of that State and give guarantees that the arms will not be used illicitly. Any violation would be punished by concerted action of the bordering States to prevent further importation of arms.

The American delegate explained that the United States could not admit in the treaty rights any State under any pretext to form a combination to punish a sovereign State.

The Military Commission of the conference this morning accepted and passed on to the Geographic Commission the recommendation of the naval subcommission to terminate Chapter 2 containing ten articles dealing with wartime supervision. This problem was originally placed in the hands of the Geographic Commission, which asked the advice of the Military Commission, which in turn constituted a special subcommission to deal with it. As written in the draft of the convention, the articles provide for the prohibition of arms shipments to certain types of vessels, the search of vessels for illicit arms and procedure by seizure, trial and appeal.

The British and Italian delegates made a strong appeal for the provisions of this chapter in the first days of the conference. It was pointed out that Britain had a great deal of trouble in the Near East with arms because of contraband trade in arms which she was forced to control in a roundabout manner due to lack of an international convention permitting the search of vessels known to be carrying arms illicitly.

Since the chapter reached the subcommittee there has been a daily conflict as the British fought valiantly for paragraph after paragraph. In the hands of the subcommissions the draft of the convention dwindled to perhaps half its original size. It is true that the deletions of the subcommissions were only recommendations, but recommendations will carry great weight, and the subcommissions seem to find it easier to suggest eliminations than does the general committee, where forty-four delegations are sitting under the spotlight of publicity.

American journalists will be especially happy over the return of plenary sessions, as all the commission and subcommission sessions have been secret. Arms delegates still feel they will conclude their work Saturday.

WANTS LESS DEBT TALK.

Publisher, Back From Europe, Says Comment Embarrasses Statesmen.

R. J. Cuddihy, publisher of The Literary Digest, who returned with his wife and two daughters yesterday on the Albert Ballin of the Hamburg-American Line from an extended tour of Europe, declined to comment on the French debt situation. "If each American," he said, "who goes to Europe sets himself up as a judge there cannot but be a great deal of embarrassment for those who are officially in charge of the problem, and the least embarrassments caused to our representatives in Washington, the better for ourselves as well as for the foreign nations."

Mr. Cuddihy reached Berlin the day following the election of Hindenburg and said that the flag of the old imperialistic régime clearly overshadowed that of the republic.

"The questioned Germans of all classes with whom I came in contact," Mr. Cuddihy said, "as to what they thought of the election of the veteran Field Marshal and all of them gave the same reply to it, namely, I couldn't find a man who would admit that he had voted for Hindenburg, and yet all seemed to be contented with the result. It was one of the most unusual political paradoxes I have ever witnessed."

Another passenger on the Albert Ballin was Frederic C. Howe, former United States Immigration Commissioner at Ellis Island.

to the Willard and left cards for Mrs. Marshall.

President Sends Condolences.

The President's letter to Mrs. Marshall was as follows:

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Washington, June 1, 1925.

My Dear Mrs. Marshall:

Just this moment the shocking intelligence has come to me of the death of your distinguished husband, and I hasten to express to you not only my deep sympathy and condolence but the real sense of personal loss.

Mr. Marshall's long and notable public service both in Indiana and as Vice President for eight years had won for him recognition for high character and exceptional abilities. Beyond this, and something that he would have prized even more dearly, he had drawn to himself a truly remarkable power of friendships and friendships extending to every part of the nation, and beyond it. His delightful fund of humor illuminated a philosophy of life and affairs that had made for him a unique place among public men. He leaves a place that there is none to occupy.

Mrs. Coolidge joins in my expression of sorrow and sympathy to you and yours in this time of your bereavement. Most sincerely yours,

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Mrs. Thomas Riley Marshall, the New Willard Hotel, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Marshall made periodical visits to Washington, usually to attend to legal business, and always made it a practice to pay his respects to the President. He had intended to come here in April to attend the fortieth anniversary dinner of the Gridiron Club, and was to have been one of the speakers, but was prevented from making the journey by illness. The postponed visit was made with the intention of disposing of them, but he had been unable to leave his hotel room since his arrival here last week.

Won Popularity in Washington.

In the eight years he spent in Washington as Vice President, Mr. Marshall came into great personal popularity. His genial manner, his homely philosophy, his common sense and his refusal to regard himself as different from other persons on account of the high office he held, combined to make him hundreds of friends of all political tendencies. He and Mrs. Marshall were sought constantly as guests of honor at notable private dinners, and the then Vice President's anecdotal story-telling ability enlivened many a company.

During the deadlock over the Presidential nomination in the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco in 1920, Mr. Marshall's name was suggested as a happy compromise, and his qualifications were pressed vigorously by the delegation from Indiana. He declined to believe that the movement was serious, however, and rather amused some of the Indiana politicians by this attitude.

He would not be a candidate for the Presidential nomination, holding that the office should seek the man, and showed an absence of vanity and activity in behalf of his own political fortunes that puzzled many politicians and annoyed some, but added to the affection in which he was held by his personal friends and increased his popularity among the people.

When President Wilson was stricken in the Autumn of 1919 and the knowledge spread that he was incapacitated for performing Executive duties, efforts were made to induce Vice President Marshall to assume the Presidential office under the constitutional provision for the period of the President's disability. He flatly refused, and made it clear that he would not sanction any suggestion of that character, unless it came from those closest to Mr Wilson and was coupled with their insistence that it was essential to the public interest.

Tributes Paid to Marshall.

When told of Mr. Marshall's death, Secretary Kellogg made this statement, in which he said:

"He was a man of sterling ability and the highest character and won the respect of every one whom he knew. His death will be universally mourned by the American people."

Senator Swanson of Virginia, an old friend of the former Vice President, said:

"I never knew a person of more attractive personality, kinder and sweeter disposition. He possessed preeminently all noble and attractive personal qualities.

"It was conceded on both sides of the Senate chamber that he was one of our best, fairest and ablest presiding officers. He was beloved and respected alike by Democrats and Republicans in the Senate."

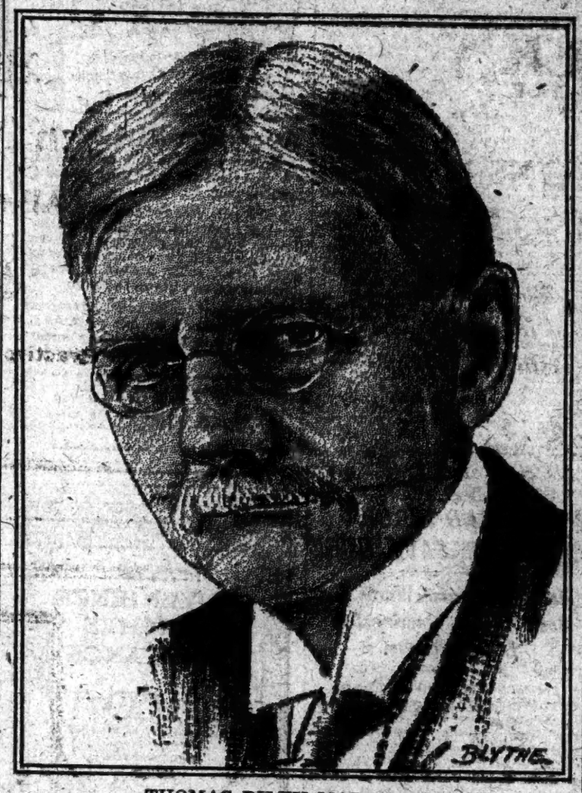
MARSHALL'S STATE SHOCKED.

Indiana Friends Had Hoped for His Recovery.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 1 (AP).—News of the death of Thomas R. Marshall at Washington came as a shock to his home State. His many friends in all political parties had hoped his illness would be overcome.

Governor Jackson has asked Mrs. Marshall that the body of the former Vice President be permitted to lie in state in the rotunda of the State Capitol.

Following his retirement as Vice President in March, 1921, Mr. Marshall had maintained a home here, although he was absent much of the time on speaking tours. He had practiced law here in a casual way, accepting only a few cases and declining to become involved in any that would prove unduly burdensome.



THOMAS RILEY MARSHALL

MARSHALL COMBINED PHILOSOPHY AND WIT

Won Admiration as an Interpreter of the Spirit of the Middle West.

Thomas Riley Marshall is described in biographical reference books as "an American lawyer and public official," but he was really best known to his countrymen as a Hoosier philosopher and humorist who interpreted to them the spirit of the great Middle West. He was a successful lawyer and he served with distinction as Governor of Indiana and Vice President of the United States, but many believe that his chief claim to fame was his gift of quaint, pithy epigram.

It was he who interrupted a Senate debate, when Vice President, with the statement: "What this country really needs is a good five-cent cigar." That this was more than a jest developed from the subsequent trend of prices and social unrest. He was opposed to prohibition and pacifism, and last year he expressed himself on the state of the country as follows:

"The trouble with America today is there are too many preachers legislating and too few legislators praying."

He could always be counted upon to speak the truth bluntly and with a dash of wit, in a way that appealed to the common man. This made him something of an amateur oracle, whose advice always was heeded with respect, but, in the opinion of some political observers, it also limited his political career. It was said that if he had conducted himself with dull solemnity, instead of whimsical zest, he probably would have advanced much further in politics.

Descended From Virginia Marshalls.

Mr. Marshall was descended from the Marshall family of Virginia, which included John Marshall, the most famous of American jurists, who for thirty-four years (1801-1835) was Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. Thomas Riley Marshall was born in North Manchester, Wabash County, Ind., on March 14, 1854. He was the only son of Dr. Daniel M. Marshall, a physician, and Martha A. Patterson Marshall. His mother wished him to become a preacher, but the life of a circuit rider did not appeal to him.

After attending the public schools he was graduated from Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Ind., with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1873, at the age of 19. He received the degree of Master of Arts from the same institution in 1877. Later in life he received honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws from Wabash College, Notre Dame University, the University of Pennsylvania, University of North Carolina, University of Maine and Washington and Jefferson College, and the honorary degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence from Villanova College.

Mr. Marshall read law for two years in an office at Fort Wayne, Ind., and was admitted to the bar in 1875, on his twenty-first birthday. For many years thereafter he practiced law in Columbia City, Ind., as a member of the firm of Marshall & McCray, which in 1910 became Marshall, McCray & Clugston. He attained success in the law, becoming known beyond the borders of his county, and amassing a comfortable competence. He was appointed Special Judge of the Circuit Court at Angola, Ind., in 1884.

In 1886, while still a young man, Mr. Marshall was nominated on the Democratic ticket as candidate for District Attorney in a Republican stronghold and was defeated. From 1892 to 1898 he was Chairman of the Democratic Committee of his Congressional district. Friends suggested that he become a candidate for Congress in 1896, but he declined, with the characteristic explanation that he was afraid he might be elected.

It was then suggested that he seek the nomination for Governor of Indiana. Mr. Marshall replied that his one ambition in politics was to be Governor of his State, but that he would do nothing to attain the nomination, though his friends could do what they pleased.

Elected Governor of Indiana.

When the State convention was held in Indianapolis, Mr. Marshall was chosen as a compromise candidate between the forces of Thomas Taggart, Democratic boss of Indiana, and the anti-Taggart group. In the bitter election of 1908, when Taft carried Indiana by 15,000 votes, Marshall showed himself a remarkable vote-getter, winning by 10,000 over his Republican opponent, James E. Watson.

During his four years as Governor of Indiana, Mr. Marshall became nationally known because of the progressive legislation enacted during his Administration. Those who had expected extreme radical actions on his part, however, were disappointed. He was characterized at this time as a "progressive with the brakes on." Others called him "conservative in motion," a phrase which Woodrow Wilson once applied to himself.

Mr. Marshall followed the middle-of-the-road course indicated in these characterizations by standing for the maintenance of traditional American political institutions, but advocating progressive measures, including the direct election of Senators, an employers' liability law, and anti-race track and bookmaking legislation. He showed his humanitarian viewpoint by pushing legislation looking to the moral and physical welfare of the State's unfortunates. One of his policies was never to allow a child to be born in prison or a person to die behind the bars if there was a home to which he could go.

In three emergencies with which he was confronted while Governor Mr. Marshall showed force of character and firmness of decision which pleased the country. He honored the requisition of the Governor of California for John J. McNamara, the dynamiter, although in doing so he alienated part of the labor vote. He refused to sign a law permitting Sunday baseball until the Legislature had remedied defects in its legal structure, although the delay he courted temporary unpopularity. He opposed Taggart and other State leaders by making a successful fight for the selection of John W. Kern by the Democratic State Convention as candidate for the United States Senate, by ignoring the boss in making appointments and by forcing the machine leader to keep away from the State House, although in all these actions he risked the curtailment of his political career.

Chosen for Vice President.

Mr. Marshall's opposition to Taggart, while it won him further national attention, did not reach an open rupture. At the Democratic National Convention in Baltimore in 1912 Taggart supported Marshall as Indiana's "favorite son" candidate for the Presidential nomination throughout several ballots, and finally cast the Indiana votes for Marshall as the candidate for Vice President. As a running mate of Woodrow Wilson Mr. Marshall was elected the twenty-eighth Vice President of the United States, and was re-elected with Mr. Wilson in 1916.

As Vice President Mr. Marshall pursued the traditional course of incumbents of that office. He did not seek to achieve reforms in the Senate rules, as does General Dawes, but contented himself with presiding over the meetings of the Senate and with living the quiet life of "a plain, everyday average American citizen," a description upon which he prided himself.

In Washington, as back home in Columbia City, he was affectionately referred to as "Tom" Marshall by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances, and by the people as well. He had plenty of time in Washington to devote himself to two of his favorite pursuits—reading and telling stories. Nothing pleased him more than to steal away from the Senate chamber to his private office and spend an hour smoking his pipe and relating his experiences as a country lawyer.

Other things of which the former Vice President was fond, according to a Washington correspondent who wrote of this subject, were cigars, baseball games, baked beans, sauerkraut, detective stories and congenial society. His wife's likes were reported as housekeeping, riding in "one-hoss shays," reading George Ade and Charles Dickens, attending grand opera, sewing, doing church work and talking about her husband.

Mrs. Marshall before her marriage was Miss Lois I. Kemsey of Angola, Ind., whose father was Chief Clerk of the Circuit Court there at the time Mr. Marshall was Judge of that court. They were married on Oct. 3, 1888. They had no children, but in 1918 they adopted a baby boy, who was named Morrison Marshall, from a foundling asylum. The boy died of acidosis in 1920 at the age of 2. The child had been sickly from birth and Mrs. Marshall had been attracted by the hope of doing something to give him a chance when she first saw the child at a diet kitchen for poor children in Washington which she directed.

Some criticism was directed at Mr. Marshall because of speeches he made in 1913 regarding the social unrest prevailing out of discontent with the prevailing distribution of wealth. He was interpreted as advocating revolutionary ideas regarding inheritance of property, but he said he had been misunderstood.

Actively Supported Wilson.

Vice President Marshall supported President Wilson consistently throughout the two terms of the Wilson Administration. Before the war he was a stanch advocate of peace, and stood firmly behind President Wilson in his neutrality program. After this country entered the war Mr. Marshall threw himself whole-heartedly into the movement to arouse the country. He spoke and wrote vigorously in support of the allied and American cause.

At a great mass meeting before the Altar of Liberty in Madison Square in the Fall of 1918 Mr. Marshall expressed what he termed an "apology" for his part in the neutrality of this country previous to 1917, saying that he wished he could have seen earlier that there was no question as to which side was right and which side was wrong. After the war he said he was for peace, but was not a pacifist, and that he believed in preparedness.

When the question came up of President Wilson's visit to the Peace Conference public attention was directed to Mr. Marshall by a statement from former Attorney General George W. Wickersham, who said that if the President put himself into a position where he could not exercise any of his powers or duties those functions, under the Constitution, would revert to the Vice President.

The New York Times thereupon obtained from Mr. Marshall a special statement on this question. The Vice President made it clear that he had no intention whatever of assuming the Presidency during Mr. Wilson's absence; that he had never opposed the contemplated trip to Paris, and that he believed the President had a right to go if he wished.

In 1919 Mr. Marshall made a statement in Chicago urging the younger men of the country to meet the crisis in American life by working more, producing more, earning more, saving more and economizing more. The eyes of the country were again turned to Mr. Marshall that year when the possibility arose that Mr. Wilson might die during his term of office and that the Vice President might be called upon to serve the unexpired term of the President.

Retired from Public Life.

Mr. Marshall was entered in the Democratic primaries in Indiana for the Presidential nomination in 1920, but dropped out. After the inauguration of President Harding and Vice-President Coolidge he retired from public life, making his new home in Indianapolis. He was mentioned as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in 1924, but made no effort to get it. In the same year he became Chairman for Indiana of the American Committee for the Relief of German Children.

During the Presidential campaign last year Mr. Marshall refused to join in the criticism of President Coolidge for asking and accepting, while Vice President, a fee to address a Memorial Day meeting of war veterans in Bridgeport, Conn. He said that he himself had accepted money for delivering lectures when he was Vice President and that he had had "to lecture, steal or starve" to pay his living expenses while in Washington.

Among Mr. Marshall's last public utterances were two statements in January of this year, in one he advocated the entry of the United States into the World Court; in the other he said he was not for the prohibition amendment, and never had been, that he was getting tired of amendments to the Constitution, and that he would like to repeal all the Federal and State laws and re-enact the ten commandments and the golden rule.

Mr. Marshall was a Presbyterian, a Thirty-third Degree Mason, a trustee of Wabash College and a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and of Phi Beta Kappa.

Nicholas Murray Butler, President of the university, made a short address.

Dean Herbert E. Hawkes, in addressing the seniors, said:

"I can only express confidence in you and tell you that at your hands the name of Columbia should certainly become more respected and fuller of the content that we have learned to associate with it. The name and spirit of Columbia are yours to maintain and to cherish. And they are in safe hands."

purpose was to suppress such influence as might affect the operations of interstate commerce through the application to them of the individual intelligence of those engaged in commerce, enlightened by accurate information as to the essential elements of the economics of a trade or business however gathered or disseminated."

"We can find no basis in the gathering and dissemination of such information by them or in their activities under the present organization for the inference that such concerted action will necessarily result within the rule laid down in those cases." (The American Column case and the American Linseed Oil Company case.)

"We decide only that trade associations or combinations of persons or corporations which openly and fairly gather and disseminate information as to the cost of their product, the volume of production, the actual price which the product has brought in past transactions, stocks of merchandise on hand, approximate cost of transportation from the principal point of shipment to the points of consumption, as did these defendants, and who, as they did, meet and discuss such information and statistics without, however, reaching or attempting to reach any agreement or any concerted action with respect to prices or production or restraining competition, do not thereby engage in unlawful restraint of commerce."

In the cement case the Government charged that the defendants, through the activities of the association, controlled prices and production in the following manner:

"1. By the use of specific F. O. B. contracts for future delivery of cement, accompanied by a system of reports and trade espionage having as its objective the restriction of deliveries of cement under those contracts.

"2. By compiling and distributing among the members freight rate books which give the rate of freight from arbitrary basing points of delivery within the territorial area served by the several defendants.

"3. By exchange of information concerning credits.

"4. By activities of the association at its meetings."

The Government contended that uniformity of prices and limitation of production were necessary results of these activities, but it did not charge any agreement to limit prices or production, nor did it state that prices were excessive or unreasonable. Nothing was adduced to show that competition had been destroyed.

In submitting the Court's opinion in this case, Justice Stone said the two essential elements in a conspiracy to restrain commerce were the gathering and reporting of information which would enable individual members of the association to avoid making cement deliveries on specific job contracts which, by the terms of the contracts, they were not bound to deliver, and the gathering of information as to production, price of cement sold on specific job contracts and transportation costs.

"That a combination existed for the purpose of gathering and distributing these two classes of information is not denied. That a consequence of the gathering and dissemination of information with respect to the specific job contracts was to afford to manufacturers of cement opportunity and grounds for refusing deliveries of cement which the contractors were not entitled to call for, an opportunity of which manufacturers were prompt to avail themselves, is not open to dispute.

"We do not see, however, in the activity of the defendants with respect to specific job contracts any basis for the contention that they constitute an unlawful restraint of commerce."

The Justice also said that the Court could not regard "the gathering and reporting of information through the cooperation of the defendants with reference to production, prices in actual closed specific contracts and of transportation costs, as an unlawful restraint of commerce, even though it be assumed that the result tends to bring about uniformity in price."

The dissenting opinion by Associate Justice McReynolds stated:

"These causes disclose carefully developed plans to cut down normal competition in interstate trade and commerce. Long impelled by this purpose, appellants have adopted various expedients through which they evidently hoped to defeat the policy of the law without subjecting themselves to punishment.

"They are parties to definite and unusual combinations and agreements, whereby each is obligated to reveal to confederates the intimate details of his business and is restricted in his freedom of action. It seems to me that ordinary knowledge of human nature and of the impelling force of greed ought to permit no serious doubt concerning the ultimate outcome of the arrangements. We may confidently expect the destruction of that kind of competition long relied upon by the public for establishment of fair prices and to preserve which the Anti-Trust act was passed.

"United States v. American Linseed Oil Company, 262 U. S. 371, states the doctrine which I think should be rigorously applied. Pious protestations and smug preambles but intensify distrust when men are found busy with schemes to enrich themselves through circumventions, and the Government ought not to be required supinely to await the final destruction of competitive conditions before demanding relief through the courts. The statute supplies means for prevention. Artful gestures should not hinder their application.

Calls Decision Anti-Trust Landmark.

CHICAGO, June 1 (AP).—The United States Supreme Court's decision today which held that the Cement Manufacturers' Protective Association and Maple-Flooring Manufacturers' Association had not acted illegally under the Federal anti-trust laws was called "a landmark in the construction of the anti-trust laws" by George T. Buckingham of counsel for the cement manufacturers.

"This decision will affect hundreds of trade associations throughout the land," Mr. Buckingham said. "It is probably the most momentous opinion on the Sherman act since the famous Standard Oil case of 1912."

PRINCE OF WALES IN NATAL.

Leaves Orange Free State, Which Greeted Him Most Cordially.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HARRISMITH, Orange Free State, June 1.—The Prince of Wales bade goodbye to Orange Free State burghers here last evening before crossing the snowclad Drakensberg into Natal. He had spent the week-end on the huge Westminsters farm property in the Free State. He arrived in the pouring rain and his opportunities for exercise were much restricted by the unfavorable weather, which constituted a record for the district.

The Prince attended divine service yesterday morning in the chapel of the farm. Today he went first to Bethlehem and thence came to this place. Since leaving Bloemfontein he has toured the northern and eastern divisions of the province on a wide circle which brought him into touch with a dozen principal rural centres.

General Hertzog in a speech at Cape Town prophesied that "in the lonely plains of the Orange Free State your Royal Highness will experience nothing but the heartiest welcome, with no jarring note anywhere," and there indeed has been no discord, no holding aloof by any section of this particular unit of the Union.

At Bethlehem this morning the Prince heard the national song of the Orange Free State, republicans joining voices with British colonists. Bethlehem had suffered a heavy loss through fire which nearly destroyed some large flour mills yesterday, and the Prince's first reference in his public address was of sympathy with the workers at the mill, which he subsequently visited.

At Harrismith the Prince took the opportunity to thank the Free Staters for the cordial reception and stated that "this welcome is so spontaneous, so real and so unaffected that if the future lies with me I'll do my best to come to see you again."

Before leaving the Prince laid a wreath at the base of one of the disks raised in memory of the Grenadier and Scots Guards who fell in the district in the early days of the Boer war, and another wreath at the foot of the Great War Cenotaph unveiled by Lord Haig in April, 1923.

EQUITY COLLECTED $90,000 DUE ACTORS

Association Now Doing Well—Assets Increase $45,321 in the Year to $191,830.

WILL HAYS IS CRITICIZED

Fight for Minimum Movie Contract Urged—John Emerson Re-elected President.

More than $90,000 due actors for back salaries and other items was collected by the Actors' Equity Association during the past year, according to an announcement at Equity's annual meeting in the Playhouse on West Forty-eighth Street, yesterday afternoon. Exact figures have not been kept for other years, but it is believed the new figure shows an increase of 50 per cent. over the best record of recent years.

Announcement of $191,830 assets on hand, a net gain of $45,321 for the year; tabling of a motion to consider reduction of dues from $18 a year to $12 and a recommendation that a militant attitude be adopted to obtain for Equity members in the movies the benefits of a standard minimum contract were among the matters acted upon.

Frank Gillmore, Executive Secretary and Treasurer, reported as follows on the motion picture situation:

"It may seem to some that this branch of our association has been overlooked, but we were waiting until matters connected with the legitimate were settled.

"The interviews of your President and myself with Will H. Hays over a period of three years have been most unsatisfactory. When he assumed Chairmanship of the motion picture industry it was declared the interests of all those affected would be considered. Actors as a class are certainly affected, yet they have not been consulted, nor have any steps been taken to remedy, so far as we know, the abuses which we have brought to the attention of the producers.

"After exhausting every conciliatory method it will be up to us to adopt a more militant attitude, to see that our members in the motion picture industry receive the benefits of a standard minimum contract."

Members were urged to insist upon the rule of taking one-eighth of their weekly salary for all plays broadcast.

Two entertainments during the year netted more than $25,000, it was reported. The new building at 45 West Forty-seventh Street cost $115,000, and is now valued at $150,000. It is now proposed to accumulate a surplus of $1,000,000. During the year nearly $900,000 was turned over in receipts and disbursements.

Enthusiasm greeted the announcement that whereas three years ago Equity was running behind in its finances, last year there was a gain, despite the expenses of the legal and economic struggle with a group of producing managers which culminated in a partial shutdown.

George Arliss presided at the meeting.

The entire ticket proposed by the nominating committee was elected by a vote of 904 to 35 for other candidates. Bruce McRae is the only new officer. The list is: John Emerson, President; Ethel Barrymore, First Vice President; Bruce McRae, Second Vice President; Grant Stewart, Recording Secretary, and Frank Gillmore, Treasurer. Members elected to serve on the council for three years are Lester Allen, George Arliss, Harry C. Browne, William P. Carleton, Berton Churchill, Augustin Duncan, Clare Eames, Ernest Glendinning, Frank McGlynn, Helen MacKellar, Eugene Powers, Tom Powers, Robert Strange, Laurette Taylor, Fritz Williams and Peggy Wood. Albert Bruning, who takes the place of Leo Dietrichstein, resigned, will serve until next year's election, and Robert Middlemass will serve two years in place of the late John Cope.

The following cablegram from John Emerson, who is in England, was read at the meeting:

"Congratulate members of Equity for restraint, balance and wisdom shown during past year. No harm can come to Equity now, except from itself, and as long as we remember that added power brings added responsibility we are safe. Best wishes always."

TWO MEN DYING OF BURNS.

They Sought to Destroy Kerosene-Soaked Clothing in Heater.

John O'Brien, 28 years old, of 290 Tenth Avenue, took his friend, Alexander Christopher, 23, of 506 West Twenty-ninth Street, last night to the boiler room in the basement of the Experience Garage at 533 West Twenty-seventh Street to help him burn some old clothing. They poured kerosene on the garments and threw them into the burning heater.

Instantly there was a burst of flame which reached the first floor, and a cloud of smoke rolled from a window at the sidewalk.

Men employed in the garage ran to the street, believing gasoline had caught fire and that an explosion would follow. They turned in a fire alarm, while William Mitchell of 66 Amsterdam Avenue, a fireman attached to Engine Company 18, who was off duty and passing the place, ran through the garage, down an iron ladder into the boiler room and found O'Brien and Christopher lying on the floor, their clothes afire.

He put out the flames and carried each of the men to the street. An ambulance was called from New York Hospital and it was found the two men had been burned from head to foot. They were taken to Bellevue Hospital, where it was said they were not likely to live. Mitchell, whose hands were burned, went home.

BAPTISTS BACK IMMERSION.

30 Pastors Sign Straton Report and 4 a Less Emphatic Document.

Immersion is the only form of baptism recognized by the Baptist Church, according to two resolutions placed before the New York Baptist Conference yesterday at its meeting in the Madison Avenue Baptist Church.

It had been expected that a lively meeting on the question of immersion would take place, but the only difference of opinion was how strong a committee report on immersion should be. One report was drawn up by Dr. M. J. Twomey, pastor of the Peddie Memorial Church, Newark, and Dr. Lemuel Call Barnes of Yonkers. This resolution repeated the well-known view of the Baptist denomination on the question of immersion. A minority report presented by Dr. John Roach Straton of Calvary Baptist Church was more emphatic than that presented by the majority, but contained substantially the gist of the majority report.

No action was taken on the reports, as the conference does not act in doctrinal matters. The reports were placed on a table and thirty ministers signed the Straton report and four signed Dr. Twomey's report. Some of the ministers said they could see no reason for not signing both reports, as there was little difference between them.

SOUGHT NO CONCESSION.

J. D. Antonopulos Explains Purpose of His Accusation Against City.

J. D. Antonopulos, who at last Thursday's meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission, accused the City Administration of favoritism in the awarding of refreshment stand concessions, said yesterday that the purpose of his appearance was incorrectly reported in the account of the meeting published the following day.

Instead of claiming for himself a concession recently offered by the Dock Department, Mr. Antonopulos said he appeared at the meeting to protest against Peter Giannopulos, the highest bidder, being relieved of taking the concession. He, himself, he said, had not bid for this particular concession.

"When the Mayor made reference to my owing rent to the city," Mr. Antonopulos said, "I protested against that charge, as I do not owe one penny to the city."

Sir Robert Falconer Points to Our Aim to Foster Democracy in Schools.

CANADIAN TREND DIVERSE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 1.—Sir Robert Falconer, President of the Universit yof Toronto, delivered the sixth of his Watson chair lectures at Glasgow University today and dealt especially with "education."

In the last lecture of his course on "The United States as a Neighbor," Sir Robert Falconer compared American and Canadian education—in undergraduate life and graduate study, in fraternity life, in methods of teaching and administration, in academic freedom, in private endowments and State support and in influence across the border.

Sir Robert pointed out that the number of Canadian students accepted in American universities has increased rapidly since the beginning of the twentieth century, that Canadian graduate students are taken for advanced work on the same terms as American students, and that Canadians have found positions open to them on the staffs of American colleges and universities.

After sketching the history of higher education in the United States and Canada he discussed the differences between colleges in the two countries.

"The American college embodies a distinctive ideal," he said. "It professes to afford a liberal education by means of discipline in time-honored subjects, adapted to and modified by modern experience, and to provide a wholesome moral atmosphere in which the character of undergraduates who are in residence may be fashioned to American standards. It must be admitted that in many of these colleges the social has displaced the religious influence and in some the tone is set by the sons of the wealthier classes. The contrast between the meagre equipment and frugal days of their origin and their present amenity and opulence is at once an indication of the material development of the United States and of the change of view as regards the social advantage of a college education. But the tradition of the original purpose persists and is the same mutatis mutandis as was created and lives in the colleges of Oxford and Cambridge, which were their exemplars.

"In process of time, through private benefaction, several of the oldest colleges have grown into universities which in all essentials compare with the historic European institutions of learning. Other new universities of the same class have been established and splendidly equipped both in the East and West, but the distinctive American university is the State university."

Our Aim to Foster Democracy.

Sir Robert said that the rise and growth of the Canadian universities had been different from the American, until the appearance of the new universities in the Western Provinces. After reviewing the historical differences, he discussed those that exist today as follows:

"The American college takes seriously its task of educating the democracy; it therefore believes that it has a duty to see that the undergraduate does his work; it holds itself also responsible in measure to the parent for either discharging the youth if unfit or indifferent, or encouraging him to success. This task is made the harder because, except in the larger and older universities of the East, most institutions, and especially the State universities, do not conduct matriculation examinations, but receive their entrants on the recommendation of the principals of accredited schools—that is to say, those recognized by the university as maintaining a definite standard of equipment and instruction. This has in recent years led to congestion of students in the first year, so that classification for teaching purposes is difficult. Hence the necessity for provosts and deans and supervisors, whose duty it is to thin out by various tests and arrange suitable groups, at a great waste, as it appears to the Canadian, of the time of competent teachers who should be giving instruction.

"Far less emphasis is placed by the American university on the comprehensive examination at the end of a term of academic year than in the British university. In respect of method of instruction, the average Canadian college and university has followed its British models.

Different Life in Canadian Colleges.

"The Canadian undergraduate curriculum in arts owes little to American influence. Professing to offer the substance of a liberal education, it maintains in a somewhat conservative spirit the subjects and methods which it received from Britain many years ago, though graduates of British universities and of those of the United States who have joined the teaching staffs have been constantly introducing modifications. It holds true of Canadian as of American universities that much of their instruction in the first two years belongs really to secondary education.

"But there is one chief feature in the Canadian Faculty of Arts which it has derived from Britain, which sharply differentiates it from the American; the provision for honors and pass courses. This is really selective education, the attempt being made to separate students into classes according to previous preparation and natural aptitudes. Those who take the pass course—the average students—are given in a fairly balanced and not too rigid variety of subjects the elements of a liberal education. A smaller number, the more proficient in some such field as classics, history, mathematics, the sciences, receive special education in small classes, either in the whole or the latter years of their course, and in these they acquire more thorough method and such mastery of their subject as their maturity will allow, and take with them a fairly trained mind if they go into a professional Faculty or proceed to a graduate school."

The similar social standards in the homes from which the average American and Canadian students come, Sir Robert went on, result in similar undergraduate activities. Although there are more wealthy students in the older Eastern institution than in Canada, he found that in both countries a democratic temper prevails and the majority of students earn at least part of their way.

"The ritual sets before the member ideal principles of conduct," he said. "The society affords him comradeship, guidance and reesponsibility; and it does for him something such as is done for the English student by his college; it helps him culturally for his later station in life. Especially in large, non-residential universities the fraternity, it would appear, assists the individual student, who might otherwise be lost, to find himself. Of late years supervision is exercised over the local chapters by their headquarters staff, with the result, so it is affirmed, that manners and scholarship have been greatly improved in all fraternities."

The Many-Sidedness of Candy

Candy is more than a pleasant-tasting confection. More than an energy-giving food. More than just something to eat.

Candy stands, as nothing else does, for generous impulses, for kindly thoughts, for the best that's in us. Grouches don't frequent candy stores.

Candy has done more to spread sunshine in the world than all the Rotary Clubs in existence—and they are doing a good job, too.

Even Christmas is made brighter because of candy, but its good work is not confined to the holidays. Candy is an essential part of our everyday life.

Finally, candy is within the reach of everybody. It has long since passed the luxury stage. What else can you buy at so little cost that will bestow so much gladness? That will radiate so much joy? That will make you remembered so pleasantly? Especially, candy on the order of Schrafft's Home-made.

GRAFT CHARGE A LIE, CITY EMPLOYE SAYS

Market Supervisor, Voluntary Witness at Pushcart Hearing, Denies Taking Bribes.

OTHER OFFICIALS ACCUSED

Peddler Tells of Hearing About $300 Payment to Commissioner of Markets.

In the investigation which Magistrate Simpson is conducting into alleged graft and oppression among pushcart peddlers, when the inquiry was resumed yesterday in the City Hall, Hyman Josephson, a peddler, who had testified earlier to having given $100 to "Supervisor Harry Klein," left the witness stand and laid a hand upon the shoulder of a man who, he declared, was the recipient of the money.

"This is Harry Klein," declared Josephson, and the Magistrate thereupon directed the identified man to stand.

"What is your name?" asked Magistrate Simpson.

"Edward M. Klein," was the reply.

Jacob Gould Schurman Jr., Assistant District Attorney in charge of the examination, announced that Klein had appeared voluntarily. He was permitted to take the witness stand at his own request.

"Everything Josephson has said about me is a lie," he declared after he had taken the oath. "Furthermore, while I am a Supervisor in the Department of Markets I was not in the market at the time he says he paid me money."

The witness said he was not known among the peddlers as "Harry" Klein. He testified that he had first met Josephson in 1923, when the latter had a stand in the Stanton-Street market. later, he declared, he saw the peddler floating," which means moving his stand to another market for which he did not hold a permit. He thereupon issued a summons for Josephson to appear before Deputy Commissioner Louis Reed Felsmiller.

On a second occasion he had issued a summons, the witness said, because Josephson had accused Klein's assistant of having demanded $50 from him.

Klein was equally emphatic in denying that Samuel Dobia, a peddler who had testified earlier, had given him $5. He will resume the witness stand when the hearing goes on this morning.

Mollie Barasch, so-called "Queen of the Peddlers," was recalled by Mr. Schurman. When she was again questioned about the collection she helped to take up among the Orchard Street peddlers last December her memory still appeared to be cloudy. She had testified that the fund was for the benefit of "Coonie" Worth, ex-ailing peddler. Other witnesses agreed that the collection for Worth was in June.

"You heard both 'Uncle' Vlodinger and Morris Loopesko testify the collection was made in June last year, didn't you?" Mr. Schurman asked.

"I'm positive it wasn't," was the answer.

"Are you the official collector of Orchard Street?" Mr. Schurman then asked.

"No," she asserted. "I don't know of any official collector."

Harry Bleefeld, of 1,849 St. Mark's Avenue, Brooklyn, a former peddler, told of paying money to a "Supervisor Friedman" and another known only as "Nat" three years ago, after he had dissolved partnership with Isidore Knox. He, Knox and Abraham Schneider, he said, operated a store at 124 Orchard Street.

The dissolution agreement was introduced in evidence. It provided, among other things, that Bleefeld, who had a pushcart permit, was to transfer the permit to Knox on payment of $500. That suggestion was made by "Nat" and Friedman, he said.

"I objected to giving up my peddler's license," the witness declared, "but they told me if I didn't do it in a nice way they would take it away from me anyhow."

After the agreement was signed, Bleefeld added, he received two notes of $250 each from Knox, one of which was paid. The next day he and Knox met Friedman and "Nat," and the two partners paid $50 each to the supervisors, he testified.

"I got my first $250 from Knox, but the second note was protested," Bleefeld explained. "When I went to see Knox about it he told me he had to pay $500, and that $300 of it went to the Commissioner of Markets."

Lena Susserman of 16 First Avenue told of having been asked by a supervisor whose name she said was "Fardiman" to pay $50 to have her stand changed to another spot.

ENDORSE NEAR EAST RELIEF

Writers and Artists Hear Henry Morgenthau Tell of Work.

The work of the Near East Relief was endorsed yesterday by more than a hundred writers, artists and editors, who attended the luncheon of the organization at Town Hall. Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey, presided and outlined the work being done now that the organization is operated on a peace-time basis. Mr. Morgenthau founded the Near East Relief while he was in Constantinople as Ambassador. He told of the plans for the observance throughout the United States next December of "Golden Rule Sunday" on behalf of the Near East Relief.

"This observance is in accordance with what psychologists call the 'project method,'" said Charles V. Vickrey, General Secretary. "There are many thousands of orphans in the Near East that need to be supported. The observance of Golden Rule Sunday applies not merely to the nations, but to all homes in this country. The plan is for your dinner plate on Golden Rule Sunday to be made just as near as possible like the dinner plate that the orphans of Armenia look at every day."

Sophie Irene Loeb spoke of the child-placing work of the organization, which has found homes for more than 50,000 children in six countries. Other speakers were Mabel S. C. Smith of the Pen and Brush Club and Louise Graham Harding.

MEDALS AWARDED TO HEROIC FIREMEN

FIFTEEN FOR EFFICIENCY

A Captain Wins Honors for Having the Best Disciplined Company.

Awards of medals to eleven firemen for bravery, one to a superior officer for having the best disciplined company of the 300 in the city and to fifteen officers and men for efficiency in drill evolutions at the Fire College were announced yesterday by Fire Commissioner Thomas J. Drennan. The medals will be pinned on the men by Mayor Hylan at City Hall in the forenoon of June 22 next.

The honors were conferred on the twenty-seven firemen in recommendations of the Board of Merit of the Fire Department, of which Joseph H. Hannon, Deputy Fire Commissioner, is Chairman, after the board had investigated sixty-six deeds of bravery in 1924 by 200 members of the force and exceptional discipline and demonstrations of speedy live-saving methods by more than twice as many other firemen.

The highest award was the James Gordon Bennett medal to Captain Thomas J. O'Toole of Engine Company 27, in Franklin Street near West Broadway, in the daring rescue of Robert E. Warren in a fire in the tenement at 13 Leonard Street at 3 A. M. on Jan. 20. Warren had been drawn back into the burning building from a third story window by a back draft. Captain O'Toole, who is more than six feet tall, seized a scaling ladder, climbed to Warren, threw him over one shoulder and descended with him to the street.

Save a Whole Family.

The next highest honors were conferred on Firemen Leo C. Furcht and Edward P. McConville of Hook and Ladder 108 for the joint rescues of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Saltzman and their five children from their home on the fourth floor of the tenement at 417 Bushwick Avenue at 2 A. M. on Aug. 9 last. The two firemen climbed out on an ornamental ledge from an adjoining building and guided each of the Saltzmans to the window of the next house, holding each against the walls of the tenements to prevent them from falling. Furcht received the Bonner medal and the Trevor-Warren medal was awarded to McConville.

Lieutenant John J. Gregory and Firemen Thomas J. McGarry of Engine Company 269 received the Kenny and the Van Heukelom medals respectively for their rescues of Mrs. Charles White, her daughter, Catherine, and son, Charles Jr., from their home on the third floor of 88 Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn, in a fire at 2:30 A. M. on Dec. 22 last.

The Hurley medal was awarded to Fireman Lawrence A. Gorman, chauffeur for Battalion Chief Dennis L. Curtain, for the rescue of Mrs. Sarah Gibbons and Alfred Stafford from the fourth floor of the residence at 32 West Forty-eighth Street in a fire at 3 A. M. on Sept. 16 last.

The rescue of Miss Ann Brozowsky in a fire in her home at 319 Osborn Street, Brooklyn, at 3 A. M. on Aug. 22 last gained Lieutenant Edward F. Gross of Engine Company 231 the Crimmins medal.

Rescued Six Persons.

Fireman Patrick Russell of Hook and Ladder 40 received the Brookman medal for the rescue of six persons in a fire at 187 St. Nicholas Avenue at 7:30 A. M. on Oct. 19 last.

Fireman William F. Gallagher of Engine Company 213 was awarded the Brooklyn Citizen medal for the rescue of Mrs. Anna Bennett, who is blind, in a fire in her home at 318 Maujer Street, Brooklyn, at 9 A. M. Jan. 29.

For his brave attempt to rescue three children, reported to have been trapped in a fire in the tenement at 76 Van Brunt Street, Brooklyn, at 9 A. M. on Aug. 31 last, but who it later developed had slipped out of the house in the excitement, Fireman Martin J. McNamara Jr. of Engine 203 received the Prentice medal.

Fireman Joseph St. Vincent Boyle of Hook and Ladder 18 in Attorney Street won the Scott medal for the rescue of a baby in a fire in the tenement at 49 Essex Street at 1 A. M. June 12 last.

Captain Rudolph J. Uster of Engine Company 213 in Powers Street, Brooklyn, received the Stephenson medal for maintaining the best disciplined company. He has been a fireman twenty-nine years and his name has been placed on the roll of merit six times for valorous acts.

Captain Robert E. McGannon and the other members of Hook and Ladder 16 won the Fire College efficiency medals for the second time in three years. The awards were made after competition in the Fire Department's School of Evolutions. Each engine and truck company is required to appear at the school once a year for drill in rescue work and for tests of time in reaching fires.

Besides Captain McGannon, medals for efficiency were awarded to Lieutenant J. J. Tobin and Firemen Robert J. Davis, Oldrich Kolinsky, William F. Lawler, Michael Mahon, James V. McHugh, Patrick J. Murphy, William Nygryn, Patrick J. O'Connell, Colman Kerley, Alfred J. Pfeiffer, T. J. Scudellari, Bernard J. Sherry and Patrick Larkin.

BEGIN CENSUS OF STATE.

9,000 Canvassers, Wearing Badges, Start Count of Inhabitants.

Nine thousand men and women started yesterday morning to take the census of the State of New York, which they are scheduled to complete within the next fifteen days. About 3,000 of them are at work in the City of New York.

The count of the State's inhabitants, divided into native and foreign-born, began promptly at 8 o'clock. Reports from a few scattering neighborhoods indicated that some of the more industrious census takers had arrived a little ahead of scheduled time, but that may have been due to the inaccuracy of timepieces. The census enumerators will receive 2 cents for each name in addition to the regular pay of $3 a day. In the last census enumerators made from $6 to $11 a day.

The census takers report daily to their supervisors, and the supervisor reports directly to the Albany office of the Secretary of State, Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp. The Census Bureau at 108 West Forty-second Street will get no reports from the supervisors or census takers on the progress of the local count of inhabitants.

The last State census, taken in 1915, showed the population of New York City to be 5,047,221. The Federal census of 1920 gave the city a population of 5,620,048. According to the State census officials the increase from 1920 to 1925 may not be as large as that of the preceding five years on account of the restriction on immigration.

Dr. Domore states the case

"I've found that a lot of people suffer from winter colds and other ailments because they don't have the right kind of ventilation in cold weather. That's why I favor Warm Air Furnaces. They are fool proof. Even if the windows are tightly closed, fresh air is sent into the rooms, through the registers. I have a celebrated Thatcher Tubular Furnace in my own cellar. I get plenty of heat, splendid ventilation, and the rooms are never stuffy."

THE Thatcher "Tubular" Warm Air Furnace provides a constant flow of pure, fresh air through every room in the house—air that has the necessary amount of healthful humidity. The large vapor pan has a broad evaporating surface. A convenient cover permits easy filling.

SYRIAN ASKS SHARE IN FAMILY'S RICHES

Citing Custom of Old Country, He Sues Two Brothers in $300,000 Business.

SAYS HE AIDED MIGRATION

Remained in Palestine to Run Farm While They Sought Fortune in New World.

Supreme Court Justice Tierney will hear today the claim of a Syrian farmer of Bereh, Palestine, that he is a partner in the $300,000 lace and silk lingerie firm built up here by his brothers. He bases his claim on a Syrian custom affecting family property. The brothers will assert that the Syrian custom is not effective here and that under the American law he has no interest in the business. He was not named as a partner in the papers filed in the County Clerk's office.

The suit is brought by Shunner Naouri against his brothers, Dhadoul and Mshosher Naouri, of the Palestine Trading Company. The complaint alleges that the parties are Syrians and natives of Palestine and are subject to the laws of that country, which is now under the rule of Great Britain. The plaintiff said that for centuries it has been the custom for the father of a family to hold all the property accumulated by its members, and that upon his death such property is divided equally among the male children, who thus become partners in it.

Naouri said that in 1913 a family conference was held at which it was decided that Dhadoul and Mshosher should come to this country to go into business, and that he should remain in Palestine to develop the land owned there by the family. For the two brothers' trip the family contributed £60. The plaintiff said one brother was detained at Marseilles by illness, and most of his share of the money was used there, so that the family had to send him £20 more. He said his brothers came to New York and began manufacturing laces, embroideries and silk underwear, and that six months after their arrival they sent back £80. He said that about six months later they sent £400 more, and by January, 1924, had sent £2,000.

Shunner Naouri stated that he remained at home developing the family property and that with the money sent to him he increased the land from 80 to 120 acres and put 40 acres under cultivation for grapes, dates, olives and figs. He alleged that in 1924 his grother Dhadoul came to Syria, suggested that the partnership be terminated in the Palestine Trading Company and offered to pay £450 in full for his share. He alleged he had heard from reliable sources that the firm had assets of $350,000 and asserted that £450 was "wholly incommensurate" with the value of his share.

The plaintiff alleged that when his brothers left Syria they "swore by their beards" that they would keep faith and that the plaintiff would always be a partner of theirs in what they accumulated in this country. He said that several prominent residents of Bereh were present at dinner given the night before his brothers left and heard them make this promise, and that he has their affidavits to that effect. He asserted that in January, 1924, when his brother was unable to persuade him to accept the £450, the brother took away with him £50, all that was left in the family exchequer.

The affidavit of the plaintiff alleged that because no further remittances were sent to him he came to this country in January and went to the home of his brothers, at 74 Columbia Heights, Brooklyn.

He said he waited three weeks in the office of the Palestine Trading Company, at 85 Washington Street, for the defendants to come to some agreement. He said that they offered him £1,000, but that he refused to accept this sum and decided to sue.

Breckenridge, Kelly & Nevin, attorneys for the defendants, said yesterday that they would submit to Justice Tierney a number of affidavits denying all of the allegations made by the Palestine farmer and asserting that he is not a partner in the business here and that no offer ever was made to him for his interest.

ARMY OFFICER'S BRIDE FOUND SANE AND FREED

Had Been Arrested for Making Telephone Calls to Governors Island.

Mrs. Fay Schein Roberts, 18 years old, who was committed to the Manhattan State Hospital last March after making a number of telephone calls to army officers stationed at Governors Island, was discharged as sane yesterday by a jury before Supreme Court Justice Lydon. Mrs. Roberts was married to Lieutenant Hayward Roberts, U. S. A., a West Point graduate, in November, 1924, and was arrested on the complaint of army officers while telephoning to Governors Island from a booth in a Broadway restaurant. She was committed to the hospital by her husband. Her father, Pinkus Schein of 240 East Houston Street, brought the proceedings for her release.

Mrs. Roberts testified that her committal to the hospital followed a party at the Hotel Brevoort last March. A quantity of liquor was consumed in the course of the party, Mrs. Roberts said, and she became so intoxicated she was unable to control herself. Her husband was notified by one of her friends, and had her sent to the hospital.

Dr. Irving J. Sands, a neurologist, at one time connected with Columbia University and several hospitals and institutions for mental trouble, testified that he considered Mrs. Roberts sane, although at the time she was sent to the hospital she might have been suffering from mental disorders. At present, he said, she showed no signs of insanity.

Another expert on mental ills, Dr. Ellen P. Langner, who is in charge of the wards at the Manhattan State Hospital, said that she had been caring for Mrs. Roberts since April 14 last and believed her to be insane.

Justice Lydon, in charging the jury, ordered the consideration of two questions, whether the patient was sane and able to take care of herself, and whether she was a fit person to be committed to an institution for the insane. The jury deliberated an hour before declaring the patient sane. She was guarded by an attendant from the hospital while in court, but when the verdict was returned in her favor she left the court room with her father and mother.

Brothers, 70 and 53, Meet at Last.

OMAHA, June 1 (AP).—Brothers, but total strangers, Joseph and Nick Lohlein, 70 and 53, respectively, met for the first time here yesterday. Joseph came from Thermopolis, Wyo., to help his brother, Martin, 71, celebrate his golden wedding. Nick came from Albany, Minn., for the same purpose. Martin introduced the two. Both were born on a farm near Sun Frairie, Wis., the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lohlein. In April of 1872 Joseph left home to learn the harness-making trade in Baltimore at the age of 17. Nick was born in July of that year.

Hitchcock to Practice Law.

Samuel M. Hitchcock, who resigned as United States Commissioner on Feb. 1 last after serving in the office for thirty-nine years, announced yesterday that he would at once resume the general practice of law with the firm of Griffiths & Content at 120 Broadway.

With Mr. Hitchcock's announcement of his resignation as United States Commissioner came the statement that he was to be an officer of a new concern to be known as the Commonwealth Surety Company. What caused the change in his plans was not made public.

HUGHES RETURNS TO A NEW HONOR

Home From Bermuda, He Is Made Member of Genealogical and Historical Society.

INDUCTED BY ELIHU ROOT

Secretary of State Kellogg Sends a Congratulatory Message to the Meeting.

Charles E. Hughes, former Secretary of State, who returned to this city yesterday from a long visit to Bermuda, was made an honorary member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, whose headquarters are at 226 West Fifty-eighth Street. A special meeting of the society was called to confer the honor on Mr. Hughes. Elihu Root, also a former Secretary of State, extended the membership on behalf of the trustees of the society. The present Secretary of State, Frank B. Kellogg, who succeeded Mr. Hughes, sent a telegram of congratulation and greeting to the society's President, Clarence Winthrop Bowen. This telegram read:

"On the occasion of this special meeting of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society I desire to add my greetings to those of friends of the society and my congratulations on the good fortune which has favored the society with the membership of Mr. Hughes."

Mr. Root was the last person before yesterday to be accorded the same honor which Mr. Hughes received. Other honorary members are Chauncey M. Depew, Jean Jules Jusserand, recently French Ambassador to the United States; Earl Arthur James Balfour, Archer Milton Huntington and Robert Hendre Kelby, Librarian of the New York Historical Society. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, a member of the society, was the only person besides Mr. Hughes and Mr. Root to address the meeting yesterday.

"We desire you to become a member of this organization," said Mr. Root, addressing the former Secretary of State, "because you have played a great part in handing down to those who will come after us the blessings which have been bestowed on us by our fathers, and, too, because of the high distinction of your career. The fame which you have justly won will make it a delight for us and for our children to have our names in the same list which is honored by your presence."

Mr. Hughes said in part:

"It is extraordinary what privileges await one who has had the good fortune to hold office and to survive it. I have found of late the opportunities of goodly and congenial fellowship which I most highly prize and I thank you for the privilege which you are now giving me to join the membership of this distinguished society.

"I have found that the value of an honor lies not in the merit of the recipient but in the distinction of those who confer it; and the honors which it has been my good fortune to enjoy of a public nature owed their value to the distinction of the people through whose representatives they were conferred. The object that you have in view, not in perpetuating names or mere records but in providing the raw material of history in the accurate knowledge of human lives—that object seems to me to be a very important and precious one. My experience has reinforced the lesson that there is nothing abstract about our institutions, nothing abstract about our Government. Our institutions are only what the woof of the human lives that enter into them make them. And anything that preserves the desire to live up to the noble traditions of the past has a noble purpose. It is a noble purpose that you have in view, and I highly appreciate the honor you offer in asking me to become a member, an honorary member of this society.

"But high as that distinction is, it is ennobled in my estimation by the happy circumstance which permits me to receive the formal notification of this honor from your distinguished member, Mr. Root. He has always been, through my public life, and long before I had any thought of entering into public life, my inspirer and my ideal. He was good enough to refer to the pleasure that you might have in entering my name upon your rolls. I could have no higher honor than to have my name upon any roll which was adorned by the name of Elihu Root."

Chlorine Explodes, Narrowly Missing American Tourist Party.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, June 1.—The French town of Annemasse on the frontier quivered as in wartime at noon yesterday because of an explosion at the station of a huge tube of liquir chlorine, weighing 2,400 pounds, as the result of the sun's heat.

People fell like flies in the streets, hotels and cafes, while motorists and trolley conductors were also overcome. The victims, with burned throats and eyes, screaming with pain, fled into the country.

Hospitals soon were full. Large doses of oxygen were administered. Police commandeered automobiles and sent the visitors to the hospitals, where there were 100 sufferers. About fifty remained in the hospitals, as their condition was considered serious.

Two large automobiles full of American visitors escaped just in time, although some were slightly hurt.

The tube was on the way to factory in Lyon. An investigation has begun.

TO OPERATE KNIGHT MILLS.

G. E. Buxton, Receiver, Takes Charge of Rhode Island Plants.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 1.—Notices of the appointment of G. Edward Buxton of Providence, Vice President and Treasurer of B. B. and R. Knight, Inc., as temporary receiver of the corporation were posted today in the company's mills at Centreville, Arctic, Riverpoint and Pontiac, which have been running under a curtailed schedule with a reduced personnel of about 2,500.

The notices, signed by Mr. Buxton, state that by Court decree the mills will continue to operate under the management of the Bondholders' Committee.

The corporation's plans for reorganization are being held in abeyance pending the result of the hearing on a petition for permanent receivership on June 15. At that time it is expected that Mr. Buxton will be made one of two contemplated permanent receivers.

Marion Powell to Wed on June 24.

Miss Marion Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Charles Powell of 35 West Eighty-first Street, and Victor S. Noerdlinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Noerdlinger of 271 Central Park West, will be married in the ballroom of the Ambassador on June 24. The ceremony will be followed by a reception and dance. Miss Powell is a graduate of Teachers College at Columbia University. Mr. Noerdlinger served during the war in the navy.

1 Neo-Ply Patented Top. (You may have a wood surface, however, if you prefer.) Neo-Ply, the perfect writing surface, cannot be scratched or marred, and is restful to the eyes. It is the only perfectly balanced linoleum top; linoleum on both sides prevents any possibility of warping.

3 The Wagemaker comes with open or closed back, as desired.

4 Drawers supported by double strength channel slides instead of by partitions—an entirely new idea in drawer suspension. Every drawer opens quickly and easily, and remains horizontal, without sagging, even when pulled out its entire length. Strips extending back of drawer prevent its being pulled out on to the floor.

8 The Wagemaker is the only desk in which all sizes of cards can be filed conveniently, ready for quick reference. And the card trays are removable.

9 A removable letter tray comes with each desk.

10 The Wagemaker Desk is guaranteed for twenty years. Actually, it will give 100% service for much longer than that, and will pay back its cost many times over.

FRICK TAX CASE LOST BY PENNSYLVANIA

HEIRS GET LARGE REFUND

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Pennsylvania's tax laws were subjected to two marked revisions but were sustained in one important respect when the Supreme Court of the United States decided today in the case of the Henry C. Frick estate that States are debarred from levying inheritance taxes on gross estates not wholly located within their borders. Inheritance taxes paid to the Federal Government, however, should not be deducted, the Court ruled. Mr. Frick left an estate valued at $145,000,000.

Pennsylvania's contentions before the Court had the support of the State of New York, the legal department of New York asserting that States which have imposed taxes similar to Pennsylvania's would have to return millions of dollars already paid. Heirs to the Frick estate paid Pennsylvania $1,978,949 and opposed the levying of an additional $1,188,248 paid elsewhere.

The Court held, first, that the value of tangible holdings in New York and Massachusetts should not have been included in determining the clear value on which the Pennsylvania tax was computed; secondly, that in determining this value it was wrong to include stocks in corporations of other States without deducting the taxes paid on these stocks to those States; and, thirdly, that no error was made in refusing to make any deduction from the value because of the estate tax imposed by the Federal Government.

The State of Pennsylvania lost on the first two counts, and must return a large amount of taxes to the Frick estate, but the State won upon the last count.

Mr. Frick, who died Dec. 2, 1919, left about 53 per cent. of his estate to charity and public benefactions, and the rest to individual beneficiaries. Of his New York holdings, he bequeathed $13,132,391 to an art gallery, and $77,518 to his widow. Of the Massachusetts holdings he left $325,534 to Mrs. Frick. Under the Federal law his estate paid a tax of $6,338,896, and taxes were also paid on holdings in Kansas, West Virginia and other States.

In explaining the Pennsylvania procedure, Associate Justice Van Devanter, who handed down the Supreme Court opinion today, said:

"The Pennsylvania statutes provide that where a person domiciled in that State dies, seized or possessed of property, real or personal, a tax shall be laid on the transfer of the property from him by will or intestate laws, whether the property be in that State or elsewhere; that the tax shall be 2 per cent. of the clear value or so much of the property as transferred to or for the use of designated relatives of the decedent and 5 per cent. of the clear value of so much of it as is transferred to or for the use of others; and that the clear value shall be ascertained by taking the gross value of the estate and deducting therefrom the decedent's debts and the expenses of administration, but without making any deductions for taxes paid to the United States or to any other State.

"In applying this statute to the Frick estate the taxing officers included the value of the tangible personalty in New York and Massachusetts in the clear value on which they computed the tax; and in fixing that value refused to make any deduction on account of the estate tax paid to the United States or the stock transfer taxes paid to other States. In proceedings which reached the Supreme Court of the State the action of the taxing officers and the resulting tax were upheld by that Court. The matter was then brought here on writs of error.

"We think that the transfer of the tangible personalty in New York and Massachusetts occurred under and in virtue of the jurisdiction and laws of those States and not under the jurisdiction and laws of Pennsylvania, and that therefore Pennsylvania was without power to tax it.

"It must be held that the Pennsylvania statute, in so far as it attempts to tax the transfer of tangible personalty having an actual situs in other States, contravenes the due process of law clause of the fourteenth amendment and is invalid."

YALE WILL PUNISH BOTTLE NIGHT LEADERS

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 1.—While Yale officials are not inclined to punish the freshman class as a whole for a disturbance created by only a small fraction of the entire membership, they today started a hunt for the ringleaders in the "Bottle Night" celebration at Berkeley Oval, the freshman dormitory, last night, when the historic freshman fence was torn down and Professor F. H. Bangs roughly handled in quelling the disorder.

The ringleaders will be severely punished when their identity is learned. The Faculty has always punished the authors of Bottle Night disturbances. They occur almost annually and result in two or three hot-headed freshmen being separated from the university.

Talk of athletic or other extracurriculum privileges of the class being taken away is not encouraged by freshman Faculty members, who insist that beyond a few individual penalties the subject is likely to be dropped. Punishment of the two or three undergraduates who climbed the Lampson Lyceum tower and painted the lions and the clock hands last week will also end that affair.

ASKS FOR FRESH AIR FUND.

Children's Society Needs $100,000 to Maintain Summer Camps.

An appeal for $100,000 to finance its Summer fresh air work was issued yesterday by the Children's Aid Society. The organization plans to give vacations to 6,000 boys and girls, and outings to 20,000 mothers, babies and children who cannot be accommodated at its seaside and country homes.

Charles Loring Brace, Executive Secretary of the society, issuing the appeal for funds, explained that $10 would provide one child with a two weeks' vacation at the shore or in the country; $25 would send five boys to camp for a week, and $50 would cover a full Summer's vacation for a crippled or ailing child who is in need of an extended outing.

The society plans to open its ten vacation centres about the middle of June. Mr. Brace estimated that $100,000 would be needed to keep them operating at full capacity all Summer. As has been their custom for several years, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor will charter a steamer to take hundreds on day excursions to Bath Beach.

They are expected to buy 880,000 pounds of provisions, which navy officers will inspect on the docks before delivery to the ships.

Performing Its Mission
Of Economy and Low Cost
Postal Life Insurance Company
Coming Steadily to the Front
Its Non-Agency Method Firmly Established

THE significance of its 9½% Guaranteed Commission Dividend is increasingly revealed and appreciated as it enters its twenty-first year.

Its message, carried for twenty years to every section of the country by its advertising in the national publications, is now automatically and quietly spread by its twenty-five thousand policyholders from their homes in hundreds of communities.

Thus are "sales" made without "salesmen." People desiring life insurance come or write directly to the Company.

The public "buy" in the POSTAL LIFE without the urge of the solicitor. There was a prevailing notion that in matters of life insurance, people in any considerable number would not act for themselves; the increasing number of policyholders in the Postal Life is evidence that this is not the case.

At the start doubtful people spoke "down" about the Postal Life. After twenty years of success, the same people "speak up" about it. Even the critics cannot pass it by without favorable comment. Here is what is said:

"This well known life insurance company has completed twenty years of successful life insurance writing under the non-agency system. Today it stands as one of the leading life insurance companies of the country. It deserves commendation for an excellent idea put into business practice."

Again: "The quality of the non-agency idea, as you have presented it, has been widely appreciated. Low cost of insurance in a responsible company, points directly to the Postal Life Insurance Company. It is the recognized outstanding company in conservation of money and of health."

Again: "In coming into your Company, one thinks for himself and acts for himself, and gets the results of his thinking and acting, in the 9½% dividend guaranteed to him. Yours is another open door where the public is coming into its own."

With so much already fulfilled, the future holds more than a promise.

Dividends Guaranteed in your Policy; also Contingent Dividends Paid as Earned.

The life-prolonging service of the Company's Health Bureau benefits policyholders and helps also to keep insurance cost down.

THE RECORD SHOWS, there has been paid to policy beneficiaries during twenty years.....$23,066,143.00
as follows:

On claims by death	11,405,118.00
In maturing endowments	1,408,837.00
In surrender values and dividends	2,843,756.00
In loans on their policies	7,408,432.00

THE RECORD SHOWS, in the decidedly low lapse rate, that Postal policyholders prize their policies and keep them in force.

THE RECORD SHOWS, in the distinctly low death rate, that Postal policyholders are well selected, and have been benefited by the Company's Health Bureau's service.

THE RECORD SHOWS, that policyholders acting for themselves in taking out policies save much expense, and that their being widely distributed geographically by the non-agency method is most valuable to the Company: knowledge of the Company's economies is kept spreading by policyholders themselves in the many communities where they reside.

These outstanding conditions in the Company have contributed to low cost of insurance, and will so continue.

What Has Sustained and Helped the Record

Standard policy-reserves, resources, $12,000,000. Insurance in force, $45,000,000.

Standard old-line legal reserve insurance—not fraternal or assessment.

Standard policy provisions, approved by the New York State Insurance Department.

Operates under strict requirements of New York State and subject to the United States postal authorities everywhere.

High medical standards in the selection of risks.

Payment of premiums monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually, optional with the policyholder at any time.

Are you running your Balloon Tires hard or soft?

Every extra pound of pressure that must be put into a balloon tire to make it serviceable takes away just so much from the cushioning.

Many balloon tires today are run harder than they should be for maximum cushioning.

But here is a Balloon Tire that need not be over-inflated to save it from early and uneven tread wear or tread separation.

You can run U.S. Royal low pressure Balloons at true low air pressure and it won't hurt them.

Because—

They have the new "Low-Pressure Tread," which prevents early and uneven tread wear—

And they are built of Latex-treated Web Cord, which gives maximum strength and flexibility.

No matter what your experience with other balloon tires may have been—

It is not necessary.

They are made for true low air pressures.

Chrysler Breaking Sales Records While Demand Goes Still Higher

The public's insistence on results that only the Chrysler Six delivers grows more emphatic week by week and month by month.

Mounting sales figures in the weekly reports for the United States show that the Chrysler Six—already a record-breaker in popularity—is soaring higher than ever before.

The latest weekly report registers an increase of 116% in retail sales over the corresponding week of 1924.

The sales for that week were 65% bigger than the very biggest week of 1924.

Furthermore, the last three weeks reported are the biggest weeks of 1925.

April, 1925, shows the largest month's business in Chrysler Six history.

Always mounting to higher and higher figures.

In New York, for example, April, 1925, shows an increase of 226% over 1924; Connecticut and the Boston district, including the remainder of New England, 133%; the Atlanta district, including Georgia, South Carolina and Florida, 364%; San Francisco district, including California, New Mexico and Nevada, 89%.

There never has been anything like it as a demonstration of public approval.

All of which becomes even more amazing, more significant when you recall that in 1924 the Chrysler Six had already established sales records unequaled in a quarter-century of motor car history.

Turn to the chart at your right. It shows you in simple and graphic way Chrysler Six production month by month.

See how the lines shoot up as Chrysler factory facilities were increased to meet the even more emphatic public demand for Chrysler Six results.

"Trelawney of the Wells," for its present purposes at the Knickerbocker, is one of those rare happy choices in the theatre; it is a play that suits the performers, the occasion, the spirit and shine of the audience that go to make up an annual revival from the Players' Club. This drama runs here and there as it likes, it is lovable, safely old-fashioned and traditional, whimsical, theatrical and full of fine active parts. The performance last night went less well than the play itself, up to the last act at least, deserves. A few days will bring more smoothness, let us hope, and more unity to the production. But the occasion is not one for critical about; it is more of a sort of old-home week in the theatre. Shouts and claps for all the boys is the rule of the day. And last night was one of the most delightful and hearty and sometimes touching events of the year. The venture deserves a theatre jammed to the doors until the closing performance.

In one happy way the play gained last night. It was in the heavy underscoring that came from having so many strong players in the various parts. The outlines of the parts were filled to their limits, their nuance and their lusty accentuation got the benefit of the heavy stressing and forcing forward of each separate rôle as each actor presented it. If this did not make for smoothness and for unity it at least brought the points of the play into bright and easy reach and gave to everything an added dazzle and contagious felicity. "Trelawney of the Wells" in such an atmosphere appeared to be a charming comedy indeed, very telling and very jolly theatre up to the last act, which slumps considerably in interest and effectiveness. The ideas of this act are good, the transition between one generation's theatre and another's is a fine theme, but the play's special end of it, the plot and its resolution, is less successfully achieved.

Everybody loved everybody on this blessed occasion at the Knickerbocker, and criticism of the players, except to praise, must sound stuffy and ill-tempered, induced by the hot weather and a too solemn critical obstinacy. An honest critic may therefore say only that some of the scenes need smoothing up, that the ideas in the last scene still need their chance and effectiveness, and that some of the performances need to be less forced and idly energetic. Violet Heming, Claude King, Mary Elisabeth Forbes and others, all of whom have good roles, can improve their playing by being more simple, more intense and more relaxed.

The prompter O'Dwyer, the struggling and tactful link between the old theatre and the new, was played to fine applause by John Cumberland. William Courtleigh as the tragic, humorless, sinking actor was good, Charles Coburn's old-style heavy tragedian, and Amelia Bingham as his Spartan wife and Gladys Hartson as the managing actress, and O. P. Heggie's butler were admirably right. The part of Rose Trelawney at Laurette Taylor's hands seemed to have been waiting these many years for her, so great was her pathetic and shy nuance, so subtle her transitions, so touchingly developed her change from the Gypsy player to the young lady who had been gentle living and fallen in love with the grandson of the formidable aristocratic grandfather. Miss Taylor's beautiful, appealing rhythm of movement and mind was everywhere in her playing, her extraordinary talent quietly and completely throughout her portrayal of the character. What a voice, what a dramatic mask and what shy precision she has.

John Drew turned out to be the revelation of the evening. Everyone knows that he is a synonym for fine character acting in society comedy. Everyone knows that he has taste, tradition and theatrical competency of the most finished kind. But few could have known until last night, I fancy, that he was an actor of great pathos and magnificent reserve and dramatic emphasis. He went straight to the heart with his depth and weight of feeling, he delighted the mind with his witty comment on life, his shading, his distribution of the meanings of his scenes and his fine accuracy and economy of effect. It was one of the superb performances of recent seasons in New York that Mr. Drew gave last night, and the ovation that he had at the end of the third act, with an audience standing on its feet, seemed a simple and expected tribute.

The part of Mrs. Mossop, who kept a rooming house for the varigated actors, was played to perfection. In that part was an old darling and she was Mrs. Thomas Whiffen.

"CHARLEY'S AUNT" REVIVED

Jack Chesney	Charles D. Penman
Brassett	Harry Lillford
Charley Wycham	Antony Stanford
Lord Fancourt Babberly	Sam A. Burton
Sir Francis Chesney	George Sydenham
Amy Spettigue	Hope Coxhead
Kitty Verdon	Grace Voss
Stephen Spettigue	Karl Stall
Donna Lucia d'Alvadorez	Ruth Chorpenning
Ella	Kathleen Middleton

With a number of modernizations, "Charley's Aunt," Brandon Thomas's comedy which scored a record of 1,466 continuous performances in London and which has become known for years in theatrical parlance as one of "those hardy perennials," returned to Broadway last night. Sam A. Burton, as Lord Fancourt Barberly "Babbs," impersonating the genuine Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez of the play, when a chaperon had to be supplied for his two college chums, disclosed much skill with and comprehension of his part.

Burton's burlesque on modern woman's taste for tobacco was particularly effective, when, in his feminine make-up, he rolled in the corner of his mouth a large, black Brazilian cigar, which looked formidable enough. His allusion to "Scotland, the land where famous whiskys come from," also found appreciation among a "dry" audience.

Charles D. Penman, as Jack Chesney, and Antony Stanford, as Charley Wycham, enlivened the play, as did Karl Stall, in the part of Stephen Spettigue, fascinated by the charms of the masquerading Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez. Harry Lillford, who played the part of Brassett at the Standard Theatre, New York, 1893, was able to "come back" strong in his old part, and received a cordial welcome from his audience, including many old acquaintances.

Creditable mention is also due to George Sydenham for the way he played Sir Francis Chesney and to all the actresses in the play, including Miss Hope Coxhead as Amy Spettigue, Miss Grace Voss as Kitty Verdon, Miss Ruth Chorpenning, who took the part of the real Donna Lucia d'Alvadorez, and Miss Kathleen Middleton as Ella.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

An Apache Melodrama.

PARISIAN NIGHTS, with Elaine Hammerstein, Gaston Glass, Lou Tellegen, William J. Kelly, Boris Karloff, Renee Adoree and Albert Gran; written by Emil Forst, directed by Al Santell; overture, selections from "Il Trovatore"; Mlle. Gambarelli, danceuse; "Marvels of Motion"; "Rex's Gang in Montmartre." At the Capitol.

Some ardent motion picture enthusiasts must have a wild idea of the French capital after having witnessed some of the apache stories that have been produced in the last two years. There appears to be a glamour about this Paris thief that prompts film makers to see that he is not neglected for long. At the Capitol this week is a pictorial effort entitled "Parisian Nights," which is perhaps more fantastic than the majority of photodramas of this type. But bizarre though it is, it holds the interest throughout its great length, and one is actually curious as to how the happy ending is to be accomplished.

In one chapter of this new film the American heiress is bound to a chair. The gallant terror of Paris is tied to a wooden post and a bald-headed old man is heating a wicked-looking weapon with which, it is inferred, the hero's eyes are to be rendered sightless. The young woman, a cohort of the thieves, is watching the eyes of the wealthy beauty who has captured the heart of the man she loves. With such a sequence, anybody is bound to be interested in the outcome.

After one accepts the outlandish ideas in this picture it is quite stirring, and there are a number of original tactics on the part of the scenario writer and the director. The subtitles in several instances are epigrammatic and the players, on the whole, give an excellent account of themselves, considering the melodramatic incidents.

Elaine Hammerstein, sturdy, bright-eyed and attractive, impersonates Adele, a wealthy American sculptress, whose Paris apartment is broken into one night by Jean, the crafty Adonis of the apaches and his colleague, Jacques. When the thieves are disturbed by the police, Jean assists Jacques to escape, and then, assuming a gallant rôle, returns Adele's jewels. Suddenly struck by the appearance of this terror of Paris, Adele insists to the police that he is her model. This idea strikes Jean as whimsically interesting and he subsequently poses for Adele. Lou Tellegen plays the part of this rascal, and proves when he is stripped to the waist that he is athletic and muscular. He becomes infatuated with the stunning American girl and one day tries to kiss her. She rebuffs him, but that night decides to visit the Tavern, a dive wherein gather the apaches. Adele is accompanied by a police official, who is garbed in the usual immaculate evening clothes, such as must be worn in films by every swell when going to such a place.

Then follows a scene where Jean actually snubs Adele, which prompted a young lady to cut left to say: "He high-hatted her. What do you know about that?"

In this narrative there are other bands of thieves, one of which is known as the Wolves. They are antagonistic to Jean and his gang, and just for a joke, one day, they kill one of his lieutenants and leave the body propped up against the door, with a lighted cigarette in the fingers of the right hand. Just as Marshal Nellan did in "Fools First," Al Santell arranges that Jean escapes arrest for murder on the strength of making the dead man appear to be alive. Jean puts the body in a chair, and the police search for the party, thinking nothing of the extraordinary silence of Jean's companion.

There are quite a number of gripping dramatic points in this story, which are originally worked out. In one scene Adele points a pistol at Jean and he smiles, telling her that such a weapon is useless without the cartridges, which he produces from his pocket. Adele, of course, thinks that Jean has unloaded the revolver and she is much surprised when he breaks the weapon and shows her that it was loaded, all the time.

The ending to this story is a bit too lurid, rather reminiscent of the old-fashioned serials, as the director has a hefty-looking gun bombard the building in which the Wolves are hiding with their captives, Jean and Adele. However, one has to accept it as the story and as it is extraordinarily well-filmed, with convincing settings, it makes a really good entertainment, far better than most melodramas or apache stories.

Mr. Tellegen is effective in the part of Jean and Miss Hammerstein is capable as the heroine. Gaston Glass is impressive as Jacques. Renée Adoree is earnest as the girl apache, who is steadfastly devoted to Jean.

The Fascinating Fortune Teller.

IF MARRIAGE FAILS, with Jacqueline Logan, Bella Bennett, Clive Brook, Jean Hersholt, Donald MacDonald, Mathilde Comont and Cissy Fitzgerald, directed by John Ince, supervised by C. Gardner Sullivan; overture, "The Colony Melody Masters"; "Four Romain Sisters"; "South Sea Entertainers," musical melange with Honolulu dancing girls; "Pango Pango Orchestra"; "Looking for Sally," a comedy, with Charles Chase; "The Isle of Romance," a resume of South Sea Pads and Fancies. At the Colony.

"If Marriage Fails," the new film at the Colony this week, contains surprise after surprise, with the result that one is thoroughly interested in this narrative, far-fetched though it may be. It does remind one vaguely of Richard Harding Davis's novel, "Vera the Medium."

The way in which the director achieves contrasts in scenic effects is decidedly skillful. There is the interesting chamber in which Nadio, the crystal gazer, tells the fortunes of her clients, and then comes a study in the art of cooking spaghetti, which sequence is accompanied to the organist's recital of "Funiculi Funiculia."

Jacqueline Logan is seen in the rôle of Nadio, and she acquits herself in fine fashion. Nadio is never temperate in her choice of gowns. One day she contents herself by appearing in shimmering silver, and the next in a flowing black garment. Latterly she indulges her fancy by wearing the latest vogue in short skirts.

Nadio's apartment is bound to interest anybody who goes to see this picture. The room in which she poses as a clairvoyant, with her crystal before her, is filled with mystery. There are incense burners guarding the circular door through which she makes her entrance, long velvet curtains, and mellow lights. When Nadio appears, the circular opening through which she mysteriously steps into the room sends a flood of light into the chamber. This mysterious door works like the diaphram of a camera. She is "irised" in and "irised" out, her faithful old maid turning the crank which gradually opens the wonderful door.

Eleanor Woodbury, described as a wealthy "nit-wit," happens to have tired of her wealthy young husband, and is carrying on a flirtation with a man alluded to as a "poleeat du parlour." Mrs. Woodbury one day has an appointment with Nadio, and is charmed with the eerie chamber. But Nadio is temperamental, and in this instance she says that she is too tired to tell Mrs. Woodbury's fortune.

Of course the neglected husband meets the fascinating Nadio and is not uninterested in her. Nadio finds that the constant proposals of marriage from Dr. Malini are tedious, and she delights in Mr. Woodbury's company.

Another remarkable setting in this picture is a place termed "Venezia," to which the elite and the fast go for dancing and supper. At the portals of this establishment is an immense pool on which float gondolas rowed by pretty girls. Complications arise when Woodbury and Nadio in this place encounter Mrs. Woodbury and three others, which results in Mrs. Woodbury wanting to be in her husband's company. She is, however, a faithless creature and just when Nadio is doleful because she has lost Woodbury—as she thinks—she and the fawning Dr. Malini find Mrs. Woodbury and her usual escort in the road. They had just escaped a raid in the "Venezia." Mrs. Woodbury pleads to be taken to town in Nadio's automobile, and thereby hangs the balance of this story.

The suspense is well worked out in this tale and the captions are invariably good. The wealthy husband is described as a fountain pen for his silly wife, and Nadio is supposed to talk with a beguiling French accent.

Belle Bennett is interesting in the character of Mrs. Woodbury, and Clive Brook is quiet and sympathetic as the neglected husband. Jean Hersholt is excellent as Dr Malini. Mathilde Comont is amusing as Lisa, Nadio's maid.

In the opening chapter the action is a little overdone, the antics being fast and furious. Miss Logan is charming in the rôle of the fortune teller, although a little restraint on her part would have improved several scenes.

ZIEGFELD FOR WEBER'S STANDARD-PRICE PLAN

Agrees No. 2 Companies Shouldn't Charge as Much for Seats as the Original Ones.

Florenz Ziegfeld, producer of the Ziegfeld Follies, yesterday issued a statement indorsing a proposed resolution by L. Lawrence Weber whereby he would have theatre managers standardize their box-office prices next season.

"I perfectly agree with Mr. Weber," said Mr. Ziegfeld, "that all No. 2 companies should charge $3 for musical shows and $2 for dramatic shows on the road. It is not fair that managers should charge the same price for No. 2 companies that they do for the original New York companies with the original casts. Some managers are not content with No. 2 companies, but even have four or five companies on the road at the same prices. As a result of this arrangement the public is often misled and does not know if it is getting the real thing or not. Very frequently, for fear of being fooled, it stays away from the theatre entirely.

"No manager, however, can afford to cut the prices when he sends out an original company from New York with the original stars, for the cost of production, and transportation and other expenses even at capacity business are so great that he cannot exist at less than a $5 rate.

"In the case of a show like 'Kid Boots,' with the original cast, it is absolutely impossible to make a profit unless you charge $5 a seat, with actors' salaries as high as they are now. I personally, however, have never been in favor of No. 2 companies, and it is for this reason that I have never sent out any companies of the 'Follies,' 'Kid Boots' and 'Louie the 14th.'

"I have always believed and experienced the fact that the public is willing to pay a fair price for value received, but I regret to say that it is absolutely imperative that actors' salaries be reduced, and the cost of production, because no manager can exist under present conditions. The truth of this statement is evidenced by the fact that several big musical revues will be discontinued after this season."

"SPOOKS" FULL OF MYSTERY

Elliot Butterfield	Roy Gordon
Judy	Dixie Loftin
Marion Blackwell	Ethel Wilson
Sam	Cy Plunkett
Douglas Blackwell	Grant Mitchell
Laurette Payne	Marcia Byron
Silas Willoby	Arthur Olmi
Messenger Boy	Ward MacDonough
Inspector Ryan	Cecil Owen
Miss Brown	Emmy Martin
Police Officer	Harry Buchanan

"Spooks," a mystery farce by Robert J. Sherman, that has been reasonably successful in Chicago, came to the Forty-eighth Street Theatre last night and provided its sweltering audience with only a moderate amount of enjoyment.

The substance and the technique of all mystery farces are pretty much the same. For one reason or another a group of persons is confined in a mysterious house in which there is no end of weird happenings—sudden rappings and white-sheeted apparitions or the equivalent thereof—all of which is rationally explained for the final curtain. So much for the mystery. The farce is compounded of a stage comedy character or two, generally in the shape of negro servants or central office detectives and a large amount of vaudeville niftiness.

"Spooks" is no revolutionary exception to the general rule. It suffers, in part, through the evident desire of its author to show that there really is an intelligent explanation for all his unrelated happenings, and at times the action of the play halts while the characters talk over details of plot and their basis. This outside jokes—which contained several callow epigrams of the "woman-is-like-an-olive" school—were not too wisely selected.

The cast is one of varying excellence. Grant Mitchell, of course, takes in his stride such assignments as are given him. And Roy Gordon and Marsha Byron were others who gave some indication of understanding the burlesque spirit in which the proceedings were to have been handled.

The new play is what Broadway in recent years has come kindly to term hot weather entertainment.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

A performance of "The Bird Cage," a pantomime, will be given at the Fifty-second Street Theatre this afternoon by the Ram's Head Players of Washington. It will be repeated Friday afternoon.

Leslie Henson, the well-known English comedian, will be seen here next season under the management of Freedley & Arons.

McKay Morris has been engaged for the leading role of "The School Mistress," to be produced in July by Henry W. Savage and A. H. Woods.

"King Groog and His Grouch" will be presented soon at the Children's Playhouse, 120 East Fortieth Street, under the direction of M. Ingendorf. Three pantomimes with music will be produced later. They are "Pierrot and Columbine on Little West Jones Street," with music by Julius Mattfeld; "Dick Whittington," with music by Gertrude Hope, and a revival of "Gillonne and Gillette," with music by Ruth Shipley.

Ulrich Haupt last night appeared in the leading role of "The Firebrand," hitherto played by Joseph Schildkraut.

"The Cricket on the Hearth," recently produced for special performances, will be repeated at the Provincetown Playhouse the rest of the week.

William A. Brady yesterday put into rehearsal "Fear," a new play by Owen Davis, which will open out of town next month. Lumsden Hare, Eric Dresser and Miriam Doyle have the leading roles.

Some time during the Summer Galina Kopernak, now in "Aloma of the South Seas," will appear in the leading rôle of "The Squall," written by herself, in a production by a Cleveland stock company.

Ruth Comes to Yankees' Aid but Senators Win by 5 to 3

RUTH BACK IN GAME, BUT YANKS LOSE, 5-3

JOHNSON CHECKS HUGMEN

Falters in Eighth, but Marberry Comes to the Rescue—Rice Leads Attack on Jones.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Slimmer and weaker, his face drawn and his legs so feeble that they could hardly carry him over the ground, baseball's greatest invalid came back yesterday to grace the diamond again—and to listen to the old familiar music of 10,000 wildly cheering fans.

Ruth rose again but the Yankees continued on the downward trail. The team was sicker than the man, and the ablebodied Senators, playing irresistible ball, won at the Stadium by 5 to 3. This defeat, the Yanks' fifth straight, sent them careening down to within a half game of last place. Ruth is starting at scratch.

In six innings—as many as he could stand—the convalescent clouter drew one base on balls, grounded out twice, missed a homer by inches, was caught at the plate after a heart-breaking dash from first and made one of the most heroic catches ever seen in a ball orchard.

Not an impressive record, yet, considering the condition of the man, it stands as the finest day that Ruth has contributed to baseball. He was in no condition to play. His heart and arms and shoulder may have been strong but his legs were terribly weak. He could scarcely run at faster than a dog trot. As he moved over the ground his legs churned up and down like those of a runner in distress.

Makes Brilliant Play.

His cruising radius in right field was only a scant few yards, but in the fifth he made what was to this observer one of the greatest plays of many campaigns. Senators were on first and second with two out when Joe Judge slugged a long and hard drive toward the fence in right centre. Ruth, going back and to his right, was painfully slow yet putting everything he had into his run. As he neared the fence the ball winged over his right shoulder, high in the air and not within reaching distance. There was only one thing to do, and the Babe did it. He left his feet and went up; as the ball hit it above he fell on his right side and rolled like a ground tumbler. Combs had to help the fallen gladiator to his feet, but the ball was still in that mitt.

Now look at the fourth inning. Combs led off with a single. Ruth took a strike and then sent a screaming liner toward the right field bleachers. The only thing that screamed louder was the crowd, which rose in a tumult. But the ball was a foul by a foot or two.

Walter Johnson took no more chances and gave Ruth no more good ones. The big Sam walked. Meusel then poked a slashing smack over Rice's head in right centre. Ruth, running with all his strength, but with pitiful slowness, gamely tried for the plate. He dived for the platter and landed with a thud, flat on his waistline—out by a foot on a strike that would have scored him standing up in the good old days.

Ruth was meeting the ball squarely, but it will be a week or more before he is in condition to play real baseball. His swing was reduced in speed and sharpness, but his paunch is still as prominent as ever.

All in all, it was the most supicious show put on at the Stadium this year. Ruth, Walter Johnson; the boy manager, Bucky Harris; Nick Altrock and Al Schacht formed the gallery of celebrities, and still the washday crowd was not much above the 10,000 level. As Ruth trutted out to patrol his beat he got a riotous welcome. Gentlemen, he was a heart-warming sight.

Game Won in Seventh.

The Senators won the game in the seventh when Goose Goslin laid the wood for a triple with two on. Sam Rice was the huskiest batter of the matinee, with three singles, a triple and a double—a lot of hits to make in five times up.

Samuel Pond Jones drew the choice assignment of battling Sir Walter, Sam, although brusquely hit, went out honorably for a pinch hitter. Not so with Johnson. In the eighth, with the bases packed and two gone, Harris ran the Big Train up a siding and requested Fred Marberry to lend a helping hand.

Each team scored once in the fourth. Goslin opened with a triple, and would have had a homer if he hadn't stumbled going around first. Sam Rice also fell flat in the identical spot in the first, proving that large feet run in pairs on the Senatorial team.

Goslin, after taking his lengthy brogans to third, scored on Joe Harris's fly to Combs. This aroused the Yanks to a tally, chalked up by Combs ahead of Ruth on the latter's futile race around the bases.

The Babe's noble catch cut off a pair in the fifth, but the Capital cut-ups laced Mr. Jones good and plenty in the seventh with two out. After his fourth hit, a single, Rice stole second. Schang should have had him. Rice counted on Stan Harris's double and Judge received a walk. Goslin did the rest with a swat inside first for three.

A triple by Rice and a fly by Buck Harris made it 5—2 in the ninth, but Ernie Johnson lined a homer into the right bleachers with one on. This helped to make the score more respectable.

HOMER WINS FOR TIGERS.

DETROIT, June 1.—The Detroit Tigers won the opening game of the series with Chicago White Sox here today, 8 to 6. The outcome of the game was in doubt until the last inning. Going into the ninth with the score tied at 6—6, Doyle doubled to left and Haney fanned. O'Rourke hit to the left field fence, the ball rolling into the street for a home run. Neun, running for Doyle, scored ahead of O'Rourke.

Rutgers Nine Elects Raab.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., June 1.—George R. Raab, varsity third baseman, was today elected captain of the Rutgers baseball team for next season. Raab has played in the outfield for two years, but this Spring was moved to the infield.

Landis Arrives in Rochester.

ROCHESTER, Minn., June 1 (AP).—Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, accompanied by Mrs. Landis, arrived here today from Chicago. Judge Landis could not be reached, but it was said at the hotel at which he registered that they came to consult physicians at the Mayo Clinic.

Pickups and Putouts

The Senators moved one game nearer first place and the Yanks one nearer last place when the Red Sox won. Things were not like this a twelvemonth ago.

Ward fanned three times, twice on called strikes. Aaron could have saved himself a lot of work by leaving his bat in the dugout.

Ruth picked the hottest day of the year for his début, which makes it look as if the Board of Strategy got its signals crossed.

Well, the season was a long time beginning.

Combs retained his batting notch and Ruth went to fourth position. That postponed his appearance until the second round. He tapped the first ball weakly to Johnson and ran only halfway.

One of the minor tragedies of the afternoon was the demise of "Pee-Wee" Wanninger's hitting streak, which ended at twelve straight games.

Walter Johnson was no open-handed philanthropist, allowing only five hits. But in the eighth he walked Dugan, Combs doubled and Veach strolled. Marberry rushed in and fanned Meusel for the third out.

GIANTS' DOZEN HITS SPOIL ROBINS' DAY

Two Homers by Meusel Among Drives That Give McGrawmen 8-to-4 Victory.

TERRY'S DOUBLE SCORES 3

Lindstrom's 4-Bagger Also Helps Make Afternoon Sad One for 15,000 at Ebbets Field.

By HARRY CROSS.

It is going to be a sweet event for Brooklyn on the day that they beat the Giants. The nice, neighborly folks across the bridge have been looking forward to the occasion since the season onened and the Giants are just mean enough to keep on postponing it indefinitely.

A faint impression got abroad in Brooklyn yesterday that the big day had arrived when the Robins were going to take their first of the season from New York, and a big washday crowd of 15,000 just dropped everything and flocked to Ebbets Field.

It was the same old tune. New York spanked the Robins again. In fact, the Giants rubbed it in. The score was 8 to 4.

Irish Meusel could have beaten the Robins with his bat alone if it had been necessary. He belted two home runs off Burleigh Grimes, one into the left-field bleachers in the fourth and the other over the garden wall in right in the fifth. There were sundry other smashes of various sizes and proportions.

The Giants made a dozen hits for a total of twenty-four bases. Besides Meusel's brace of homers, Freddy Lindstrom got one and Jackson got a triple and a double. Terry got a two-bagger in the fifth with the bases crowded, and his slap swept the bases like a vacuum cleaner.

Grimes Loses His Smile.

Zeke Barnes kept the Robins' bats from becoming boisterous. They didn't tickle him enough to make him giggle until the eighth, when it seemed that he let the Robins toy with a few hits just out of the goodness of his heart. Up to that time Barnes showed just what smooth pitching ought to be. He had many of the Robins spinning the ball merrily into the air where there was a reception committee waiting.

Burleigh Grimes didn't take the rude treatment of the Giants with much of a smile. Grimes had an idea that Umpire Barry McCormick was making the hits instead of the Giants, judging from the way he got after McCormick. The new Robin captain, Jack Fournier, also tried out his authority just to see if it would work.

Jack was winning by a big margin over the umpire until Barry told him if he didn't pipe down he'd call the constabulary. Then Fournier decided that the captain of a ball club couldn't get any further with an umpire than an ordinary ball player.

The Giants hopped into the lead in the fourth when, with one out, Meusel emulated his first homer run into the left-field sun benches. In the fourth inning Brooklyn actually tied the score on Mitchell's single and Fournier's triple. It was said by mathematicians that this was the first time this season that the Robins had even tied the champions.

Champions Sew Up Game.

The fifth was a wow. Snyder singled and Barnes laid down a sacrifice, but Jimmy Johnston made a bad toss to first and Zeke was high and dry. Southworth rolled to Grimes and Snyder was forced at third.

Young walked and filled the bases. Terry's two-bagger to an uninhabited nook in left swept the three runners across the plate and then Meusel's second home run carried Terry in.

Lindstrom opened the eighth with a homer off Hubbell. Walker singled, and scored on Jackson's triple. Singles by Stock and Taylor in the eighth were followed by Johnny Mitchell's triple and resulted in two more Robin runs. Loftus singled in the ninth, went to second without interruption and scored on Stock's single.

Irish Meusel's idea seems to be to go out after the home-run record that is being hung up by his brother Bob of the Yanks. There's a heap of home runs in that family.

The Giants now have beaten the Robins five times this season.

Manager McGraw, Captain Frisch and General-All-Around-Man Kelly are now missing from the Giants and they keep right on winning.

COLUMBIA GETS REVENGE.

Seniors Trounce Professors, but Have to Play Baseball to Do It.

Members of the senior class of Columbia College defeated the Columbia Faculty nine by a score of 5 to 4 in a seven-inning game on South Field yesterday afternoon. The contest was a feature of the annual class day program. Cort Wilson started the game for the seniors but retired in the fourth inning when Joe Gephart took his place. The Faculty threatened to tie the score in the final frame when Professor Edward M. Earle tripled with none out. Gephart retired the side by striking the next man out and catching two infield flies.

Olympic Body Says "Once Pro Always Pro"; Athletes Must Lose Wages During Games

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 1 (AP).—Any athlete who knowingly is, or has been, a professional in any sport cannot compete in the Olympic Games, was the decision reached today by the Olympic Technical Congress. The Congress laid down the general principle, once a professional always a professional.

Although proclaiming this general principle, the Congress decided that the exact definition of professionalism should be made by the International Sporting Federation.

The Congress also decided, by a vote of 66 to 21, to exclude from the games any athletes who receive money to reimburse them for the loss of wages or salaries. Gustavus T. Kirby of the United States led the fight against the reimbursement of lost wages, declaring those who wanted to be paid for the time they devote to sports should become professionals. The Olympic Games were for amateurs and for nobody but amateurs, he declared.

The Congress has decided to replace the old system of classifying the victors by a roll of honor that will bear the names of winners.

NANNES EXTENDS CROCKER AT TENNIS

BEHR VICTOR OVER ABELS

Flashes Fine Form in Putting Out Opponent, 6-1, 6-2—Talmage and De Mott Also Advance.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Willard Crocker of Montreal is learning that he doesn't have to wait until the Davis Cup matches and national championships are played to get into a good scrap on the tennis courts. The young Canadian Davis Cup star, playing through his first season of metropolitan tournaments, has managed to get into hot water in every one of the three local tournaments in which he has engaged thus far, and yesterday, in the Brooklyn championship at the Terrace Club, he found himself on the short end of a 3–0 score at the start of his match with Casper Nannes.

Crocker won the match at 6–4, 7–5, but is wondering where so many good players spring from. You could ask a lot of New York players about Nannes and they wouldn't know who he is, though this condition of affairs won't exist much longer if he keeps on improving as much as he has in the last year. For the last few seasons Nannes has been plugging through one tournament after another. Crocker had fair warning of what to expect in his match yesterday, for on Sunday Nannes disposed of Orser at 6–4, 6–2.

From the way he started off against the Canadian Davis Cup player it seemed as though Nannes looked upon Crocker as only one more obstacle in his path toward the championship. He sent over four services that Crocker either failed to touch or barely managed to get back over the net, where Nannes put the ball away with finished volleys and took the opening game at love. He broke through in the second game at 6–0, taking Crocker off his feet with powerful forehanders, and then won the third game, resorting to sudden changes of length and pace that caught his opponent totally unprepared. Trailing at 3–0 against such stiff opposition as this, the Montreal star appeared to be in for a tough session.

Crocker began to play his real game in the fourth and tied the score at 3–all, allowing Nannes only 3 points in the process. Nannes became overanxious and began to hit into the net and to overplay his volleys. In the second set the local player got the first game and Crocker took the next three. Nannes broke through in the tenth and tied the score at 5–all, making the trickiest sort of recoveries. Crocker was kept so busy applauding his opponent's good shots that he forgot to make some himself. He remembered in the eleventh and broke through and brought the match to an end in the twelfth.

Allan Behr has discovered some magical sort of stringing for his racquet that is working wonders. His playing has been commented on since the season started, and he gave the chairholders something more to think about yesterday by trouncing Walter J. Abel at 6–1, 6–2. Reginald Talmage, Ralph De Mott, Russell Phillips and Irving Weinstein were the other winners in the third round, and only four brackets remain to be filled in the fourth round. Jerry Lang of Columbia, the defending champion, is scheduled to play two matches today, providing he gets by his first opponent, Paul Martin.

The summaries:

Third Round—Irving Weinstein defeated Anton F. Von Bernuth, 2–6, 7–5, 8–6; Reginald Talmage defeated Selden Noyes, 6–4, 6–3; Whlard Crocker defeated Casper Nannes, 6–4, 7–5; Allan Behr defeated Walter J. Abels, 6–1, 6–2; Ralph M. De Mott defeated Manuel H. Barreda, 6–1, 6–3; Russell Phillips defeated Trumbull, 6–0, 6–1.

W. S. A. SETS DATES FOR OUTDOOR MEETS

The Women's Swimming Association of New York, which harbors most of America's champion mermaids, outlined final plans for the outdoor season at a meeting of the Sports Committee yesterday afternoon. Activities will be launched with a water carnival, under W. S. A. supervision, in the pool of the Olympia Baths, Long Beach, L. I., on June 14, and there is assurance of a particularly interesting display, as all the association topnotchers will take part, including Miss Gertrude Ederle, slated to attempt the swim across the English Channel in July. This will be her farewell appearance before sailing for England on June 17.

Most of the W. S. A. stars will go to Bear Mountain for a set of open A. A. U. events the following Sunday, but the Misses Helen Wainwright, Helen Meany and a few others will attend the important meet in Cincinnati the same day, then proceed to Asheville, N. C., where they will be joined by several clubmates, and all be contenders in a four-day aquatic gala there, from June 22 to 26. They will be back in time to swim at a local meet on the 28th.

The feature of Independence Day will be a carnival at Amityville, L. I., and from there the association girls will go to Bayshore, where the first of the metropolitan open water championships and a couple of invitation races will afford an especially attractive card on July 5. Bear Mountain again will be the rendezvous on the eleventh, with more of the district title tests as the chief consideration, and the Saturday after will see the naiads gather at Long Beach for the second meet under the auspices of the W. S. A. at the Olympia baths.

It was voted to accept an invitation to send a team to a meet in Youngstown, Ohio, on Aug. 1 and 2, and to be represented by a full contingent, probably a dozen or more contenders, at the National A. A. U. outdoor championships in Detroit from Aug. 6 to 8 inclusive.

Stanwix and Mrs. A. M. Bailey as the outstanding contenders. Several surprising scores resulted at the very start. COLUMBIA CREWS DRILL ON HUDSON

PENN HOLDS 2 WORKOUTS

Rice Aims for Endurance and Will Put Men on 20-Miles-a-Day Program Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 1.—Coach Bill Haines with his Columbia varsity and junior varsity crews took to the water this afternoon for the second long row since the Lion oarsmen stowed their gear in the boathouse at Crum Elbow. They covered the course at a leisurely pace until they slid in under the bridge when the stroke was lifted from twenty-eight to over thirty. From the shore there seemed to be changes in the varsity boating but no information would be given out at the boathouse.

The secrecy that surrounds the present changes in boatings, however, is not expected to last long. Haines is pleased with the material he has to work with, and after he selects his strongest combinations will settle down to long rows to build the men up for the four-mile race.

The Penn oarsmen got in two good workouts today. Coach Jim Rice took them down the river for about three miles, but the best was never taken much over thirty and he contented himself with seeing that the men ironed the kinks out of their muscles after the short lay-off. No changes were made in boatings, the Varsity remaining the same as for the American Henley races. The afternoon spin was late today as the sweep swingers are taking examinations at "The Elms" and the sun had sunk to the rim of the hills before the boats were launched.

Rice plans to give his oarsmen plenty of work and for the next week will pilot the shells over twenty miles each day.

"I must pick a boatload of men who have the hearts to stand up under the four-mile grind," said the veteran coach. "The requirements for a four-mile race differ from those for a shorter one and we mean to develop a crew that will have just those winning qualifications."

2 HARVARD CREWS FIGHT STORM PERIL

Special to The New York Times.

REDTOP, Conn., June 1.—Harvard's combination and freshman crews came within an ace of being swamped about 6:30 o'clock this evening when a thunder squall suddenly came out of the northwest.

An hour earlier Coach Ed Stevens boarded his speed launch and followed the Crimson varsity eight two miles down the course on the Thames. The combination and freshman boats, with Assistant Coach Bert Haines accompanying them, followed a few minutes later. Lightning and heavy clouds were discerned to the north and Coach Stevens brought his varsity men back to the boat house just as the squall reached Red Top.

The freshmen and varsity boats were returning but still a quarter of a mile from quarters when the gale hit them. The high wind and choppy sea threatened to swamp both shells. Coach Haines shouted directions and words of encouragement through his megaphone and the oarsmen pluckily pulled for the float.

The freshmen attempted a landing, but missed the float and were soon swept down the stream. Again a landing was attempted, the whole varsity squad awaiting to give them assistance, and again the shell was swept down the river. A third trial was successful, the varsity men assisting in pulling the boat up to the landing.

Meanwhile the combination crew was bobbing on the waves and struggling to keep the boats head up to the wind, but had better luck in making the float, where the varsity oarsmen repeated their life-saving act.

Yale's crews were given morning and evening practice today. Coach Leader took his varsity crews about two miles above the boathouse shortly before noon. The combination and freshmen coaches contented themselves with a two-mile workout for their men. The evening's practice was a duplication of the earlier work.

Leader today tried out both Ficke and Russell in Prudhomme's seat at No. 3 in the varsity. It is not known whether the change will be permanent. A shift also was made in Yale's combination and junior varsity boats. Donald Welles, coxswain in the junior varsity, changed positions with Stanley White in the combination boat.

One of the warmest days of the season greeted the oarsmen at the Gales Ferry quarters today. Harvard's head coach, Stevens, and Combination Coach Fred Spuhn were active, preparing for the Crimson crews' first practice upon the Thames River, but their plans went askew when the big float fronting the boathouse could not be launched in time, owing to the low tide.

SILVER FOX TAKES PURSE

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Danby, E. Plath's bay colt by Star Master—Lady Algy, with Edgar Barnes in the saddle and carrying only 108 pounds, gained an easy victory in the Bayside Handicap, a mile dash for the three-year-olds that featured the card at Belmont Park yesterday afternoon. Only five ran and the winner was the 3-to-5 favorite. The race was run in the slow time of 1:39 over a fast track.

A good-sized Monday crowd turned out for the seven races on the card, an additional race having been necessary on account of the unusual entry in one of the events, which was split. Four favorites and an equal first choice rewarded their followers.

With By Hisself, Silver Rock and Cloudland scratched out, the Bayside lost no little interest. Danby raced as if he was the best of the lot. F. E. Brown's Laplander had the early foot after a bad start, in which the Kalmpa Farm's Sweeping Away and R. T. Wilson's Campfire Tales had no chance when the barrier went up.

Laplander had all the best of it at the barrier and quickly opened a length lead on the others. Barnes rated Danby back of the pace until they reached the head of the stretch, where he came around Laplander and drew away to win easily. Laplander held on well and the race was between the two, A. C. Bostwick's Scorcher being eight lengths back to take third money.

Only Four in the Roamer.

Only four ran for the Roamer Purse, a mile dash for three-year-olds and upward, and this also was easily won, victory going to the Rancocas Stable's three-year-old gray colt Silver Fox. Silver Fox had all his speed and broke fast, but Laverne Fator eased him back soon after the start, leaving the Glen Riddle Farm's filly Whetstone to set the pace.

Fator sent Silver Fox to the front in the second furlong, saved ground with the son of Grey Fox II. and won with plenty to spare. At the finish he was three lengths in front of the Log Cabin Stud's Blind Play, which came up on the outside. The Fair Play colt weakened in the last sixteenth and just saved the place by a head from Whetstone, which dropped back to trail the field soon after the start and came again with a rush at the end. The race was run in 1:37 2-5, the winner being in light under 107 pounds. Whetstone was the 8-to-5 favorite, backed from even money, while the winner was little fancied at 4 to 1.

The Highlander Selling Steeplechase over the course of about two miles was an easy victory for L. H. Conger's six-year-old mare Isis, which showed remarkable improvement, to beat six others. Hunt took her into a long lead the first turn of the field and she was never menaced thereafter, winning by ten lengths from the Greentree Stable's Connibert, the 11-to-5 favorite. The latter was hard ridden, but could never get on terms with the leader, and only took the place by a head from Mrs. Alexander Brown's Ruins. The winner was held at 5 to 2.

King Colin in Front.

The Westhampton Purse, a dash of six furlongs, was split and the second division run as the seventh race. The first section proved an easy victory for H. Hogan's five-year-old King Colin, while the second section was won by W. S. House, colt Day Trap.

TITLE CYCLING TO BEGIN.

Arthur Spencer, present titleholder, will begin the defense of his American cycling sprint championship honors tonight at the New York Velodrome, where he is to face a formidable field of rivals in the quarter-mile national professional championship, the first of a series of twenty-four races to be held through the outdoor season to determine the country's sprint championship.

Foremost among the contenders for Spencer's title this year are Pete Moeskops, Hollander, who has held the world's championship for the past four years. Moeskops is making his first bid for American title honors.

BIG TEN RESULT A PUZZLE.

Non-Conference Teams to Be Factor in Western Title Games.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 1 (AP).—With an almost equal number of outside teams arrayed against the conference schools, track followers were speculating today as to which of the former will pull down the biggest share of points in the twenty-fifth annual Big Ten outdoor track championships here this week end. Six outside teams a year ago collected, all told, only 32 points.

At least four and possibly more of the nine non-Big Ten teams must be given serious consideration. They are Missouri, Notre Dame, Butler and Ohio Wesleyan. None of these is likely, even under the most propitious circumstances, to be crowned champion. But any one of the four is likely to cut into the scoring sufficiently to hurt the chances of any of the leading conference squads.

Hughes, Veteran Jockey, Dies.

Lloyd Hughes, for many years the leading jockey for George Lorillard, died yesterday after a lingering illness. In his day Hughes was as prominent as is Sande and the other leading riders of today.

Post and Paddock

There was plenty of racing for patrons at Belmont Park yesterday afternoon, with seven events on the card. There was such a big entry for the Westhampton Purse—thirty-three in all—that the Westchester management decided to make two races of it.

Jockey Hunt on Isis came pretty near tossing away the Highlander Steeplechase. He turned around to watch the others just before taking one of his jumps and the mare nearly came a cropper.

If he hadn't had such a good colt as Marche Militaire under him Legere might have thrown away the two-year-old race. Laverne Fator was sneaking up on him with a great rush with Nichavo on the outside near the finish.

Pawgrill and Beatrice Patricia were ordered scratched out of the seventh race just before the horses went to the post for being late in reporting. Beatrice Patricia actually got into the parade, but was sent back to the paddock.

F. M. Kelly's four-year-old colt Showy broke down in the sixth race. Coltiletti pulled him up sharply at the eighth pole and dismounted.

Coltiletti was out of luck. In the two-year-old race the Sanford Stud Farm's filly Syria bolted at the start and unseated the jockey.

The coolest place at Belmont Park was under the enclosure part of the grandstand. The new soda fountain did a rushing business and the patronage was by no means confined to feminine followers of racing.

Delco Wins

Peter De Paolo, driving a Duesenberg Special with Delco ignition, won the great 500 mile race at Indianapolis, breaking all records for this track at an average speed of over 101 miles per hour.

Of the 22 cars that started, only 4 were Delco equipped, yet 3 of these cars finished first, third and eighth. The fourth held eighth place at 387 miles when it smashed into the wall and was out of the race.

Not once—but for 6 consecutive years—the winning cars at each 500 mile Indianapolis race have been Delco equipped. And Delco uses to the utmost the experience gained from this unrivalled racing record in designing and building the electrical equipment to be found on the majority of the finest built cars in the world.

Question: How is a decision made to incorporate an improvement in Buick design?

Answer: At least one hundred thousand miles of test by Buick engineers are required. This determines positively whether a suggested change really will improve Buick's fine performance.

Mascart Wins First Bout Here

Frenchman in New York Debut Gets Decision in 10-Round Battle at Queensboro A. C.

BAKER OUTPOINTS ESTRIDGE

Edouard Mascart, French featherweight, making his first appearance in a metropolitan ring, battered his way to the decision over Carl Duane, Bronx favorite, in the concluding ten-round bout of three which featured the open-air boxing card at the Queensboro A. C. in Long Island City last night. Rain fell throughout the battle, which was witnessed by a crowd of about 5,000.

The French lad satisfied the crowd with his ability as a two-fisted fighter and his gameness and made a distinct impression through his victory. Duane was not the Duane of old, but he fought courageously, despite the battering which cut, bruised and hurt him. He thrilled the crowd with a closing three-round rally which came near turning the tide of battle his way.

Battered through the first seven rounds of a vicious, head-to-head slugfest, Duane flashed a sensational rally in the eighth round and twice floored Mascart with rights to the jaw.

Mascart got up at the count of two on the first knockdown, and at the count of four on his second trip to the canvas. He was groggy and helpless, and the crowd yelled for his downfall, but Duane, tired and weary himself, had not the strength to finish his rival.

It was the same in the ninth and tenth rounds, when Duane carried the fighting, but the Bronx lad's closing rally could not overcome the lead on points gained by Mascart in the first seven rounds. Duane boxer weighed 125½ pounds.

Sergeant Sammy Baker, soldier-fighter of Mitchel Field, won the decision from Larry Estridge, Harlem negro middleweight, in their ten-round bout, which preceded the Mascart-Duane battle. Rain also fell through most of this bout.

Baker's aggressive work and hard hitting earned him the honors in seven of the ten rounds. Two went to Estridge and one was even. Only the negro's covering-up in the last four rounds saved him from a knockout. Estridge had a gruggy in the seventh when Baker's smashing rights and lefts to the jaw had him in distress.

Harry Felix, East Side lightweight, who is a stablemate of Sid Terris, won the decision from Tony Palmer, in the first of the scheduled feature bouts.

This contest, originally scheduled for ten rounds, was cut to nine with the threat of rain hovering over the arena, and also to permit the main bout to enter the ring at 10 o'clock, in conformity with the State Athletic Commission's rule. Felix easily won this battle, excelling Palmer in every department of the game.

In the six-round preliminary Ruby Goldstein, local featherweight, won the decision from Earl Gray of Bridgeport. The first preliminary, four-round struggle between Georgie Denny, Bronx, junior lightweight, and Al Nuzzella, of the East Side, was declared a draw.

GENE TUNNEY CONFIDENT.

Believes His Youth and Strength Will Win Against Gibbons.

Gene Tunney, Greenwich Village product, who is to face Tom Gibbons, St. Paul veteran, in a fifteen-round bout at the Polo Grounds on Friday night which is expected to produce an outstanding contender for the world's heavyweight title, is depending on his youth and strength to score a decisive victory over Gibbons when they clash. This is the word sent to this city yesterday by Tunney from his training quarters at Saratoga Lake.

The west side favorite, ten years younger than Gibbons at 27, and stronger and bigger now than he ever was, expects Gibbons's superior speed to give the St. Paul veteran the advantage for the early rounds, but intends to slow up Gibbons before the fight is half completed and is confident that he can, under these conditions, advance to victory.

BANKS TO AID BOXING SHOW

For the first time in the history of boxing in New York the banking institutions will aid in the sale of tickets, ten already having placed orders for tickets to the Italian Hospital Fund show. One of the feature bouts of the event, to be held at the Polo Grounds June 19, will be between Harry Wills and Charlie Weinert, while the other will bring Mickey Walker and Harry Greb into the ring together.

At his camp at Summit, N. J., yesterday Walker worked out before a crowd of 100 enthusiasts. He worked as hard as though the weather were cool and at the end of the fast sessions reported himself in fine form. His manager, Jack Kearns, left the coast yesterday for the East, and upon his arrival in New York will join Walker in Summit.

ROSENBERG IS WINNER.

In the ten-round semi-final Phil Kaplan, New York welterweight, knocked out Vic Hirsch, Chicago, in the second round.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 1 (AP).—The boxing show scheduled here Wednesday night in which Charles (Phil) Rosenberg, bantamweight champion, was to meet Pete Sarmiento in a ten-round headliner, was called off tonight. Rosenberg, in a long distance telephone conversation from Cincinnati, informed the promoters that he broke his hands in tonight's battle with R. Pettingill at Covington.

McGowan of Newark Beaten.

Dempsey Host to Mlle. Lenglen, Then Starts Out for Berlin

PARIS, JUNE 1 (AP).—Jack Dempsey left for Berlin tonight after farewells at the station from Georges Carpentier and many other more or less pugilistically known citizens of the republic. The American fighter and his wife today had Suzanne Lenglen, the tennis star, as a luncheon guest. "St. Dempsey must have a wicked forehand drive," commented Mlle. Lenglen later. In Berlin's Luna Park Dempsey will appear in exhibition bouts for $15,000 a week and something of the gate receipts.

Spielmann	6½	4½	Michell	6½	7½
Gruenfeld	5	6	Halda	1½	9½

MARIENBAD, Czechoslovakia, June 1.—By defeating Yates of England in a short game, lasting twenty-three moves, in the tenth round of the international chess masters' tournament at the Kurhaus, Frank J. Marshall, chess champion of the United States, assumed the lead for the first time in consequence of the second defeat sustained by Rubinstein of Poland, who succumbed to Niemzowitsch of Denmark.

There is a quadruple tie for second place among Rubinstein, Niemzowitsch, Reti of Czechoslovakia and Dr. Tartakower of Austria. Both Reti and Dr. Tartakower won their games today. Halda's point behind the five leaders comes Torre, the New York State champion, who was held to a draw by Michell of England. Neither Marshall nor Torre has lost a game thus far.

Marshall with the black pieces in a four knights opening and succeeded in winning the exchange. Torre declined Michell's queen gambit. Torre declined [illegible] evenly contested and drawn in thirty-one moves.

Rubinstein adopted the queen's pawn opening against Niemzowitsch, who complicated the situation to such an extent that Rubinstein lost a piece and the game after thirty-eight moves.

Reti, playing the English opening against Spielmann of Austria, won the exchange and the game after thirty-one moves. Dr. Tartakower also selected the English opening against Halda, of Hungary. The latter lost a piece and the game after fifty-five moves.

Opocensky of Hungary was again in fine fettle and disposed of Sheniasch of Germany in thirty moves. The latter opened with the Zukertort, but went astray and lost a piece. The shortest game of the day was between Przeplarka of Poland and Grunfeld of Austria, who drew Zukertort opening after twenty-six moves.

Sir George Thomas, the British champion, played the Ruy Lopez against Janowski of France, obtaining the superior position. This game was adjourned after fifty-nine moves.

In the eleventh round, the pairings will be the following: Halda vs. Reti, Torre vs. Tartakower, Opocensky vs. Michell, Niemzowitsch vs. Saemisch, Marshall vs. Rubinstein, Janowski vs. Yates, Gruenfeld vs. Thomas, Spielmann vs. Przeplorka.

HAGEN GETS 1ST HOLE-IN-1.

WORCESTER, Mass., June 1 (AP).—Walter Hagen, Pasadena (Fla.) British open and American professional champion, and Bobby Jones, Atlanta, national amateur champion, held the spotlight today in the practice rounds for the United States open golf championship to be contested at the Worcester Country Club Wednesday and Thursday.

Hagen, for the first time in his long career as a golfer, made a hole in 1 when he dropped his tee shot at the 180-yard sixth hole. This hole had never before been made in 1. Hagen was playing in a match with Bobby Jones, Joe Kirkwood and Tommy Armour.

Jones, playing one of golf's perfect rounds, made a 34, record for the championship course, and a score which tied the best previous mark at Worcester made by Willie Ogg, the club professional, before the course was changed for the open championship.

Official Report Shows 39,388 Fans Paid $172,655 to See McTigue Battle.

A world's light heavyweight championship battle between Paul Berlenbach, the new title-holder, and Jack Delaney, Bridgeport contender, as an attraction for his next important ficticious card, to be held at the Yankee Stadium on July 17, is the present objective of Promoter Tex Rickard. Negotiations for this match will be instituted today, according to an announcement made yesterday by the promoter. In the event that he fails to obtain the battle for July 17, Rickard will seek to sign Berlenbach and Delaney for an August date.

It is doubtful, however, whether Berlenbach will consent to defend his title against such a formidable foe as Delaney within the short period of time remaining until July 17, despite Rickard's optimistic view of the matter. The new champion, under the rules of the State Athletic Commission, has at least six months at his disposal before he is required to defend his title.

It developed yesterday that in signing for the Mike McTigue bout, Berlenbach entered into a verbal agreement with Promoter Rickard by which he promised, in the event he defeated McTigue, to defend his title against Delaney within a period of six weeks.

The dethroned McTigue was about yesterday none the worse for the bout in which he lost his title. His battle scars were only scratches and he said he was hurt only once during the bout. This occurred in the twelfth round, the former champion said, when Berlenbach landed solidly with a high left hook.

The bout produced a profit of about $50,000 for the Milk Fund, according to the itemized ticket sale report made public yesterday. This report showed that the gross receipts amounted to $172,655 from 39,388 spectators who paid to see the fifth match and the other battles. Less the State tax the net receipts were $164,022.25. The expenses for the matches will run beyond $100,000 in fighters' purses and other expenses. The $50,000 guaranteed yesterday does not include what over returns are realized on the moving pictures taken of the bouts.

671 ringside seats at $20	$13,420.00
2,572 ringside and field box seats at $15	38,580.00
701 mezzanine seats at $10	7,010.00
4,371 seats at $7	30,597.00
3,125 seats at $5	40,625.00
4,096 seats at $3	12,288.00
7,146 seats at $2	14,292.00
5,899 seats at $1	5,899.00
Exchanges	180.00
Total	$172,655.00
State tax	8,637.75
Net receipts	$164,022.25

McTigue yesterday visited the offices of the State Athletic Commission and tonight to file a challenge to Berlenbach for a return bout, but was advised by Secretary Dan Skilling to return today, when the board will hold its regular meeting.

McTigue plans to continue in the ring under the direction of Frank (Doc) Bagley, veteran handler of boxers who seconded the Irish boxer in his Milk Fund bout. The former champion said he has reached an agreement with Bagley whereby the latter has consented to act as business manager for him. McTigue added, however, that he does not intend to sign a contract with Bagley or any other manager. The former champion plans to return to the ring on June 22 at Montreal, where he is scheduled to box Johnny Klesch of Cleveland. Bouts against Jack Reddick and Frank Moody also have been offered him, McTigue said.

TERRIS STARTS TRAINING.

Is Confident He Will Knock Out Dundee in Coney Island Stadium.

Sid Terris, east side youngster who is pointing for the world's lightweight championship, has started serious training for his scheduled bout with Johnny Dundee, Italian veteran, to be fought at the opening of the Coney Island Stadium on June 5. The east side lad carried off a decision over Dundee in the closing bout at the old Madison Square Garden, but a difference of opinion among those who witnessed the contest led to a return match between the pair.

In the coming battle Terris plans to try for a knockout victory, confident that he will dispose of the veteran Italian and so gain a bout with Ace Hudkins, Coast lightweight, in the latter's first contest here.

Greb Wins Louisville Bout.

A BAD LAW VOIDED.

Yesterday's decision by the Supreme Court holding invalid the Oregon School law is none the less welcome for being expected. The statute set aside was born of prejudice. It would have required parents in Oregon to take all their children between the ages of 8 and 16 out of private or parochial schools and send them to the public schools of the State. The measure professed to be one of equality, but it was plainly directed most intolerantly at a single class. It was one of the most hateful by-products of the Ku Klux movement, which now happily seems to be dying out. The Supreme Court does not deny the right of the State to pass compulsory education laws, but it holds that the guarantees of religious freedom and individual liberty are violated when the attempt is made to say exactly how and where children shall be educated. It is the end but not the means which the State is entitled to prescribe.

It will be noted that it is an enactment by a State which the Supreme Court has decided to be repugnant to the Constitution. Will there now be an outcry against confiding such tyrannical powers to Judges? We think not. It was Justice HOLMES of the Supreme Court who said that he thought the country might get on even if the Court were deprived of the power to declare an act of Congress unconstitutional, but that he did not see how our Government could survive if the Supreme Court were not permitted to void acts of State Legislatures. The need of having some Federal tribunal to maintain the rights of the citizen when they are invaded by local legislation has never been more evident than in the case of this Oregon School law. In the decision of the Supreme Court against it we also get an encouraging forecast of what will happen when the Tennessee Anti-Evolution School law reaches the Supreme Court. Mr. BRYAN has laid down the magnificent and inspiring rule: "It is "the State's pay check that controls "the schools." Let him try that legal argument on the Supreme Court and he will learn something decidedly to his disadvantage.

A GREAT PUBLIC CHARACTER.

It is not indelicacy to the dead, no trespass on his dignity as a man, to call him, with a regretful affection, "TOM" MARSHALL. People didn't so salute him to his face, any more than they did Mr. ROOSEVELT, hailed from the gallery and the fringes as "TEDDY"; in reality an essential aristocrat, who never tolerated familiarity. Mr. MARSHALL, though he never forgot his relation to JOHN, a "new" man, was of a different class, subject, for other reasons, to a wide and just popularity. There was not a little in him of FRANKLIN, of the philosopher of common sense, not exposed so much as BEN was to cosmopolitan influences. In a mild way he was a scholar. As Governor of Indiana he showed the old essential vigor of character. He was never a "hand-shaker." He fought the machine. A good Presbyterian, he made no concession to Sunday idolators.

As an executive he wasn't afraid of "labor" in its most reverberating moods. He was a pretty good sort of old-fashioned Democrat, not without his limitations, with no excessive amount of concessions to contemporary fashion and "progressive" poppycock. "It's got so it is as easy "to amend the Constitution of the "United States as it used to be to "draw a cork." Mr. MARSHALL was not averse to the drawing of corks. "I am not for the prohibition amend-"ment. I never was. No decent "Democrat ever was for it." So he dared to say after he had thrown off the inhibitions expected of a Vice President. That was a place which he held, with occasional human attacks, with modesty, with dignity, with satisfaction to the Senate and to the people. He was often "mentioned" as a proper Democratic candidate for President. He had a larger use. He wasn't merely a Chautauqua lecturer, who lectured because he must starve if he didn't. His wit, his humor, his shrewdness endeared him to citizens generally, without regard to politics.

Talking a great deal, he said a number of foolish things, whose foolishness he admitted. His notion of ten or eleven years ago, for instance, that the United States shouldn't fight unless some alien actually invaded American soil the process of events and his own later deliberate thought far outgrew. The "neutral" of 1914 had learned to say in 1918:

> Proud as I am of my country, of her intelligence, of the fighting courage of her men and the self-sacrificing loyalty of our women, the proudest thing I have to say of my country is that she has answered CAIN's inquiry, "Am I my brother's keeper?" Yes, under GOD we are our brother's keeper.

But why should we review Mr. MARSHALL's opinions or changes of opinion? He came to be, in a national sense, what Mr. LOWELL called a more accomplished, a widely different, a sturdier and more independent statesman, President QUINCY, "a great public character."

He was simple. He said what he meant, at the time. After he got out of the Vice Presidency he became, in his way, a great public character. To the people in general, the people whose ancestors would have abhorred an old Catonian patrician, like QUINCY, "TOM" MARSHALL was a friend, a familiar. He gave us no medicines but his own natural and endearing self. We liked him much better than we have liked some greater but less hospitably human persons.

COTTON AND RUBBER.

The British method of restricting the production of rubber was disapproved in America almost on the day when Americans began "cooperating" to restrict the manufacture of cotton goods. Yesterday it was announced that operators of 4,000,000 spindles and 85,000 looms had agreed on a week's stoppage. It is expected that ultimately 10,000,000 spindles will "cooperate" in this shutdown. The British answer to our complaints about rubber happens to be substantially the same as the defense of our cotton restrictionists. In both cases rising prices caused overproduction and threatened industrial collapse.

It was enacted by the British Colonial authorities that rubber exports should be proportioned to the market, the quantities allowed to be exported rising with the price. Restriction kept in use the overplantings which would have been abandoned if the price had not gone up. London blames our overconsumption rather than British restriction for the runaway rise in rubber. The restrictive act seems merely an incident in an abnormal post-war condition.

Our cotton manufacturers do not regard themselves as conspirators in restraint of trade. They have bought cotton so freely that they have raised the price above that at which they can sell goods profitably. For the three months beginning with February the official count of cotton consumed has been 550,132, 582,674 and 597,104 bales. The trade is restricting production except on orders. Self-regulation of business has no fears of the Trade Commission when it acts to stop losses and not to make undue profits.

COMMERCIAL AVIATION AND AIR DEFENSE.

Commercial aviation had made a start on the road to success before the report on air defense was submitted to President COOLIDGE by army and navy specialists. Mr. FORD's freight service upon his own account between Detroit and Chicago was a sign of it. "The experiment of a large "manufacturer in Detroit will be "watched with great interest," says the report. And so will be the more ambitious enterprise which is to link New York with Chicago. Express matter of small size and considerable value is sure to be offered in quantity. Bankers, photographers, lawyers, stock brokers, jewelers and the newspapers will patronize such a service. Passenger service will be of slower growth. Many people still have an instinctive fear of a vehicle that does not travel on the solid earth. Yet the casualties of automobile accidents are heavy. One American company manufacturing airplanes and exhibiting them carried 3,500 passengers 100,000 miles in 1924 without an accident. In the report to Mr. COOLIDGE one reads:

> The Administration's policy is to create, if possible, a healthy growth in any industrial activity, and, with reference to commercial aviation, the policy has been that commercial aviation must pay its own way.

As a matter of fact, the industry is indirectly subsidized. The Government might manufacture the planes used by the army, navy, and the Postoffice and Agriculture Departments. But orders are given to private manufacturers and paid for out of appropriations, which, after all, have not been meager. Not without effect upon the industry has been the success of the mail air service, transcontinental and between cities. "The Government," says this report, "in "supporting the air mail service, "wished to demonstrate the practica-"bility of aviation and thereby stimu-"late its commercial development." Then there is the Kelly law, which authorizes the Postoffice Department to contract with private enterprise for the carrying of mails by airplane. A fair price will be paid. Out of the transportation of express and freight a profit should be made on the whole enterprise. Subsidy is involved, but not in the form of cash payments without a return.

The Government can help the industry materially by constructing landing fields and lighting airways at night to be used by commercial companies as well as by the Postoffice and other departments. A moderate charge could be made for the use of the fields. Perhaps most helpful of all would be the enactment of a law regulating aviation, which would provide for licensing pilots, inspecting machines and directing their operation. Again and again regulatory bills have been introduced in Congress, only to come to nothing. It is high time the country which is destined to have the greatest aeronautical development in the world legislated to speed the consummation. In that day commercial aviation and air defense will be practically synonymous.

COLLEGE READING.

The question how much college students read, outside of the books prescribed in course, and what they read has been under lively debate at Princeton. The Professor Emeritus of English Literature, Dr. VAN DYKE, thinks that the amount of voluntary reading done is negligible. He fears that college youth today are failing to get the knowledge which they ought to have of the best that has been thought and written. They cannot get it from lectures. They will not get it from reading. But this opinion is challenged by the Princeton Librarian. He has the records to show what use of the library is made by undergraduates, at least 10 per cent. of whom, he declares, can truthfully be called "hard readers."

Yet when he comes down to details, which are always the mischief in such a controversy, he has to confess that almost all of the reading done is of contemporary authors. THACKERAY, SCOTT, GEORGE ELIOT long since sank below the undergraduate horizon. Even KIPLING and STEVENSON have become obsolescent for the college student. Their places have been taken by GALSWORTHY, CONRAD, HERGESHEIMER, SINCLAIR LEWIS and EDNA FERBER. This makes it evident that the college man wants mainly to know who are the "live ones" of his own generation. Dead authors he is perfectly willing to leave to the Dryasdusts. Doubtless this has always been largely the case. But how lucky were the college boys to whom the great names of yesterday and of the day before were vibrant with contemporary interest!

The proportion of young men in college who read widely must always have been small in any class. Possibly it is as large today as ever. It is at least significant that there is a distinct university movement to promote and reward independent reading by students. If they can acquire the habit they ought to understand that it is the best thing they can get from college. An old professor, covered with titles and honors, having long filled the chair of Comparative Literature and Heaven knows what other recondite subjects, was asked what he really taught. He replied, simply: "I teach reading." If he was truly able to teach it, he should have been ranked at the head of the entire Faculty.

FRESH FOOD FOR THE CITY.

It is a commonplace in suburban districts near New York that most of the vegetables and other fresh foods are shipped out from the city. Some even go so far as to say that it is easier to get fresh eggs and "greens" in the city than in the country. Many as are the exceptions to this rule, the examination of marketing facilities in and about New York conducted by the Port Authority in conjunction with the Department of Agriculture shows that places as distant as Bridgeport, Conn., and Perth Amboy, N. J., daily send trucks to New York to obtain fresh fruits and other perishable foods. This does not mean that they ignore local markets. It does mean, however, that the volume of foodstuffs shipped into New York by water and rail every day is greater than the city itself uses. Unfortunately the steady increase in the city's population means that the present terminal facilities in the city are becoming more inadequate each year. The annual increase in traffic to feed this growing population is about 6 per cent.

In publishing the results of their three-year study of the marketing problem in New York and neighborhood, the Port Authority and Department of Agriculture suggest that the most effective remedy is twofold: First, to decentralize about 25 per cent. of the food shipments, these to be handled at borough distribution points at the same time that another 25 per cent. is held at receiving platforms in less congested areas awaiting demand; second, to provide better facilities of transshipment from car to market, so as to eliminate last time and unnecessary expense. This means that, in the opinion of these authorities, gradual decentralization of 50 per cent. of the produce traffic can be effected, and the balance made more accessible for systematic handling and distribution.

It needs but little thought to grasp the immense difficulties of feeding nine million people. The housekeeper who buys a head of lettuce has received 1-7,680th part of a carload of lettuce. Each year 5,000 carloads, more or less, of this one vegetable are shipped into New York for distribution. From the car sent to the wholesaler the crates are taken by the jobber. Thence they go to retailers. Each operation requires transshipment. Inasmuch as the jobbers take only part of a car of lettuce, and need also crates of other vegetables and fruits, it means that the organization of the central markets has to be thoroughly systematic unless much time is to be lost. Lost time implies congestion, and as the space is limited and the goods are perishable, congestion means increased cost.

There is little doubt that the distributers would welcome the introduction of better terminal facilities within the city itself. But on the matter of decentralization opinion promises to be more divided. In theory it would be much better to distribute from a larger number of centres than at present. Technical difficulties, however, are hard to overcome except at large cost. Furthermore, the tendency toward centralization has been fostered by market requirements, and efforts to interfere with it radically would probably arouse strong opposition. Yet the problem must be met within the next few years unless congestion is to become even worse than at present.

HOW OLD IS ANN AT FORTY?

The Victorian girlhood of the woman who is now forty was perplexed by that problem, How old is Ann? Her Georgian present is unperturbed. Being as young as she looks, Ann is and will remain twenty. Though addressing the Royal Institute of Public Health, Dr. PERCY HALL set forth an observation quite familiar. Under the late dear Queen, "a woman of forty "was an old woman who wore volu-"minous flannel petticoats and a "shawl around her shoulders while "she sat by the fire crocheting." Today she "looks twenty, plays golf "and tennis during the day, jazzes "far into the night and comes down "first to breakfast without the tem-"per of a bear." But Dr. HALL's professional diagnosis sicklies o'er this otherwise bright prospect with the pale cast of thought. The transformation has been accomplished, he says, simply by casting away superfluous clothes and wearing silk next the skin. One wonders whether tennis may not be ranked as a cause of youth extension rather than an effect. One seems to have observed that there are lipsticks and rouge, and that the mother of forty (twenty) permits her daughter of twenty (forty) to use them with a spirit that may not be as open and liberal as it seems.

Especially one wonders what the woman who was forty under VICTORIA would say to Dr. HALL's description of her. She might recall that the newest and by far the greatest of the new women were of that era; that, whatever their petticoats were made of, GEORGE ELIOT and Mrs. BROWNING did much besides sit by the fire and crochet. They knew the strength that comes from "a life lived fully and at leisure through all its ages." Doubtless they were aware that sundry men, possibly including physicians, permit themselves to be deceived by what BACON called "the arts cosmetic." But they lacked the art of deceiving themselves. And is it quite true that the woman of forty who has golfed and tennised all day and jazzed all night comes down to breakfast with a shining morning face and temper? Not unless she "comes down first" and is spared the contrast of the face that is genuinely sweet and twenty.

Physically, women are progressively youthful, whether as a result of outdoor sports or of silk petticoats. Only half a dozen years ago a writer in The Atlantic Monthly announced the discovery that there are no more grandmothers. Today it is the mother who is marked for the discard. In a few more years our women will be a race of perennial flappers. No one will sing:

> For dense, bright hair and lips of rose
> What will life give us? Ah, who knows . . .
> Patience, perhaps.

OLIVER STREET AND LOCH LOMOND.

If not for "AL" SMITH, the death of CHARLES B. LAWLOR, who wrote "The Sidewalks of New York," would have received much briefer notice than it did in yesterday's papers. Where are the popular songs of yesterday? Unless they happen to be also the songs of the day before yesterday and several generations before that, their life is as short as their vogue is immense while it lasts. They are remembered, but they are not sung until some happy accident revives them.

The late Mr. LAWLOR is not the only song writer of a generation ago who is indebted for a revival, if not of his fame then of his work, to the career of Oliver Street's most famous son and New York State's chronic chief executive. Having broken the ice with "The Sidewalks of New York," men have gone on unashamed to chant other memories—"Three Little Girls in Blue," "Daisy, Daisy," who fitted in so well on a bicycle built for two; "Annie Rooney," "After the Ball." When a thousand Democratic delegates in shirt sleeves and well caponlined stood up in the San Francisco Auditorium in July, 1920, and sang "The Sidewalks of New York" they began by doing honor to "AL" SMITH. But when they proceeded to bring out the entire repertory of CLEVELAND's second Administration and MCKINLEY's first, it was to something more than to an individual that they sang. They chanted their own vanished or fast-vanishing youth and slender waistlines. For three-quarters of an hour in that convention hall they turned time backward in its flight. And the momentum has not spent itself. In the vaudeville theatres the pot-pourri of old songs is now a standing feature.

Perhaps it is because of the very immensity of its sweep that the popular song dies so soon. Also—let us not get too sentimental—because of its triviality in nineteen cases out of twenty. But another reason must be its urban origin. Man has lived in the industrial age for more than a hundred years, but his emotional fibres continue to thrill most readily to the sounds of the open country. Children who have grown up amid cobblestones and asphalt sing, or are taught to sing, that their heart's in the Highlands, their heart is not here. The children of Oliver Street bewail the fact that they and their true loves shall never meet again on the bonnie banks of Loch Lomond. Many more school children in New York City are familiar with the "Volga Boat Song" than with "The Sidewalks of New York." If the late PAUL DRESSER had written the Sidewalks of Terre Haute instead of "On the Banks of the Wabash" the State of Indiana would not have adopted it officially for its own.

All this may change with time. Fifty years from now it is conceivable that "The Sidewalks of New York" and "Tammanee" may go into the classic songbooks as representative documents along with "The Suwanee River" and "Men of Harlech."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Figures and Facts on Social Work.

A mere statement of the fact that $70,050,374.16 was spent in New York City during the year 1923 for "social work" tells very little about the enormous amount of study done for the Charity Organization Society by EDITH SHATTO KING and AUGUSTA H. FREAR of the Society's Bureau of Advice and Information in an effort to find out the origin and uses made of money here in activities so described. The sum mentioned, large as it is, would have been increased if the investigators had not begun by eliminating from the 2,000 agencies listed in the directory that tries to include them all, those that have mixed functions, such as those giving attention to far wider fields than the city, the big foundations with endowments, the fraternal organizations serving special groups, and the churches.

The problem is complicated in the case of hospitals by the fact that they have paying as well as free patients, and many other bodies and corporations also have earnings from various sources as well as donations from the public. Careful analyses of the figures collected in the course of this investigation are presented in the June 1 issue of Better Times, and they deserve the study of all for whom "charity" is something more than the giving of alms to beggars or the relieving of immediate necessities among the poor and unfortunate.

Possession of this kind of information is essential to that co-ordination of philanthropies upon which efficiency depends and the elimination of waste in money and work through duplications and overlappings. Much of the detail that has been secured is entirely new—at least, it never before has been collected so as to be seen as a whole.

Sees Evolution as an Open Question.

Apprehending, not without reason, the "flood of sensational publicity" which is to attend the Scopes trial down in Tennessee, The Commonweal, that able exponent of Roman Catholic opinion, makes some interesting comments on evolution and the way in which it should be viewed and discussed by its readers.

The Commonweal declares that "the matter of evolution is an open question," but it adds that "the jaunty assumption on the part of far too many of its champions that it must be accepted as a fact is strongly and powerfully denied by qualified scientific students having at least an equal right to pronounce judgment." The names of these "qualified scientific students" are not given, nor is it made clear whether the writer thinks them as numerous as are those also justly entitled to that description who do accept evolution as a sound generalization.

Its own opinion of evolution The Commonweal refrains from giving, except indirectly, when it says that "people professing some form of Christianity for the most part regard the evolutionary theory askance, or with positive dislike; while, on the other hand, the perhaps even larger number of people in this country who are not attached to any religious body, either accept the theory, and its implications, just as unthinkingly or emotionally as the people on the other side reject it."

The Commonweal says quite truly that many who call themselves evolutionists know next to nothing about it and have as many false as true notions of its meaning. After the Dayton trial, however, they will be better informed than they are now, for no doubt both sides of the case, so far as it has two sides, will be presented there with skill and vigor. That is the one consolation for an episode that otherwise would be full of discouragement as bearing on the degree of education and enlightenment in the United States.

One more sentence in The Commonweal's article deserves quotation. It runs: "Catholicism being true, all facts known to be facts, or which come to be known as such, must necessarily harmonize with the truth."

An Appeal Not to Be Denied.

Coming as she does with the emphatic endorsement of General WOOD, and with knowledge gained in the Philippines as wife of the only American doctor now stationed on the Island of Cullon, the great leper settlement, it is to be hoped that Mrs. H. L. WARD will be heard in this country with the attention she deserves and that her appeals for money with which to carry on the work which the Governor General is promoting there will meet with a generous response.

Money hardly could be spent better than at Cullon, for it means helping not alone our Filipino wards to free themselves from what is perhaps the most dreadful of all diseases, but it will be of equal advantage to all other countries where that malady exists. For Cullon is more than a leper hospital: it is, or can be made, a great biological laboratory, and discoveries there will be at the service of every other nation. For there, on a large scale, can be tried out the methods and the drugs that already give promise of another medical triumph as brilliant as was that won in Cuba over yellow fever and in Panama over malaria and other paludal fevers.

Leprosy, it is hoped, and now believed, can be cured. Until recent years every leper was held to be doomed. Already some have seemingly been freed from their affliction.

As General WOOD said in a letter printed the other day in THE TIMES, the Filipino Legislature cannot make for the Cullon colony appropriations as large as necessary for the proper conduct of the work already so well started. To supply the sums required is a part of "the white man's burden" that naturally falls upon the United States.

Signatures Should All Be Typed.

No matter who it was that first suggested that the written signatures on typed letters and documents should be accompanied by the same name, over or near the written one, in machine-made duplicate, he was a benefactor to a considerable fraction of the human race.

All the people who write illegibly write their names still more illegibly than they do anything else, and many whose writing as a rule is decently legible make mere hen-tracks when it comes to the one part of their communication for the reading of which the context gives no help. They seem actually to be proud of illegibility, as if it showed how many and how large are the checks they constantly are signing.

They must know the trouble they make but apparently they do not care. The truth is that anybody can write legibly who will. Those who do not simply show that they value their time and convenience more than they do the time and convenience of other folk. That is a trait not at all pretty.

NEWSPAPER TYPOGRAPHY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just had occasion to inspect the 500 specimens of typographic layouts submitted to THE NEW YORK TIMES in the contest which recently closed. This contest, which called for the making of a layout from a piece of given advertising copy, brought into play not only the most distinguished typographic talent in New York but it caused craftsmen in twenty-three States, the District of Columbia and two Provinces in Canada to participate.

It is safe to say that never before has the talent of such a large number of eminent typographic artists (including members of the American Institute of Graphic Arts) been centred upon a single project. Here, indeed, is evidence that heralds a genuine renaissance of a saner and better choice of type faces and a more sensitive handling of them, especially in newspaper advertisements.

It is particularly interesting to observe that four of the six prize-winners were set in old-style Caslon, one in Cloister and one was hand-lettered. The blatant, bold-faced letters were not much in evidence about the better specimens submitted.

One who has a lively appreciation of good typography cannot refrain from being enthusiastic about this astonishing manifestation of the revival of a sense of the proper manipulation of type faces among craftsmen, and a definite appreciation on the part of the public in general for more tasteful typography in newspapers. CHANCES FOR AMUNDSEN.

Experiences of Nansen and Other Explorers to Aid Him.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have noticed that some experts on arctic exploration consider that it will be impossible for Amundsen and his party to make a foot journey on the polar ice to Greenland, which is stated to be the nearest land point in the Arctic Circle.

It will be remembered that Nansen and Johannsen were lost for approximately sixteen months. It is true that they had dogs and kayaks, in addition to sledges. But some of the dogs died, and the remaining two dogs were killed on the return journey.

It is true that Nansen's return from 86 degrees 14 minutes north latitude was begun earlier than May 20. However, if my recollection serves me right, he did not reach land until August, that land being an island forming part of Franz Josef Archipelago (Zichy land), near Peterman Land, which is further north. Peterman Land, as far as I know, has never been explored. It may be that this land extends a considerable way northward, even to the north polar basin.

Nansen experienced a drift to the eastward, and this, in a sense, may be looked upon as fortunate. Finally, with the aid of his cayaks, he was able to sail, and was finally rescued by the Jackson-Harmsworth expedition, then at Cape Flora. Nansen encountered considerable open water, and finally, on reaching land, built himself a hut and spent the arctic Winter, subsisting largely on bear meat, of which a stock was provided for.

STRAYS.

Beneath the bench he heard a stir,
A muffled whimper, and a cur
Crept to his feet and laid its head
Upon his knee; its sad eyes plead
For friendship. Freak that might have been
A bit of any breed you've seen
On earth, with drooping tail that wagged
When words were kind, torn ears that sagged
And fell when scornful feet would wrench
Away, it sought from bench to bench.
Hope always crowded out by fright,
The master who is each dog's right.
* * * * *
One let it lie beside him and
Cupped its cool muzzle in his hand.
The mongrel snuggled, warm and safe,

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is to be hoped that the city's book lovers will not fail to visit the exhibition of modern books which the Grolier Club has opened so hospitably to the public. It is not an exhibition of "art" books or of sumptuous editions produced without regard to expense. While it contains expensive examples (such as the volume "Documents Relating to New Netherlands," printed for the Huntington Library and selling for $50 a copy), there are books ranging in price from $5 down to 10 cents; and these are the ones that should be seen and understood by the book buyer of ordinary means, who buys his book primarily for its literary content, but who desires also the esthetic pleasure of owning a good-looking volume.

The dominating purpose of the exhibition is to demonstrate to American printers and publishers that the average "trade book," which means the general run of books offered to the public for $1.50 to, say, $3.50, can be made not only pleasing but decidedly handsome without resort to costly methods. For example, this year's medal has been awarded to a book made to retail for $3 a copy. The most "practical" printer and publisher could not desire a more practically made volume. The paper is a modern machine-made paper rigidly within cost limit. The covers are of the standard cloth kind. There is no resort to illustration, to specially designed type, to extravagant margin or to other devices which, while legitimate, are expensive. It has been made handsome simply by being intelligently planned, so that the design and the typography of title pages, chapter headings, headlines, running heads, text and all the other everyday type characteristics of the plainest book combine to make it something that delights the eye.

A still more direct example of what can and should be done with "just plain type" is the New York Public Library's catalogue of the recent exhibition of "Original Manuscripts and Drawings of English Authors from the Pierpont Morgan Library." It was made to be sold to visitors for ten cents a copy. The nature of its contents demanded unusually careful composition and proofreading. It contains 54 pages, 4¾ by 7½ inches, thus demanding a considerable amount of paper and a corresponding bulk of composition. There was absolutely no margin of cost for embellishment. Yet with no other device than a sound design of pages by a typographer who is the artist a typographer should be, and intelligent printing by a printer to whom type, ink and white paper are sufficient artists' tools, this little paper-covered book was made so attractive that today, weeks after the exhibition has closed, lovers of good printing still are seeking to obtain copies.

The exhibition is entitled "The Fifty Books of 1925," and is the third of the kind offered by the American Institute of Graphic Arts. The books of 1923 and 1924 still are doing their work as traveling exhibitions, and the present exhibition will start on its tour of the United States after June 13, when the Grolier Club showing closes.

The explicit purpose of these annual selections is expressed by the American Institute of Graphic Arts in its catalogue of the present exhibition as follows:

> "Interchange of knowledge and ideas among craftsmen does its complete work only when it is free from pretentiousness. In this spirit the Institute presents to its colleagues and to the public an exhibition for which, as in preceding years, nothing more is claimed than that it shows fifty books which represent intelligent craftsmanship, and which in this respect may be held to represent the aspirations of all makers of good books, and to meet the just desires of cultivated book-lovers."

Visitors to the exhibition will find a further gratification in the exhibit of Modern French Illustrated Books in the same room. It contains about seventy examples assembled by the French association of publishers, Syndicate des Editeurs de Livres d'Art et de Publications à Tirage Limite. Aside from its own specific interest, it offers an illuminating demonstration of the difference between the American conception of the book and the French conception—both good, both achieving their purpose, yet arriving at two vastly unlike though equally pleasing results.

It may be suggested to visitors that they preserve the catalogues of the two groups. They are themselves examples of what can be achieved within the limits of utterly "practical everyday printing." JULIUS W. MULLER.

Denies Strife at Moody Seminary.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Regarding your article concerning resignations at Moody Seminary, dated May 21, I beg to state that I have been a Trustee of the Northfield Schools for a good many years and have been familiar with the entire matter referred to in the article, but I thought it best to get further light direct from East Northfield and I am this morning in receipt of a letter from W. R. Moody, President of the Northfield Schools, containing the following paragraphs:

> "About a week ago The Boston Traveler sent a man to Northfield, evidently to try and find some sensational story in regard to the resignation of the principal and the retirement of several teachers. As you know, the resignation of the principal occurred in October, and the retirement of the teachers has been due to various causes, many of them entirely domestic, and not one of them, so far as I know or have been able to learn, has been due to the cause assigned in the newspaper.
> "It seems that this man from The Traveler interviewed a number of teachers, as well as the principal, all of whom, so far as I have been able to learn, emphatically denied that there was any ground for this sensational report. In spite of this, however, he sent a long story to The Boston Traveler, and, apparently, sent this news item to THE NEW YORK TIMES, which they published without informing themselves as to the reliability of the statement, nor have they given space to the emphatic denial, which appeared in the Boston papers the following day."

Sweeping Refuse Into the Streets.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One of the large chain grocery stores uses sawdust on its floor. I just watched a clerk sweep some of this from the store door across the sidewalk into the street.

It reminded me of the rubbish in front of one of our public school buildings. I called the attention of the porter to it and he said he could not help it; he had swept the stuff into the street at least six times, but the wind kept blowing it back.

There used to be a law against sweeping into the street, but I don't think any serious effort has been made to have it enforced since the days of Colonel Waring. He kept the streets clean because the police of his day enforced the laws regarding cleanliness.

Now every one sweeps dirt into the street and some empty cans and pails into the gutters for the wind to blow about.

If each individual, property owner or tenant, obeyed the law, how much cleaner and healthier this city would be! Why not start something by asking the police to enforce the old law for a few days?

BROADWAY TEMPLE TO GO UP AT ONCE

SEE NEW YORK VINDICATED

Managers of Drive Declare the Response Refutes Those Who Called the City Irreligious.

Plans to start work at once on the $4,000,000 twenty-four-story Broadway Temple to be constructed at Broadway and 173d Street, the campaign for which went over the goal on Sunday night, were made last night at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Broadway Temple Corporation, held in the Engineers' Club, 32 West Fortieth Street.

The skyscraper church is the idea of the Rev. Dr. Christian F. Reisner, pastor of Chelsea Methodist Episcopal Church, and the success of the campaign was assured when J. C. Penney, operator of a nation-wide chain of stores, pledged $50,000, thus making certain a donation of $250,000 by John D. Rockefeller Jr., who made the gift conditional on the campaign achieving its goal by June 1.

C. Perry Burgess, campaign manager, addressed the meeting last night. He reported in detail on the campaign and said that since the drive had succeeded so well, and the prospects were so bright, it would be well to go forward with actual work at once. Much consideration was given to the problem of finding an architect to take the place of the late Donn Barber, who drew the plans for the Temple. No one was decided upon definitely.

Those at the meeting were Ellis L. Phillips, Arthur J. Baldwin, Carl H. Fowler, Samuel McRoberts, Frederick Krast, W. R. Comfort, Charles A. Frueauss, and Lamar Hardy.

Announcement of the gift by Mr. Penney was made by Dr. Reisner earlier at his office, 150 Fifth Avenue. He said that Mr. Penney had given the first $50,000 in the campaign and had contributed or helped to raise $175,000. Dr. Reisner said that he had received a telegram from Mr. Penney on Saturday. It was sent from Kansas City, Mo., and was as follows:

> "Have been thinking prayerfully of you since leaving New York and on this Memorial Day, in the name of my sainted mother, who passed on to her reward twelve years ago and to whom I owe all that I have, I wish to subscribe for the last $50,000 of the amount needed to claim the Rockefeller subscription raised by June 1."

Announcement on Sunday listed the Penney gift as from the J. C. Penney Corporation. Mr. Reisner said that this was in error. Mr. Penney, he added, was on his way to Salina, Kan., to receive the degree of Doctor of Business from the Kansas Wesleyan University. More than $200,000 came in on Sunday, it was disclosed yesterday.

"People who declared that New York is unreligious and cold-hearted," said a statement from the campaign managers, "should now cease their condemnation, for no city ever responded more wonderfully. More than $450,000 was raised in the last six days of the campaign. The membership of the Chelsea Methodist Episcopal Church, composed largely of young folks without great financial means, have sold nearly $650,000 worth of the 5 per cent. bonds themselves."

LEAVES TARIFF COMMISSION.

William Burgess, Brooklyn Appointee of Harding, Resigns.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Coincident with the announcement here today that William Burgess of Brooklyn, N. Y., had resigned his place on the Tariff Commission, White House officials stated that the commission has completed its reports on petitions made for increased customs rates on cotton gloves, fabrics gold leaf, straw hats and butter. The reports will be submitted to the President at an early date.

The resignation of Mr. Burgess was submitted at the White House on April 24 and accepted in a letter written by President Coolidge on May 29. In his letter the President said:

WHITE HOUSE,
May 29, 1925.

My dear Mr. Burgess:

It is with real reluctance that I accept your resignation from the Tariff Commission to take effect on June 1. To the work of the commission you brought not only a trained mind but that diligence and capacity for hard work so necessary when proper conclusions are to be drawn from the great mass of figures and statistics upon which the recommendations of the commission are necessarily based. I wish to take this occasion to thank you for remaining long after the time when you first expressed a desire to leave the commission and to assure you of my appreciation of the service which you have rendered.

Very truly yours,

Hon. William Burgess,
United States Tariff Commission,
Washington, D. C.

The resignation of Mr. Burgess makes two vacancies on the Tariff Commission, the first having been created by the appointment of William S. Culbertson to be Minister to Rumania. Mr. Burgess was appointed by President Harding in June, 1921.

LUCIEN GUITRY DIES; FAMOUS THESPIAN

ACTED IN HIS SON'S PLAYS

PARIS, June 1.—Lucien Guitry, noted French actor, father of Sacha Guitry, died here today following a brief illness. He was 65 years old and for more than a quarter of a century had been one of the leading figures on the French stage, not only as an actor, but also as director and author.

Of recent years he did much by helpful collaboration to advance the career of his distinguished son.

Guitry was regarded by most critics as the foremost contemporary French actor. Some considered that his great talent was limited to dramas of modern reality, particularly those of the type most popular among Parisians, and that his essays in the classics and in the more imaginative works of recent authors were disappointing. This opinion was expressed on the notable occasion of Guitry's creation in 1910 of the rôle of the cock in Rostand's play, "Chantecler," a part written for the elder Coquelin, who died before the production.

Born in Paris in 1860, Guitry made his first appearance on the stage at the age of eighteen in the rôle of "Armand in "La Dame aux Camelias," at the Theatre Gymnase. He had received the customary severe training of the French actor at the Conservatoire, of which he apparently did not think any too highly, for he once said of the experience: "The school did not do me any harm. I regard most of its records as perfectly harmless. They cannot destroy talent if you have it, they cannot kill genius, but you must escape in time."

Early in his career Guitry played for nine years in the company of the Theatre Michel, and made such an impression on the Russians that they tried to induce him to remain there permanently. But he went back to Paris and became in turn manager of the Porte Saint-Martin, director of the Comédie Française and director of the Renaissance. His control at the last theatre slipped from him as a result of his financial misadventures, which was characterized by insistence on the finest of costumes and settings regardless of their cost. Actresses were said to have taken advantage of his generosity, running up tremendous bills for beautiful dresses that were unsuitable for the play and eventually lodged in their own private wardrobes.

The rôle of Flambeau in "L'Aiglon," a great favorite of Coquelin's, was also a favorite of Guitry's. "L'Aiglon" was one of the productions in which Guitry and Bernhardt appeared together for many years. Other plays in which Guitry won great popularity were "Le Veneur," "L'Emigré," "Servir" and "Kismet," in which, of course, he acted the part of the beggar, played in this country by Otis Skinner.

During the last five or six years Guitry appeared chiefly in plays written by his gifted son, Sacha, present-day idol of the theatrical world of Paris, "the little Molière." This young man, who was born in 1885, during his father's residency at the Porte-Saint-Martin, his wife, the actress, Yvonne Printemps, and Guitry père, form a remarkable theatrical trinity. Among Sacha's plays that Lucien acted in were "Pasteur," "Le Mari, La Femme, et l'Amant," "Mon Père Avait Raison" and "Le Grand Duc." A fourth figure to be considered with these three is Lucien Guitry's second wife, Jeanne Pierson, a very beautiful woman, much younger than he. The actor of many betrayed husbands feared a triangle would ruin his own life and kept Jeanne Desclos in seclusion for several years at his villa. Profiting by ninety hours in which to write the play "L'Heure Exquise" and acted in it herself. Guitry obtained a divorce three years ago, accusing "an unnamed foreign musician."

Lucien Guitry has played in London and South America with great success. Several times in recent years American managers have announced that he and his son and daughter-in-law were coming to New York, but they never did so.

FRANCONIA RETURNS FROM WORLD CRUISE

KING'S PHYSICIAN ABOARD

Alfonso's Medical Adviser Interests Tourists—Immune to Anesthetics —Sleeps Only 3 Hours.

The Cunard liner Franconia completed a 30,000-mile cruise around the world when she docked yesterday morning at the foot of West Fourteenth Street with 300 of the 315 passengers who left New York on Jan. 27 last. The voyage, which was organized by Thomas Cook & Son, was popularly known as "the millionaire cruise," on account of the large amount of vested wealth represented by the passengers.

They paid $1,500.00 for their round-the-world tickets, and, according to Ross H. Skinner, who was in charge of the tourists throughout the four and a half months, spent more than $500,000 ashore at the forty-odd ports where the passengers debarked.

Passengers declared that the greatest sight of the entire cruise was the spectacle of the American battlefleet anchored outside Pearl Harbor in the Hawaiian Islands during the naval manoeuvres.

Among the passengers was Dr. Jeronimo Megias, director of the Institute of Llorente at Madrid and personal physician to King Alfonso of Spain. He said that King Alfonso was the most healthy of all the Kings of Europe, exercising regularly, sleeping eight hours a night and drinking wine in moderation.

Considerable interest was aroused among the crew of the Franconia by the presence of Dr. Megias. Dr. Megias distinguished himself by giving a champagne cocktail party, entitled "The Desperation Party," to the entire ship just before reaching San Francisco. On another occasion he gave a fiesta to the officers and crew of the vessel.

He will be in this city ten days, studying at the Rockefeller institute, prior to returning to Europe on the Aquitania. Among other things he expects to allow Rockefeller Foundation experts to examine his own condition. He is absolutely immune to anaesthetics, and owing to the structure of his thyroid glands cannot become intoxicated. He sleeps only three hours a night. He hopes to discover some treatment which will increase his hours of sleep and permit him to share in the joys of wine.

The Franconia had a wedding and a funeral in the course of her long cruise. The son of a London racing man, Julian Winans, raced for the ship after the tour had passed Cairo and traveling on P. & O. packets caught up with her at Hongkong, where he married Miss Edith Jaffrock, of London in the British consulate. The Winans remained with the ship for the rest of the cruise as a honeymoon and will sail with her to England on Saturday. Mrs. Frances Trago Montgomery, 55 years old, author of the "Billy Whiskers" children's books, died of heart disease at sea after leaving China. Her body was brought to New York.

Among the points visited by the Franconia's tourists were Funchal, Gibraltar, Monaco, Nice, Naples, Sorrento, Amalfi, Capri, Pompeii, Alexandria, Cairo, Luxor, Jerusalem, Port Said, Suez, Bombay, Agra, Fatehpur, Sikri, Colombo, Kandy, Calcutta, Benares, Padang in Sumatra, Batavia, Singapore, Manila, where they were entertained by Governor General Leonard Wood at a reception at Government House, Hongkong, Macao, Canton, Shanghai, Tahiti, Pekin, Kobe, Kyoto, Honolulu, San Francisco and the Panama Canal.

KILLED BY "UNLOADED" GUN

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP). — George Panapoulos, 34, café proprietor, is dead here, the victim of an "unloaded" pistol fired by his eight-year-old godson, Stephen Kokinias, whom he had sought to amuse by playing at "dueling."

The boy visited his godfather yesterday for the first time, and Panapoulos produced two old pistols for his amusement. The boy's weapon exploded while the man's back was turned, killing him instantly.

HYLAN ORDERS REPLY TO 'SLUR' ON SCHOOLS

Directs Ryan to Report on Charge That 462 of 533 Failed in Elementary Test.

Mayor Hylan wrote to George J. Ryan, President of the Board of Education, yesterday, directing him to bring to the board's attention the charge made in The New York World that 462 out of 533 children in the Commercial High School, Brooklyn, failed in an examination on elementary school work and to prepare a report in reply to what the Mayor called a "slur" on the public schools and the teachers. Mr. Ryan said he would refer the Mayor's letter to Dr. O'Shea, the Superintendent.

In his letter to Mr. Ryan the Mayor said:

"With the evident purpose of casting reflection upon every teacher in our elementary schools and condemning the entire public school system, The New York World carries this morning a news article headed, '462 Children Fail of 533 Examined in High School on Elementary Work.'

"Despite the fact that the article states the private tests were 'not extensive enough to be conclusive,' it will have a depressing effect upon the mothers and fathers of the school children of this city as well as upon the teaching staff.

"New York City, with the finest body of teachers in the world and the most modern and commodious school structures—157 new public school buildings and additions having been opened in the last seven years and 24 more new schools to be opened for the Fall term—cannot permit this vicious slur to pass unnoticed. Please bring the matter to the attention of the Board of Education so that a report may be made, based upon facts which are both extensive and conclusive."

The Mayor then attacked the policy of The New York World, declaring it had given little or no notice of the many public schools built by his Administration. He then continued:

"If there are 6,000,000 fares paid daily at 5 cents each in the City of New York, how much additional would an 8 cents fare put into the pockets of the private traction operators—in a day, in a year, in seven years? Answer, $180,000 a day, in excess of $65,000,000 a year and of $455,000,000 in seven years."

The sun mounting in the sky uses no drum to announce its approach, but every flower at its coming is lit with smiles over all its face.

The blossoms on the trees wave a welcome. The tiny seeds of field and forest, like the mangroves, fly with the wind and plant themselves, warmed into new life by the mothering sun.

Some people that appear to be doing but little with their lives are doing more than we know.

FORESEES CROWDING ON CITY'S SUBWAYS

Harkness Says Congestion Must Be Greater Than Now to Make Even 8-Cent Fare Pay.

QUOTES DELANEY REPORT

FLOUTS HYLAN STATEMENT

Mayor Hylan's proposed independent city subway system not only could not be made self-supporting on a five-cent fare, but the Board of Transportation's figures showed that a density of traffic far exceeding the present congestion in the Interborough and B. M. T. subways would be needed to make it pay on an eight-cent fare, Transit Commissioner LeRoy T. Harkness declared yesterday, after study of the Transportation Board's report.

Mr. Harkness asserted that the board's traffic estimates for the tenth year of operation of the proposed municipal subway system were approximately 60 per cent. greater than the present Interborough traffic density and nearly double that of the present B. M. T. traffic. He declared this destroyed completely the claim of Mayor Hylan and his supporters that the new subways would supply "a seat for every passenger," and asked the people of the city to picture conditions that would be caused by dumping 2,000,000 passengers per track mile a year into the present Interborough jam.

To Give Results of Analyses.

Mr. Harkness's statement follows:

I have no answer to make to Mayor Hylan's attack printed in this morning's papers. On Saturday I gave out an analysis of the tax and assessment features of the Board of Transportation plan. This analysis was couched in entirely temperate language, and discussed facts that are of very large importance to the citizens of New York. As usual, Mayor Hylan did not answer on the facts, but indulged in one of his typical abusive tirades. No useful purpose would be served by my attempting to swap billingsgate with Mr. Hylan, and I have too much self-respect to attempt to do so.

That does not, however, let Mayor Hylan and his associates out of facing facts. To one having some acquaintance with subway building and operation in New York the report of the Board of Transportation is a mine of information. From time to time as these figures are analyzed, I shall give out the results of that analysis. If it should appear that any of my figures or assumptions are incorrect, I hope Mr. Hylan will promptly answer and point out the error. In the light of the facts given in the Board of Transportation's report he cannot longer gag with mere abuse.

With the benefit of only a few days discussion of the Board of Transportation's report, two propositions are well established:

1. That Mayor Hylan did not know what he was talking about when he repeatedly urged that the city could municipally operate the new subway system with a profit on a seven-cent fare. That is now blown higher than Gilderoy's kite.

2. That to avoid facing the issue squarely and charging for service what service costs recourse had to assessing and taxing real estate to the tune of $325,000,000. On Saturday, I endeavored to analyze some of the results of this extreme tax and assessment proposal.

Attacks City's Claim.

Today the figures in the report of the Board of Transportation furnish a very good text on the matter of subway crowding. In addition to his promises with relation to the 5-cent fare, Mayor Hylan has been loud in his condemnation of the present crowding on existing transit lines and has repeatedly indicated a new day was going to dawn with the municipal operation of the present city system. Only last week one of his satellites said over the municipal "fraud-casting" station: "The new city subways will provide a seat for every passenger."

Now, in the light of the actual figures in the Board of Transportation's report, let us see how this works out. In the assumed ten-year traffic is given for every year from 1931 to 1940, inclusive. The mileage of the new system is also given, so we have the basis upon which to get an exact comparison with present-day operation. Furthermore, the report itself states that the costs of operation assumed "follow fairly closely the costs of the existing roads for similar operation." That means, if it means anything, that, as the operating costs of the existing railroads reflect the present intense congestion, that reflection is also carried into the Board of Transportation's estimates for the new roads. The figures contained in the report amply demonstrate this!

The new system is to have 170 miles of single track. The tables at the end of the report show that not one additional dollar is going to be spent for construction from 1931 to 1940, the figure of $385,005,000 remaining constant. Allowance is made, however, in those years for about $45,600,000 of additional equipment. The Board of Transportation assumes that in the first year of operation, 1931, the new system will carry 402,600,000 passengers. But upon a single track mile basis this means 2,365,000 passengers per mile of single track. Progressive increases in traffic are estimated for the succeeding years until for the year of 1940 there is assumed 856,000,000 passengers. If we put this on a single track mileage basis it means 5,035,800 passengers per mile of single track. And all this without a single addition to construction of the new system between 1931 and 1940.

Gives Old Lines Figures.

As against these assumptions we have the actual figures of the Interborough and B. M. T. for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924. The Interborough subway division has 224.47 miles of single track, and carried last year 715,004,000 passengers. On a single track mileage basis this gives 3,155,000 passengers per mile of single track. This is less than 1,000,000 more than the assumed traffic on the new system for its opening year, 1931; and nearly 2,000,000 less than assumed for the new system for 1940. Imagine what the Interborough system would be if nearly 2,000,000 more passengers per mile of track were jammed into it.

The B. M. T. subway division has 110.378 miles of single track. The subway division carried last year 298,000,000 passengers. Putting this on a single track mileage basis gives 2,700,000 passengers per mile of single track. This is less than 350,000 more than that assumed for 1931 for the new city system, and is about half the density of traffic assumed for the new city system for 1940. Imagine the results if the present traffic of the B. M. T. subway division were doubled per mile of single track.

This is further borne out by what in railroad parlance is known as the "operating ratio," that is, the proportion of expenses of operation to total income. As the income is dependent upon the number of passengers carried and the expenses upon the cost of carrying them, this also reflects the density of traffic or the extent to which passengers are crowded. The figures in the report of the Board of Transportation show an estimated total income for 1931 of $20,703,000 and an estimated operating expense of $13,306,-000. This gives an operating ratio of 64.5 per cent.

Gives Comparative Figures.

How does this compare with the existing systems? The Interborough subway division, allowing for taxes but not for depreciation, is 59.06 per cent. The Manhattan elevated, excluding taxes, is 68.06 per cent., and, including taxes, 79.25 per cent. This gives a total for the Interborough (subway and elevated divisions combined), excluding taxes and depreciation, of 61.05 per cent., and including taxes but excluding depreciation, 65.83 per cent.

The B. M. T. operation ratio, including depreciation reserves but excluding taxes, is 66.22 per cent. If we include taxes, the ratio is raised to 71.33 per cent.

Therefore, the Board of Transportation assumes a lower operating ratio than the combined Interborough operation and lower also than that of the B. M. T. The present roads are operating just about as economically as is possible to operate them. More money can only be taken out of operation by more crowding. By assuming a lower operating ratio by several points than that of the present system, those who made the figures for the Board of Transportation must either assume that they can operate the roads municipally more economically than by private operation (which is rather an extreme assumption), or else they will carry more passengers per given unit of equipment.

It is true that the report states: "The larger cars and longer trains intended for the new system will have much greater carrying passenger capacity per mile than the present Interborough system." But the cars for the new system, as present plans are understood, will be no larger than the present B. M. T. type of car.

It is realized that the job of studying such figures as these is a trying and tedious one, but careful counting of the cost and analysis of figures are the only safety to plan for the construction and operation of railroads. We have had long years of Hylanesque dreams that finally have been punctured by cold facts and figures, as reported by the Board of Transportation. The 5-cent fare dream of Mayor Hylan's was the first one to be punctured. As above demonstrated, his dream of seats for every passenger on the new lines is the second one to go.

All this is very encouraging. We are rapidly getting away from bunk and down to bed-rock facts. The education of Mayor Hylan will continue.

EXPLANATION BY MAYOR.

Says He Refused a Shonts Request for an Increased Fare.

Mayor Hylan made public yesterday an explanation of conferences with the late Theodore P. Shonts, former President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. The Mayor declared that after Mr. Shonts had called on him without invitation, soon after he first took office, he flatly refused Mr. Shonts's request that he should consent to an increased fare.

The Mayor, in reply to an article in The Evening World, said that he had refused to talk to Mr. Shonts without a witness, and declared that that witness was Mr. MacFarland of Boston, who Controller Craig said last Friday had been sent to him by the Mayor to get him to consent to an increased fare. Mr. Hylan added that the first charge that he had been engaged with Mr. Shonts and Mr. MacFarland in an attempt to increase the fare was made by Travis H. Whitney, former Public Service Commissioner and now a Vice President of the B. M. T.

Mr. Hylan called attention to the fact that both Mr. MacFarland and Mr. Shonts are dead, and said that Mr. MacFarland had had the following to say about the conference with Mr. Shonts while he was still alive:

"I met Mr. Shonts in the Mayor's office, but before he came in Mayor Hylan warned me against him. I recall distinctly what Mayor Hylan said: 'Here is as smooth an article as they make; you have got to look out for him.' In fact, Mayor Hylan warned me again later on the telephone not to depend on anything Shonts said."

Mayor Hylan added that he had discussed only the Boston transit situation with Mr. MacFarland and that he never had indicated by word or action any intention of retreating from his stand for the five-cent fare. After that the Mayor again brought up his favorite theory that a large block of B. M. T. stock was available to newspaper men who would help the company to obtain an increased fare and a grant to the Mayor in City Hall.

At the end of his statement, while reiterating that the five-cent fare would be retained, Mayor Hylan indicated a possibility of abandoning the Board of Transportation's recommendation to pay for part of cost of new subways by assessment by pointing out that the law requiring a municipally operated subway to be made self-sustaining after three years might be repealed.

"The five-cent fare will be maintained," the Mayor said. "It has been maintained on the existing subways ever since this Administration entered office, because we have seen to it that it was maintained. It must be maintained for three years after operation on the new subways under the law enacted by a Republican Legislature. It can continue to be maintained after that time by an amendment to the law. It is the prerogative of the people to demand such an amendment.

"True, the traction corporations of this city, with the aid of a friendly Republican Legislature, refused to permit the people to vote on the proposition as to whether they wanted to spend $275,000,000 of their own money for new subways. But we are not going to deny the people the right to say by referendum how they want their subways built and how they want their money spent."

TICKET SPECULATORS FINED

Three Penalized $5 Each for Overcharging at Ebbets Field.

Wilbert Robinson, the new President of the Brooklyn National League Baseball Club, caused the arrest of three men for charging excessive prices for tickets to Ebbets Field, and each was fined $5, yesterday by Magistrate McGarrigle in the Flatbush Court, Brooklyn. They were James Whalen, 60 Madison Street, and Morris A. Drur, 432 Montgomery Street, Brooklyn, and John Brown, 244 West Forty-second Street, Manhattan.

It was charged that at the game on Sunday these speculators charged $2 to $4 for grand stand seats issued at the box office for $1.10 each, and asked $3 to $5 for $1.35 seats in boxes. Robinson said he had employed a group of special policemen to prevent repetition of this form of public gouging at the games.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, June 1.—Henry Ford revealed today that thus far it had cost him 8½ cents a pound to transport freight by air between Dearborn and Chicago.

For a month two monoplanes have flown daily except Sundays. Each plane carries upward of 1,000 pounds of freight and express. The average time is 2½ hours.

"What we are doing is this," said Mr. Ford today. "We decided the time was ripe for serious consideration of aviation as an industrial transportation unit. And we concluded the very best way for us to study the proposition was to start flying."

OPPOSED TO TAXING REALTY FOR TRANSIT

W. C. Demorest Says a Direct Levy Would Be Reflected in Higher Rents.

ALSO IN COST OF HOMES

Criticizes City's Proposal to Parallel Lines Already in Existence.

Property owners throughout the city would oppose the proposal of the Board of Transportation to put 60 per cent. of the cost of the city's proposed independent subway system directly upon real estate, William C. Demorest, Chairman of the Transit Committee of the Real Estate Board of New York, declared yesterday. Mr. Demorest asserted that adoption of this plan would result not only in an alarming increase in taxes but would inevitably increase rents and the cost of home ownership.

"One of the chief difficulties of the Mayor's proposal is that it contemplates routes paralleling and competing with existing routes," Mr. Demorest said, "whereas the normal businesslike proposal would be to construct additions and extensions which could be economically tied in with the present systems with the best practical results."

Mr. Demorest pointed out that the Board of Transportation admitted that a five-cent fare would not carry the city's investment in the proposed subway system, if financed in the usual manner by the issue of fifty-year bonds, and indicated that the only alternative would be the assessment of real property or provision for the deficits in the city budget.

Calls Proposal Unjust.

"Either of these alternatives would place an enormous burden of taxation on real estate, upon which the tax rate at present is sufficiently high to be alarming, being approximately one-third of the average net income. To finance construction by the imposition of assessments on property supposed to be affected would be equally unjust because all property in the city is now paying for existing rapid transit lines and there is annually raised in the tax levy the present rapid transit deficit of over $10,000,000.

"It has been demonstrated that properties along some subway lines have been cut on the theory that they would be immediately benefited, taxed in advance of subway construction at greater than their market value even after the subway was in operation. It is also true that the benefits from subway construction have been widely unequal, and it is beyond question that, if the cost of new subways were placed on real estate, this would be reflected in increased burdens upon rent payers and higher charges on home owners.

Queens Committee Objects.

"While the Real Estate Board, in common, probably, with citizens generally, deplores the delay in subway construction in the last seven years, it also believes that an intelligent plan would be to construct essential lines within the financial ability of the city and to extend these periodically within the same financial limits."

William A. Jones of Jamaica, Chairman of the Queens Borough Transit Committee, said the residents of Queens were willing to pay extra assessments for subways, but not until there were as many miles of subways in Queens as there were in the other boroughs, and that it is manifestly unfair to the people of Queens to have to pay for these new subways, especially after they have paid for years their share for the construction of subways in other boroughs," he said. "It does not seem now that they should be called upon virtually to pay for building their own Queens subway."

William Heimann, President of the Woodside Improvement Association, and Acting Borough President Michael J. Shugrue expressed similar opinions.

BELIEVES AMUNDSEN IS WALKING BACK

London Thinks the Explorer's Airplanes Have Been Forced Down in the Arctic.

LONDON, June 1 (AP).—The feeling increased here today, the eleventh since the Amundsen-Ellsworth expedition hopped off in two flying boats from Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, for the North Pole, that the explorers would not return by air, but had been forced to undertake a long, weary land trek back toward civilization.

Considerable satisfaction was expressed at the alacrity displayed by explorers in various parts of the world who want to engage in rescue expeditions. It is reported that the Duke of the Abruzzi of Italy and Dr. Jean Charcot of France, both noted explorers, have been added to the list of possible leaders of a searching expedition.

OSLO, Norway, June 1 (AP).—A dispatch to the Shipping Gazette received from Spitsbergen, timed 10 o'clock tonight, described the situation with respect to the Amundsen expedition as without change, indicating that nothing had been heard from the Polar explorers.

Recently efforts were made to reach Amundsen's old ship Maud, which is frozen in somewhere in the New Siberian Archipelago. Official notification was received by the Associated Press today that a wireless message sent to the Maud on May 29 could not be delivered, as there was no communication.

ADELAIDE, June 1.—Sir Douglas Mawson, who was with Shackleton in 1907 and was leader of the Australian Antarctic Expedition of 1911-14, in a statement on Amundsen's Arctic flight, says:

"Amundsen is the sort of man to spend all the time possible at the Pole if things are going right, and until several weeks have passed there need be no cause of anxiety.

"None knows better than I the difficulty of running an airplane in the polar regions, as our machine with the Antarctic Expedition did good work for awhile, but lubrication trouble eventually forced us to abandon it. Amundsen leaves nothing to chance, but works out everything carefully. Should his machines fail, the party still has a prospect of getting back safely, but it might be some time before anything was heard of it."

HURT IN PLAY, HAS LOCKJAW

Patsy Sylvester, 7 years old, of 084 Maple Street, North Bergen, is in the Hudson County Hospital at Weehawken, critically ill from lockjaw as the result of a peculiar accident. The boy was playing in front of his home, about four weeks ago, near the pavement that is being repaired. Several paving blocks were standing on end and one of them fell on the lad's left big toe. The injury was apparently slight and nothing was thought of it.

Four days ago lockjaw developed and he was taken to the hospital. He is unable to open his jaws. Nourishment and oxygen are being administered through tubes.

Coolidge in Movie With Actor Is Opposed As Undignified, and He Will Decide Today

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—President Coolidge will definitely decide tomorrow whether the graduating exercises at Annapolis on Wednesday shall be used as the central motif in a moving picture play in which Ramon Novarro is to be a star.

If the President consents, Novarro will take his place in the line of Naval Academy graduates, attired as a midshipman, and receive a "dummy" diploma, which is one of the incidents necessary to sustain the narrative of the play, "Midshipman Randall."

Secretary Wilbur gave his approval to the plan, believing that the film would prove to be a good thing for the navy. He read the manuscript of the play, conferred with the producers and acted upon the advice of Navy Department officials.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures Corporation announced today that it had insured the life of Novarro for $3,000,000 because of the hazards of his air and water feats.

White House officials do not take kindly to the thought that a motion picture corporation shall be permitted to include one of its star actors among the Naval Academy graduates, especially as the diplomas this year will be handed out by the President. It is known that they regard the whole ceremony as lacking in the dignity that should attend a public appearance of the Commander-in-Chief of the army and the navy.

The whole subject will be thrashed out at the White House tomorrow, when Secretary Wilbur will take up the matter in person with President Coolidge. Mr. Wilbur believes that the realism lent to the picture by the presence of Mr. Coolidge will be a telling advertisement for the navy. He has no patience with objections that this particular scene should be deleted because the production is a purely commercial proposition.

THREE SAFES ROBBED THIEVES GET $3,280

Watchman in Alhambra Theatre Trussed Up by Burglars, but They Are Frightened Off.

Three safe robberies, two in the Bronx and one in Manhattan, were discovered yesterday morning when stores were opened after the week-end holiday. The robbers escaped with $3,820 from the safes of the General Coat and Apron Supply Company, 653 West Forty-second Street, near Eleventh Avenue; the Panken & Co. furniture store, 3,867 Third Avenue, near Claremont Parkway, the Bronx, and the Claremont Hat Shop, 3,861 Third Avenue, the Bronx.

The robbery in the coat and apron company's office netted $1,800. The robbers entered by breaking the second-story window from the fire-escape. They pulled soiled coats and aprons around the safe and attached an electric drill to a light socket. The noise of the explosion was muffled by the coats and aprons, while the din of the street cars on Forty-second Street aided the robbers. No fingerprints were found.

The robbery, second unusual in the mid-town district recently, robbers having stolen $2,400 after blowing a safe in the Brill Brothers' store at Forty-ninth Street and Broadway two weeks ago.

About $2,000 was obtained in the Claremont Hat Shop robbery. The robbers entered by breaking a window leading to the cellar and cutting a hole through the floor of the store. After drilling holes around the combination of the safe, they used a "can opener" to rip out the combination and tear the front door from its hinges.

While detectives were investigating the hat shop robbery they learned of the robbery in the near-by furniture store. It is believed that the same gang committed both offenses. The robbers got only $20 in the furniture store by forcing the warp on a rear window. They opened the safe with an electric drill, but got only $20. In addition, they took some papers, mostly records, which the company said were of no value, but which could have been of little use to the robbers.

Burglars attempted to rob the safe in Keith's Alhambra Theatre, 126th Street and Seventh Avenue, late Sunday night but were frightened away. The safe contained several thousand dollars. Ferdinand Behrens, the theatre watchman, was overpowered by the robbers. He told the police that after he had punched his time clock at 11:15 o'clock Sunday night after the evening performance, he started a round of the theatre.

When he reached the balcony, he said, he met an athletic, well-dressed young man, who explained his presence in the theatre by saying that he had lost a diamond stickpin and had come back to look for it.

The watchman, using his flashlight, began to look for the pin. As he bent down to peer under a balcony seat he was struck on the head and knocked to the floor. Dazed and unable to get up, he heard the robber, whistle, then a second man appeared on the balcony. He carried a pistol and some wire, with which the watchman's arms and feet were tied together.

One of the robbers then forced the door leading to the theatre manager's office and both men began to work on the safe. When the watchman failed to sound his signal at midnight nothing was thought of it. But when he did not signal at 1 o'clock officers of the burglar alarm company became suspicious and notified the West 123d Street Police Station.

Detectives and agency operatives went to the theatre, but the robbers apparently were informed of their coming, because they fled. They left no clue except a cap. The watchman was found on the balcony floor.

ROBBERS SHACKLE FIVE, LOOT JEWELRY STORE

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 1 (AP).—Jewelry estimated by the police to be worth $50,000 was taken by five robbers from Levy's jewelry store at 483 Main Street here today after a brother of the proprietor and four employes had been handcuffed and shackled to steel bars on a window.

The robbery occurred just after one of the clerks had opened the store for business. The five strangers appeared in a group, ordered the clerk to throw up his hands and gave the same order to Martin Levy, the proprietor's brother, who appeared shortly afterward. Three other clerks who came from a rear room also were stopped. The five were then backed to the rear of the store, while the robbers handcuffed them, attached leg irons and fastened the men to steel window bars.

Placing their loot into leather bags, the robbers then walked briskly out of the store and around a corner, where they entered a waiting automobile. In the store one of the employes kicked a telephone from a stand, released the receiver and shouted calls for the police, which finally were heard by the operator.

Despite the fact that the robbery occurred in the heart of the business section, none of the scores of passers-by on their way to work seemed to have noticed anything unusual.

I. R. T. AGENT HELD UP.

Max Ellner, 21 years old, change-maker in the Saratoga Avenue station of the Lavonia Avenue section of the Broadway-Seventh Avenue Interborough subway, in Brooklyn, was held up and robbed of $495 last night by two armed men.

The station was deserted when the men appeared in front of the window and told him to put up his hands. While one man stood guard the other took $260 from the cash drawer and $235 from the safe. Then they ran. Detectives Joseph Connors was assigned from the Brownsville station to make an investigation.

TAXI BANDITS ROB FIVE IN A STORE

A COLLECTOR YIELDS $2,000

He Had Been Trailed by Thugs, Who Cow Others in Place—Cigar Clerk Another Victim.

Employes and a customer of the Empire State Ice Cream Company at 59 Goerck Street, near Delancey Street, on the lower East Side, were held up at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Three armed robbers got $1,400 from the cash register, and a $500 diamond scarf pin from David Kalhofer, the manager. They escaped in a taxicab with two men who had remained outside the door as lookouts. A sixth member of the gang drove the taxi.

Many persons were walking past the door when the taxi drove up and the five men got out. Inside the store were the manager, three bookkeepers and a customer. The three armed robbers forced the five to line up against the wall. After one of the trio had robbed the cash register, another took the manager's scarfpin, and then tried to take a $700 diamond ring from his finger. They tugged and tugged, but it fit so tightly that it would not come off. Ignoring the others in the line-up, the robbers fled. Their taxi disappeared in Delancey Street before a pursuit could be organized.

The police said that this was the third robbery committed in the same place within the year. Last April safe crackers got $1,800 and last June $1,500 was taken in a hold-up.

Store Collector Robbed.

Hans Mergard of White Plains, a collector for the Progress Grocery Stores Company, was held up and robbed of $2,000 by two robbers in a store of that company at 1,270 Amsterdam Avenue, near West 123d Street, yesterday afternoon. The robbers were young men who wore bright colored hat bands. They are believed to have followed Mergard on his rounds.

The collector had just entered the store and was greeting the two clerks when the robbers walked in and ordered everybody to put up their hands. Mergard dropped the bag he carried, containing the day's collections, and one of the robbers seized it.

The other robber forced Mergard and the clerks into a back room, threatening to kill them if they came out or made any outcry within five minutes. After the robbers escaped one of the clerks telephoned the police.

An armed robber held up John Josephson of 540 West 137th Street, clerk in the United Clear Store at 2,108 Amsterdam Avenue, near West 164th Street, about 7 o'clock yesterday morning and escaped with $31.50 from the cash register. Josephson had just opened the store for the day and was counting the money in the cash register. He said the robber entered with a drawn pistol and forced him into the rear room, where the robber tied him to a chair and gagged him.

Thief Waits on Customers.

After taking the money from the cash register, the robber tried in vain to pry open a strongbox in the same, which the clerk had opened. The robber waited on three customers who entered during the robbery. He left unobserved. The clerk struggled for thirty minutes, at the end of which he was able to move the chair to which he was tied over to the door.

Then he tapped on the door with his foot until he attracted the attention of Salvatore Selicio, a shoemaker, who has a shop next to the cigar store. Selicio released the clerk and notified the police station. The clerk was suffering from lacerations of the mouth, caused by the roughness of the robber in gagging him, and he was attended by an ambulance surgeon from Columbus Hospital.

On Feb. 19 last Elias Rosenbaum, clerk in the same cigar store, was shot and killed by a robber, who got $60 from the cash register, in an early morning hold-up.

SHIP ON FIRE MAKES PORT.

The Fenchurch Is Beached in Harbor and Blaze Controlled.

After being on fire in No. 2 hold since last Friday morning the British freighter Fenchurch reached port shortly after midnight yesterday and was beached off Red Hook Flats in the upper bay. A radio message had been sent by Captain James Johnson, the master, to the Fire Department and the fireboat William J. Gaynor was waiting for the ship.

As soon as the freighter was settled on the mud the hatches were taken off and the Gaynor started pumping tons of water onto the blazing cotton, sugar and grain which had been loaded in Philadelphia for Marseilles. By 7 o'clock yesterday morning the fire was under control. No estimate of the damage could be given, it was said, until Lloyd's surveyors had inspected the ship.

James W. Elwell & Co., 17 State Street, are the agents for the Fenchurch, which is a single screw of 4,334 gross tonnage.

SIRDAR MURDER TRIAL ENDS

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, June 1.—The trial of the man accused of the murder of the Sirdar ended this morning. The Court will give its judgment tomorrow.

The feature of today's session was the production, at the request of the defense, of a witness now under arrest who, when examined by the Committing Magistrate, confessed a share in previous crimes, admitted making a hiding place for Bombe in Mahmud Ismail's house and showed the spot to the police.

This witness denied everything today, even of any recollection of having appeared before the committing Magistrate. This is pointed to as a good indication of the difficulty the authorities have had in obtaining evidence.

TWO BRONX BANKERS HUNTED BY POLICE

POLICE RESERVES CALLED

One Partner Leaves Note Hinting at Suicide—Customers' Losses Estimated at $40,000 to $100,000.

Closing the steamship ticket agency and unlicensed bank at 586 Morris Avenue, the Bronx, on Friday night, Umberto Rossi, the active partner of the form of Bifulci & Rossi, took the keys to the agent of the building nearby, and walked off carrying a bundle wrapped in paper.

Yesterday morning the bank failed to open and 400 Italians surrounded the place and became so demonstrative that the reserves of the Alexander Avenue station were sent for.

About the time the crowd was gathering the detectives of the Morrisania station were notified that neither banker could be found and within half an hour the police began a search for the missing pair, the State Banking Department got under way an investigation and Chief Assistant District Attorney I. J. P. Adlerman of the Bronx had summoned witnesses with a view to laying the matter before the Grand Jury of Bronx County.

The police last night estimated that about $40,000 was owing to depositors of the bank, but the District Attorney's office placed the amount at $100,000. They reached this figure by taking into consideration a report that Bifulci & Rossi had failed to transmit to Italy money confided to their care by some of their patrons. Rossi, the more active member of the firm, is about 41 years old. His partner, Vincenzo Bifulci, who is about ten years older, has been in ill health for some time. Rossi lived at 2,295 Southern Boulevard with his family. The police located Bifulci's home through a telephone number, but could not find him, it was said.

When detectives Dominick Caso and Randall McCarthy arrived at the bank they found the police having trouble in holding back a crowd of excited depositors that blocked the street.

Gets a Letter From Rossi.

The police were assisted in this work by Vito Bittario, a druggist at 590 Morris Avenue, who is agent for the premises occupied by the bankers. It was to Bittario that Rossi had given the keys, and the druggist turned over to the detectives the following letter, postmarked Brooklyn, that the morning mail had brought to him from Rossi:

My Dear Mr. Bittario: I have been unfortunate. I cannot confront the situation any longer. I am compelled to go away and leave my family in a most miserable condition. Where I will go I don't know. Maybe suicide is waiting for me. See what you can do and get in touch with my partner.

Yours, ROSSI.

According to information received by the detectives, Rossi was last seen on Friday evening, when he left the agency with the large package. The police got in touch with one of the two clerks employed there. They also looked for Alberto Galdini, who was employed in a confidential capacity, but did not locate him yesterday.

The drug store of Bittario is a branch post office and Bittario said that Rossi mailed three registered letters on Friday last. Two of these were addressed to towns in Connecticut and the third to Pennsylvania.

Unlicensed Banking Business.

While the steamship ticket agency had been doing an advertised business in foreign exchange and the sale of steamship tickets, it was said by Assistant District Attorney Adlerman that it had also carried on an unlicensed banking business. As evidence of this he had in his possession small memorandum books given to depositors and showing the amounts paid in or drawn out. He notified the State Banking Department and Deputy Superintendent of Banks T. J. O'Connell sent Inspector Albert De Lisser to investigate. An inspection of the agency showed that the books or whatever papers there may be probably were locked in the safe. The safe was not opened and will not be until an order is obtained from the Supreme Court.

The investigation developed that the firm began to experience trouble in December when some of the clients inquired as to money entrusted to the agency for transfer to Italian banks. Some of the persons in the crowd outside the building yesterday said that money they had sent to Italy had not reached its destination, though they had deposited the money six months ago. Among these was Giuseppe Vitrello of 222 East 150th Street, the Bronx, who said he left $3,025 at the agency to be sent to Italy last December. He wrote to Italy and learned that the money had not been received, he said.

"Information has reached us that the bank took deposits as late as Friday, just before it closed," said Mr. Adlerman. "We have heard of one deposit for $5,000 taken in on that day."

Mr. Adlerman said he would present the facts to the Grand Jury on June 9 and would ask for the indictment of the two partners on charges of grand larceny and violation of the State Banking laws. The indictments, he said, would be sought on the basis of a $1,500 deposit made by Frank Luigi of 294 East 183d Street, the Bronx, on Friday, when the agency closed.

Mr. Adlerman said the firm had been in business about five years, but for probably fifteen years there had been a money exchange and steamship agency at the Morris Avenue address, which is in the heart of an Italian population.

Rossi left a wife and four children.

Guests of Mrs. Alton Brooks Parker, National Chairman of the Women's Committee of the George Washington-Sulgrave Institution, heard Rear Admiral Plunkett, Commandant of the New York Navy Yard, speak over the radio yesterday afternoon from Station WEAN in praise of peace, which, he said, was the "goal of humanity." The Admiral also highly praised the work of the institution in preserving the various resting places of Washington, which he described as "shrines of public pilgrimage."

Those present at Mrs. Parker's tea, which was held at the Ambassador, included Admiral and Mrs. Plunkett, Mr. and Mrs. Ten Eyck Wendell, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Burch, Mrs. George G. Allen, Mrs. Cyrus Townsend Brady, Mrs. Sidney Means, Miss Jessie B. Nash, Mrs. Edward Davis Jones, Miss Edith White and Mrs. C. D. Bowrie.

May Oppose Leasing Shoals.

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP).—Sentiment against leasing Muscle Shoals power has developed in the Muscle Shoals Commission and indications are that it will recommend against such a move. Members are understood to take the view that the power will not be available before Dec. 1 and that by that time the commission's report on the disposition of the property will be ready. President Coolidge holds that leases should not be made if they interfere with final disposition.

Financed Sister's Wedding, Convict Gets Delay to See It

Benjamin Goldstein, sentenced to fifteen months in the Atlanta Penitentiary for concealing assets in bankruptcy, asked Federal Judge Knox yesterday to delay his transportation to prison until after his sister's wedding on June 21. Goldstein explained:

After considering the matter, Judge Knox agreed to delay Goldstein's trip to prison until the night of June 21. In the meantime Goldstein will remain in the Tombs.

C. K. G. BILLINGS BUYS $5,000,000 BUILDING

TRADES IN HIS ESTATE

Farnsworth, the Long Island Home Which Cost Him $1,550,000, Soon to Be Resold.

The seventeen-story Johnston Building, occupying a block front in the financial district in Exchange Place, from Broad to New Streets, was purchased yesterday by C. K. G. Billings, capitalist and sportsman. The property was held at $5,000,000. Its purchase gives Mr. Billings one of the best locations in the Wall Street district, and is significant as marking his return to the real estate market after a long absence.

The building occupies the southerly block front on Exchange Place, and was sold by Mandelbaum & Lewine, operators, through Joseph P. Day and the Charles F. Noyes Company, as brokers. It covers a plot of 13,000 square feet, with a direct street frontage of 325 feet, and is considered one of the best properties available in the financial district at any price, owing to the fact that the property includes two corners. Title will pass to Mr. Billings on July 1.

The Johnston Building has as neighbors many of the best-known skyscrapers in the financial district. Diagonally opposite will be the new thirty-two-story home of the Equitable Trust Company on the site of the present Mills Building. Directly opposite is the Broad Exchange Building, to the north is the Blair Building and the New York Stock Exchange, and to the west are the homes of the Central Union Trust Company, the Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company Building, which was recently purchased by the North American Company; the Standard Oil Building and the other large structures on Broadway extending through to New Street. The cable and telegraph companies and the home building of the Radio Corporation are to the south.

Charles T. Wills erected the building just acquired by Mr. Billings from plans by James B. Baker. The decorations with the bronze and glass work were done by Tiffany. The foundations rest on solid rock, and the building is one of the few in the neighborhood with soundproof and fireproof partitions throughout. The building produces a rental of approximately $500,000 a year.

In part payment for the Johnston Building the sellers took from Mr. Billings a first mortgage Farnsworth & Lamb property, Long Island, which cost Mr. Billings $1,550,000 to construct. The Billings estate is at Locust Valley, and adjoins the Piping Rock Club. The buildings were designed by Guy Lowell, the architect of the Lawyers' Court House, and were erected under Mr. Billing's personal supervision in 1915. The main house is said to be the only one in America of Georgian architecture with each brick laid in the usual scale, which was the custom when brick houses were built in the time of the Georges.

In addition to the main residence, Mandelbaum & Lewine sold a superintendent's house, seven houses for help, a garage for twenty cars, greenhouses, power house furnishing light, heat and power to all the buildings, a stable with twenty box stalls, and dairy buildings. The estate covers sixty-five acres of ground, and the drives with lawns, trees and flowers, were all laid out by Sargent of Boston.

Farnsworth has been placed in charge of Joseph P. Day and the Charles F. Noyes Company for resale, and negotiations are now pending with a prospective buyer. Eisman, Lee, Corn & Lewine represented Mandelbaum & Lewine in the transaction.

SHEPHERD CASE DRAGS ON.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 1.—After getting one more prospective juryman today, optimistic attorneys for both sides predicted that the jury to try William D. Shepherd for the murder of William Nelson McClintock would be completed before the end of the week. Others do not think so.

Judge Thomas J. Lynch's courtroom at the beginning of the third week of the trial was a setting from the celebrated cause of Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce. The gallery had dwindled to seven plain-clothes men and six spectators.

HIS MEMORY GONE 13 YEARS

NORTHPORT, L. I., June 1.—After thirteen years' absence, during which he suffered loss of memory, Daniel W. Arthur, former editor and part owner of the Northport Journal, returned here today for a visit. He was reunited last week with his family, who live in Hartford, Conn.

Mr. Arthur disappeared following a nervous breakdown. He told friends here today that he had been employed first as a proofreader and later as a linotype operator on a newspaper in Lynchburg, Va. He said that details of his former life gradually returned to his memory and that he recently remembered having lived in Northport. His family moved away soon after his disappearance and he found them in Hartford through a son-in-law, George Chapello.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Advance in Stocks, Followed by Sharp Reaction—Sterling and Francs Quiet.

With European markets closed for the Whitmonday holiday there was little movement in the foreign exchanges yesterday, and interest was fairly divided between the New York Stock Exchange and the Chicago wheat market. They moved in much the same way, each of them rising in the early hours of business but losing before the close all of the earlier advance and more. The stock market appeared at the start to be looking for the execution of orders "received over Sunday" after the preceding week's professional marking-up of prices. That tradition of old-time Wall Street has failed pretty often to repeat itself this year, and yesterday again gave no evidence of an enthusiastic outside public bidding for stocks which professional speculators were marketing at the higher prices.

There were some scattered advances of 1 per cent. or so in the earlier transactions; then a pause, and next, when the program of "professional realising" got under way, prices declined to a lower level than last Friday's. Wall Street, which is fond of producing other causes than those which are plainly obvious, pointed to a 4½ per cent. call money market as against the 3½ per cent. rate of Friday. But no one had expected anything but a higher call-money rate on a day when the "monthly settlements" and "shifting of balances" were in progress, and there is no reason whatever to suppose that the fractionally higher rate had any influence on the Stock Exchange. In the end, several of the highly speculative stocks which had led last week's professional advance had lost 1 to 3 points for the day and, although the usual expedient was adopted of bidding up some shares to offset the declines in others, the market closed at an average decline of nearly 1 per cent., with both railway and industrial shares participating.

Cotton prices hardly moved; last year's experience showed the Government cotton reports to be so erratic, so prone to treat the cotton trade to a "surprise" by either unexpectedly large or unexpectedly small estimates, that speculators were evidently not disposed to take large chances. This was not so with wheat, for which the Government estimate is still a week away. All future-delivery prices rose 2¼ to 2½ cents, the September contract reaching temporarily the highest price thus far in the year. But with wheat, as with stocks, the real basis of the market turned out to be expectation of outside speculative buying which did not materialize.

When it failed to come, the sales of professional speculators drove down prices, leaving them 2 cents lower than at last week's closing. In a week when it is possible for the Agricultural Department to point out, first that the supply of wheat in sight was lately the largest of any corresponding date on record, and second that "growing conditions in most wheat-producing countries (Canada especially) are better than they were at this time last year," there are evidently two sides to the market. On the whole, the day's proceedings in both stocks and grain fairly exemplified the character of the movement.

Conducted solely under New York's auspices, sterling ended yesterday at exactly last week's closing and the franc a trifle lower, practically at 5 cents. The past week has certainly suggested a market for francs virtually stabilized at that price, though whether because the "Morgan credit" is drawn on when it goes below 5 cents, or because of a vague idea that the Caillaux Finance Ministry has selected 5 cents as the "devaluation point," remains debatable. The whole case of the French Government finances is at present most singular, with one of the most notorious political opportunists of Europe meditating on the solution of the problem, apparently with the trust and confidence of the entire banking community. Compared with this, the financial outcry over Hindenburg's election, shortly followed by seeming agreement that Hindenburg was the wisest choice in Germany's predicament, is merely a casual incident.

MONEY.

MONDAY, JUNE 1, 1925.

Stock Exchange call money got up to 4½ per cent. just after midday, an advance of ¼ over Friday's final. Renewals were arranged at 4, but there was no outside market under the board quotation. There was a fairly good demand, which, with the $20,000,000 withdrawn, caused banks to raise charges, as the supply on hand is much below the usual amount. Business in the time money market was at a standstill, the bid for all maturities continuing at 3½ per cent., while lenders were offering money at 4. Business money markets were quiet and unchanged in discount.

$50,000,000 MERGER OF UTILITIES READY

Amalgamation of Albany, Cohoes, Utica and Adirondack Concerns Second in State in Month.

Holders of common stock of the Municipal Gas Company of the City of Albany, Cohoes Power and Light Corporation, Utica Gas and Electric Company and the Adirondack Power and Light Corporation are requested in a letter sent to them yesterday to participate in the plan for merging these companies, which have assets of around $50,000,000. At the same time a petition for approval of the merger was filed with the Public Service Commission at Albany. It is the second large New York State amalgamation of utilities participated in by General Electric and other interests within a month, the other having been the merger of the Buffalo General Electric Company, Niagara, Lockport and Ontario Power Company and the Niagara Falls Power Company.

The announcement yesterday confirmed reports that have been current for several months of the impending up-State deal involving four of the so-called Brady properties at Utica, Cohoes, Albany and Fulton County. The new company will be the Mohawk-Hudson Power Corporation. The plan is for this corporation to acquire a majority of the capital shares of the Municipal Gas Company of Albany, Cohoes Power and Light Corporation, Fulton County Gas and Electric Company of Gloversville and Johnstown, and a majority of the common stocks of the Adirondack Power and Light Corporation and of the Utica Gas and Electric Company, or of corporations which own the common stock of these companies. The General Electric Company is understood to hold about 50 per cent. of the common stock of the Adirondack Power and Light Corporation, and its officers hold a part of the balance. The preferred stocks of the Utica Gas and Electric Company and of Adirondack Power and Light Corporation will remain outstanding.

The new company has arranged to issue three classes of stock. The preferred and second preferred stocks are entitled to cumulative dividends at the rate of $7 per share per annum. The company will issue its shares for those of the companies it acquires, the basis being two shares of its preferred stock and one-half share of its common for each share of Municipal Gas Company stock; one and eight-four one-hundredths shares of its preferred stock and one-half share of common for each share of Cohoes Power and Light stock; two and one-tenth shares preferred and one-half share common for each share of Utica Gas and Electric common stock; one-third share of second preferred and one share of common for each common share of Adirondack Power and Light Corporation and 21,018 shares second preferred for 13,824 shares of Fulton County Gas and Electric stock, preferred and common. The latter is at the rate of about one and fifty-eight one hundredths shares of the new company's second preferred stock for each share of the first preferred and common sock of the Fulton County Company and about eighty-six one-hundredths of a share of second preferred for each share of second preferred of the Fulton County Company.

The new company has also arranged to acquire in exchange for its second preferred stock substantial amounts of the bonds and notes of Fulton County Gas and Electric Company and of the Mohawk Hydroelectric Company, 80,000 shares of the common stock of the Niagara, Lockport and Ontario Power Company and 35,000 shares of the $7 cumulative preferred stock of the Power and Electric Securities Corporation, which owns most of the common stock of the Northern New York Utilities, Inc. In addition, a total of $7,249,360 of cash has been subscribed for common stock of the new company.

Further Developments Indicated.

The Niagara, Lockport and Ontario figured in the recent tie-up of properties at Buffalo; it is believed significant of further developments of this kind that the Mohawk-Hudson Corporation, representing the combination engineered by the Adirondack Power and Light Corporation, is to acquire 80,000 shares of that company under the present merger plan.

For each share of the common stock of Adirondack Power and Light which participates in the plan the owner also has the right to subscribe at $10 for one share of the common stock of the new company, and he also receives an option to accept $20 in cash instead of the share of common stock to which he is entitled on the exchange.

Provision is made for the ultimate retirement of the second preferred stock by issuing option warrants entitling the owner thereof to purchase two shares of common stock at $50 a share, payable in cash or by the surrender to the company of second preferred stock, which will be accepted for this purpose at $100 per share. If all of the stock is exchanged there will be outstanding 280,000 shares of preferred stock of no par value and 182,000 shares of second preferred, no par value, and 999,000 no par value common shares. The directors of the new company will consist of representatives of the various companies participating in the plan.

The petition emphasizes the economic necessity of the plan. The several operating companies will continue to conduct their operations as heretofore.

RADIATOR CONCERNS MERGE

The McCord Organization Buys the National Company.

The McCord Radiator and Manufacturing Company has acquired from the National Radiator and Manufacturing Company its equipment and good-will it was learned yesterday. The National Radiator Company, originally a part of the National Can Company, was bought out several years ago by Adrian D. Noyes, President of the Glidden Company. Later the can business was sold to the Continental Can Company. The new purchase by the McCord Company was made through Mr. Noyes.

The National Company supplies radiators for Paige, Jewett, Packard, Rickenbacker and Velie, as well as spiral tubing for heating radiators. The manufacture of these radiators will be transferred to the main plant of the McCord Company. Neil McMillan Jr. and Forest McMillan, who have been associated with the National Company, and their shop organization will enter the employ of the McCord Company.

'FIRST BALE' OF 1925 SENT.

The first bale of cotton of the 1925 crop has been picked and shipped to Houston, Texas, according to a telegram received yesterday by A. A. Housman & Co. The first 1925 bale was twenty-six days ahead of the first bale last year.

The "first bale," always receives a big price, and there is great rivalry among the planters in the extreme southern part of Texas to get the first one to market each year. After being auctioned off at its receiving point the bale travels to each of the large Cotton Exchanges of the country to be auctioned off again and again. All money, with the exception of that received by the planter, is usually devoted by the cotton brokers to some charity. The first bale is expected to come to New York next week.

235% STOCK DIVIDEND DECLARED BY FILM CO.

Directors of the Fox Film Corporation yesterday declared a stock dividend of 235 per cent., 200 per cent. to the stockholders and 35 per cent. to leading employes who have contributed to the company's success. The dividend is payable in Class A common stock without par value and is incident to the complete recapitalization of the company.

Holders of the present common stock were given the right to subscribe for 165,000 shares of additional Class A stock at $43 a share, or for each share now held the stockholder may, at his option, subscribe for 1.65 shares additional. These subscriptions will be received by the Bankers Trust Company.

At a recent meeting stockholders voted to replace the old common stock with new Class B common to the amount of 100,000 shares and to authorize 900,000 shares of additional Class A common without voting privileges.

It was stated yesterday that the total assets of the company, aggregating approximately $18,000,000, have accrued entirely from earnings. The original investment of $500,000 in preferred stock, made in 1915, was retired in 1916. Cash dividends equivalent to the original investment were paid in 1922, 1923 and 1924.

Heretofore the company has been owned entirely by William Fox and a small group of his friends. It now is planned to list the stock on the New York Stock Exchange, and the 235 per cent. dividend was an incidental step to this listing.

EXPECT ST. PAUL PLAN WITHIN A FEW DAYS

Opposition by Common Stockholders' Protective Committee Said to Have Been Withdrawn.

The reorganization plan of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad may be expected within a few days, according to reports yesterday in financial circles. Opposition by the protective committee for the common stockholders is understood to have been withdrawn and only a few finishing touches are said to be necessary before the plan is made public.

H. F. Byram, former President and now one of the three receivers of the road, said yesterday at Chicago that the freight business of the St. Paul was increasing but the gains were offset by declines in passenger traffic. It is difficult to cut down the expenses incidental to passenger traffic, he added, because of the necessity of carrying mail and express on the branch lines.

"Rail motor cars," he said, "cost $30,000 to $35,000 each, and there is little if any saving in substituting them for steam equipment if one figures the interest on the investment. Saving in wages is not sufficient to justify the change.

"The 6,500 freight cars we have ordered for Fall delivery will cost about $12,500,000. They will replace equipment retired since we last bought freight cars. If business comes back to normal proportions in the Northwest during the next year or two we will need more new cars. Our power situation is good and no other large capital expenditures confront us at present."

The St. Paul has also issued an order for the largest amount of repair work on cars of any time in the last five years, C. G. Jeneau, master car builder of the system, said yesterday. The car repair order will involve expenditures of $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 and the car department at Milwaukee will be increased by 500 men at once.

PLANS TO ALTER STOCK.

American District Telegraph Co. May Change Shares.

A special meeting of stockholders of the American District Telegraph Company has been called to vote on a plan for changing the present capital of 100,000 shares of $100 par value common, to 100,000 shares of 7 per cent. preferred of $100 par value, and 300,000 shares of new no par common stock. The Extensive Territory Served by

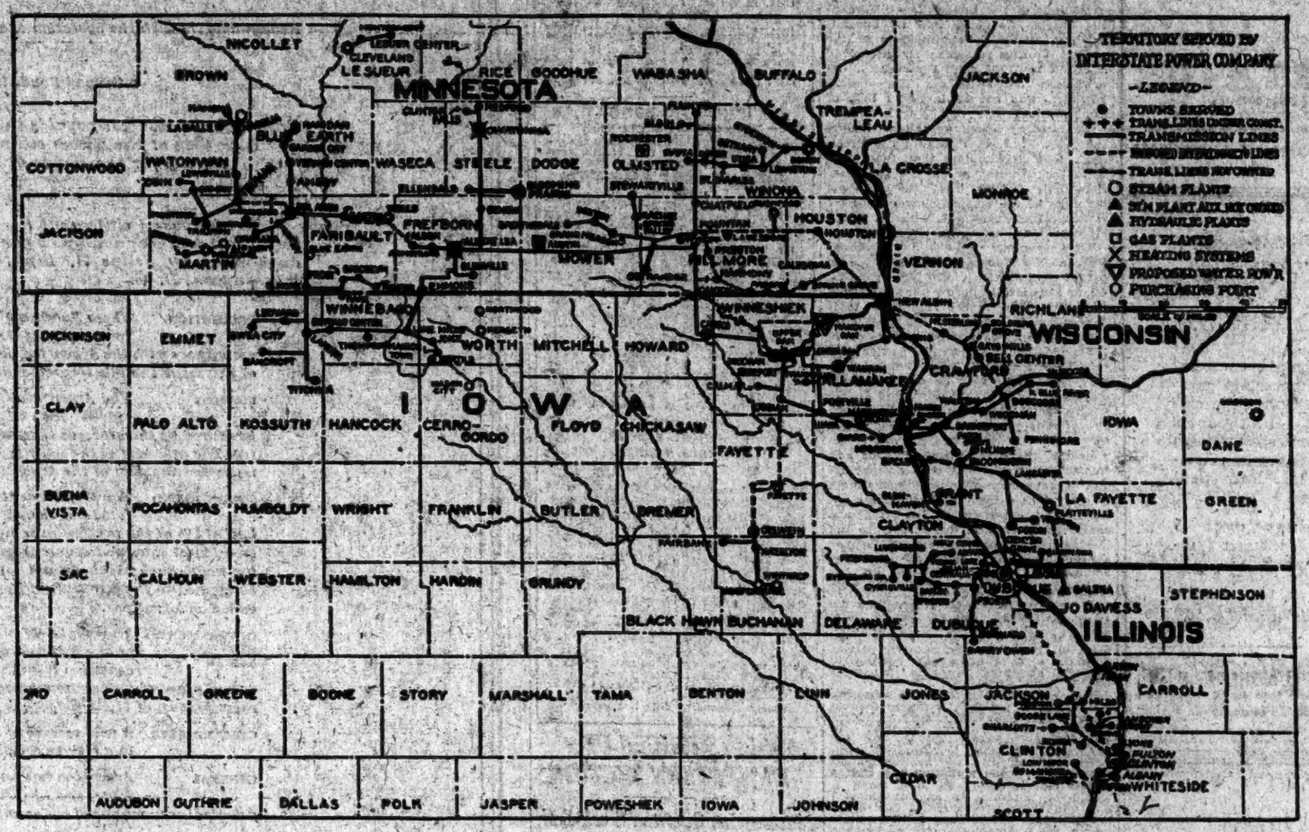
Iowa—Minnesota—Wisconsin—Illinois



In the northern Mississippi valley and surrounding territory the Interstate Power Company supplies without competition electric light and power to about 150 prosperous cities and communities. A number of these are also supplied with either gas, steam heating or electric railway service.

The field of the Company's operations covers one of the most important industrial and agricultural sections of the country and extends over 350 miles. The population throughout this vast territory is growing and the demand for public utility service is rapidly increasing. It has been the endeavor and achievement of the management not only to meet this increased demand but to provide facilities to which further community growth could respond.

Accordingly, the management has interconnected its properties by high tension transmission lines and thus made available over practically the entire service area the electric energy produced at each generating station. To aid in carrying out this super-power plan the present plant at Dubuque will be enlarged and a new super-power plant constructed at Clinton, Iowa, the center of the territory served by the recently acquired Clinton Gas & Electric Co.

For the year ended March 31, 1925, gross earnings of the Interstate Power Company and companies owned or controlled on April 29, 1925, were $3,723,362. Net earnings for the year were $1,696,546. 90% of the net income is derived from the sale of electric light and power.

The Interstate Power Company has the benefit of the management of the Utilities Power & Light Corporation. The sound financial structure upon which it has planned its growth, its satisfactory and steadily increasing earnings, the strategic location of its properties, and the natural resources and diversified industries of the territory served place it among the substantial public utility organizations of the country and give to its securities an established investment position.

MERCANTILE MARINE AGAIN HAD DEFICIT

President Franklin Says Our Alien Laws Have Hit Transatlantic Trade.

EARNINGS SHOWED INCREASE

But These Were Eclipsed by Depreciation of Steamers, Fixed at $5,756,207.92.

The preliminary annual report of operations of the International Mercantile Marine Company and its subsidiaries submitted to stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday again showed a deficit for 1924 after reserves for depreciation on steamers. The deficit, however, was not as large as that of the year before.

Commenting upon operations during the year, P. A. S. Franklin, the President, told stockholders that there was little improvement in the freight situation, but, despite this, the combined earnings of the company made a better showing than for 1923, brought about largely by the concentration of sailings.

"The earnings of the International Mercantile Marine Company" (the parent organization), said Mr. Franklin, "show a material improvement compared with 1923, due to the receipt of dividends from a subsidiary company, paid out of its surplus accumulated prior to 1924. Although passenger rates for 1925 have improved, the volume of passenger traffic shows only a moderate increase.

"The freight business generally is not as satisfactory as it was a year ago, for while the European situation has improved, the development of trade and commerce thus far has been disappointing. The number of steamers available is largely in excess of the business offered, and expenses of operating are considerably greater, due largely to the increased cost of fuel oil. While the estimated net earnings for the first four months of 1925 are less than for the corresponding period of last year, it is hoped that the results for the entire year will ont be less favorable than for 1924. Although competition is very severe, we are maintaining our position in the various trades and doing our utmost to husband our cash resources, with the view of being in a position to take full advantage when the hoped-for improvement comes."

One woman attending the meeting criticized the policy and public expressions of Mr. Franklin, charging that he "knocked the company terribly." In reply Mr. Franklin said he did not believe in misleading investors. "Conditions are bad and we are competing with other people, including the United States Government," he said, "and it would be nonsense to say anything I did not think was honest. No other business has experienced a like reduction in the amount of traffic as has the transatlantic passenger business, due to immigration laws passed by the United States."

The preliminary report of operations of the parent and subsidiary companies, which include the American Line, Red Star Line, White Star Line, Atlantic Transport Line and Leyland Line, in part follows:

Net result, including insurance fund surplus for 1923, after deducting operating and general expenses, taxes and interest on debenture bonds of subsidiary companies	$2,575,834.30	$6,113,597.24
Interest on I. M. M. Co. bonds	2,108,231.24	2,229,718.86
Result before depreciation	$4,676,903.05	$3,883,878.48
Depreciation on steamers	5,756,207.92	5,579,800.40
Deficit for year	$1,079,304.87	$1,695,921.92

For proper comparison with results of previous years the earnings of the British companies have been converted at $4.86 per pound sterling.

"From the foregoing estimated figures," says the report, "it will be seen that the actual operation of all the steamers and business of your company and its subsidiaries for the year 1924 resulted in a profit of $4,676,903.05, after deducting all expenses, taxes and bond interest. However, against this profit must be charged depreciation on the steamers amounting to $5,756,207.92.

"The estimated earnings of the parent company for 1924, including dividends from its subsidiary companies out of their surplus for 1924 and prior thereto and from the operation of steamers it owns directly, is contained in the following table:

Total net earnings of I. M. M. Co. plus dividends from subsidiary companies, after deducting taxes and general expenses	$4,908,169.87	$5,417,821.69
I. M. M. Co. bond interest	2,108,231.24	2,229,718.86
	$2,104,172.63	$1,192,802.83
Surplus	$1,705,337.89	$793,568.09

GASOLINE PRICES UP IN WESTERN SECTIONS

Consumption Over the Week-End, Due to Holiday, Makes a New High Record.

The consumption of gasoline over the week-end, due to the Memorial Day holiday, established a new high record for any similar period, according to reports received by several large Eastern oil companies. Weather conditions were favorable in most sections of the country, with the exception of a few local showers.

This news was accompanied by reports of a firmer market for gasoline in the Middle West and certain sections of the Southwest. The Pierce Oil Company yesterday advanced its tank-wagon price one cent a gallon throughout Texas. At San Antonio, the Magnolia Petroleum Company and the Gulf Refining Company advanced prices 3 cents a gallon. In the Middle West refiners are quoting gasoline at 13½ cents a gallon, minimum price, while some refiners are asking 12½ cents for prompt delivery and 13 cents for delivery over the next ten days. These are advances of from 2¼ to 2½ cents a gallon compared with the prices quoted at this time last year.

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana, owing to the threatened shortage of gasoline, has ordered increased operations at its plant at Casper, Wyo., which is operated by the Midwest Refining Company. This plant is one of the larger gasoline refineries in the country. It has a capacity of 45,000 barrels of crude oil daily, but runs have been considerably below this level during the greater part of the Winter.

Production of crude oil in the Southern fields of California increased during the last week, according to figures received in the financial district. The seven important fields in the lower half of the State were credited with a daily average production of 849,000 barrels of crude oil last week, a gain of 10,700 barrels compared with the total of 332,300 barrels reported in the previous week. In the Gulf Coast district a reduction of 2,500 barrels was reported in the daily average output, a drop from 163,300 barrels in the week of May 23, to 160,560 barrels in the week of May 30.

PROPOSES CHANGE IN STOCK

Canada Dry Ginger Ale Plans a New Corporation.

Directors of the Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., of Virginia, have approved a plan for the exchange of its shares for those of a company of the same name, on the basis of four shares of stock of the new corporation for each share of Class A stock and Class B stock of the old corporation. Under the plan it is intended to put the new shares on a $1 annual dividend basis. The old stock is paying $3, so that the proposed dividend represents an increase of $1 a share per year. It is proposed to list the new stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

The new corporation will have an authorized capitalization of 800,000 shares of no par value, of which 428,000 shares will be outstanding. It is not proposed to issue the balance of 372,000 shares except to cover paid-up subscriptions under the old corporation's employes' stock subscription plan.

SOUTHERN COTTON OIL CO.

New $13,500,000 Corporation Will Take Over Two Old Properties.

The Southern Cotton Oil Company of Louisiana has been incorporated with a paid-up capital of $13,500,000 to take over the properties of the Southern Cotton Oil Company of New Jersey and the Southport Mills, Ltd., of New Orleans. The transaction involved about $10,000,000.

Though ownership of these properties will be combined with that of Southport Mills, the two subsidiaries will be operated separately, it was said yesterday.

SINKING FUND — The Government will covenant to pay to the Fiscal Agents as a Sinking Fund, beginning December 1, 1925, and thereafter semi-annually on June 1 and December 1, in each year, an amount equal to one-half of 1% of the maximum principal amount of Bonds of the issue of June 1, 1925 at any time theretofore issued plus an amount equal to the accrued and unpaid interest on all Bonds previously acquired through the operation of the Sinking Fund. Such Sinking Fund payments (which may be increased by the Executive Power if considered advisable) are to be applied to the purchase of Bonds below par through tenders, or, if not so obtainable, to the redemption of Bonds, called by lot, at par.

GOVERNMENT DEBT AND ASSETS — The total debt of the Argentine Government as of December 31, 1924, amounted to about $935,000,000, or the equivalent of about $93.50 per capita, as compared with the national wealth, according to the census of 1914 (the latest official figures), of $18,543,000,000, or more than $1,860 per capita. Government owned properties (including revenue producing investments of $530,000,000) had a total value in 1914, according to the same census, of $1,125,000,000, or about $190,000,000 more than the total government debt now outstanding.

GOLD RESERVE — A gold reserve of $463,000,000 is held against the note circulation (equivalent to $536,000,000), resulting in a reserve ratio of over 75%.

GENERAL — Argentina has an area considerably greater than that part of the United States east of the Mississippi River, and has an estimated population of 10,000,000 persons. Agriculture and live-stock raising are the principal occupations of the country, which is one of the world's chief exporters of cereals, meat, hides, wool and linseed.

The foreign trade of Argentina is greater than that of any other Latin American country. During the past few years its purchases from the United States have been larger than the combined purchases of the three next largest South American customers of the United States. The Argentine's merchandise exports in 1924 were valued at $976,000,000, its imports at $800,000,000, resulting in a favorable trade balance of over $176,000,000.

The improving Argentine trade balance during the past eighteen months, has resulted in a steady rise in value of the Argentine paper peso, which is now quoted in New York at about 95% of par. Measures have recently been taken to prepare the way for a complete restoration of the gold standard which existed in the Argentine prior to 1914.

Twenty-Year 6½% Sinking Fund Kroner Bonds

Dated June 1, 1924 — Interest payable June 1, and December 1 — Due June 1, 1944

Free from all present and future Norwegian Taxes

Redeemable by means of a semi-annual sinking fund by purchase in the market at or below par or by drawings at par, starting December 1, 1929. The Government reserves the right to redeem the loan as a whole, or to increase the redemption for sinking fund on June 1, 1934, or at any time thereafter upon three months' notice. Coupon bonds in denominations of Kr. 10,000, 5,000, 1,000 and 500 each.

CREDIT: These bonds are the direct obligation of the Kingdom of Norway. The high rating of Norwegian credit in this country is best illustrated by the fact that the 6% dollar bonds are now selling on the New York Stock Exchange on approximately a 5% basis. Prior to the outbreak of the Great War, the Government of Norway placed loans in London, Paris and other large European Exchanges at a net cost ranging from 3.10% to 4.11%.

PUBLIC DEBT AND WEALTH: The total national debt, as of June 30, 1924, was $423,383,720, while the Kingdom owns railroad, telegraph and telephone lines, mines and hydro-electric plants, valued at $335,000,000. The national wealth is estimated at $3,350,000,000 which is equivalent to approximately $1,250 per capita.

As of January 1, 1925, Norway had outstanding $36,000,000 and £20,100,000 of external loans which at present rate of exchange amount to approximately Kr. 230,687,000. At par of exchange the cost of refunding this external indebtedness would be reduced to about Kr. 200,000,000, thus representing a saving of nearly 55%.

KRONER EXCHANGE: Since the beginning of this year, the Kroner has advanced from 13.10c to approximately 14.80c. Par of exchange is 26.80c. per Kroner.

At about present prices and prevailing rates of exchange these bonds offer an annual income of 6%. Any improvement in the rate of exchange would increase the dollar value of both principal and income, and should Kroner return to par the annual income in dollars would amount to about 10%, while the price of the bonds would show an increase of more than 48%.

PHILIPPINE TRADE GROWS.

Economic conditions in the Philippine Islands are better now than at any time since the end of the war, according to the American Chamber of Commerce of the Philippine Islands.

Imports and exports total $243,355,552, compared with $208,252,737 for the previous year. Imports for the year total $108,010,896, while exports amounted to $135,344,662. This, the report points out, shows that the trade balance is in favor of the islands, as it was in the two preceding years.

"As usual," says the report, "the largest portion of our trade was with the United States, 64 per cent. thereof having been with that country, followed by the United Kingdom and Japan, 6 per cent. each, and by China and the French East Indies, 4 per cent. each.

"Seventy-two per cent of the articles exported from the islands went to the United States. In the order of their importance as to value, the principal exports were sugar, $41,868,086; hemp, $29,868,086, which represented 22 per cent. of the total exports of the islands, and coconut oil, $15,511080, a 34 per cent. increase over 1923. Ninety-nine per cent. of cocnut oil shipments went to the United States."

SHOE CO. REPORTS INCREASE

After deducting reserves for interest and taxes, the company's net income was reported as $5,013,079, against $4,892,385 for the same period last year. The net income for the five months ended April, 1925, after allowing for preferred dividends, left a balance equal to $4.77 a share earned on the 920,000 shares of no par value common stock outstanding, against $4.64 a share earned on the same amount of common stock a year ago. After payment of dividends on both the common and preferred stock, the company reported a surplus of $2,000,079, against $2,432,218 in 1924.

The United Electric Light and Power Company, operating properties in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri, reports gross earnings for the twelve months ended April 30 of $34,959,842, an increase of $865,737 over the previous twelve months. $10,000,000 MACHINERY BOUGHT BY RUSSIA

Isaiah J. Hoorgin, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, agents here for the Russian State Export and Import Department, said yesterday, following his return from seven months in Russia, that during the year ended April 30, the corporation had placed orders in this country for $10,000,000 worth of machinery for Russian delivery. Of this total spent by Amtorg, about $4,500,000 has been for agricultural machinery, chiefly tractors. Mr. Hoorgin is also a director of the All-Russian Textile Syndicate which is buying the bulk of the cotton shipped to Russia from this country.

Mr. Hoorgin declared the progress being made in reconstruction in Russia gave assurance of larger expenditures in the United States in the coming year. He said that the total trade turnover between Russia and the United States in the last fiscal year, as determined from the records of Amtorg, All-Russian Textile Syndicate and other agencies, approximated $100,000,000, the largest ever transacted in terms of dollars. This total fell short of pre-war, however, by around 10 per cent.

Mr. Hoorgin visited Moscow, Kharkov, Leningrad and other important centres in the Soviet Republics, where he arranged for better facilities for trade between the United States and Russia. While the prospects for the next harvest are favorable and a large surplus of grains for export is expected, it is keenly felt by Soviet authorities that in order to do away with the possibility of recurring disasters such as the famine of 1922 and the poor crop of last year, agriculture must be thoroughly reconstructed along modern technical lines.

Mr. Hoorgin said also that there should be a good market in Russia for American factory machinery.

SAVINGS BANK OPENS AN UPTOWN BRANCH

Occasion Is Seventy-fifth Anniversary of Emigrant Industrial Institution.

The new uptown branch of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank at Forty-third Street and Lexington Avenue was opened to the public yesterday morning. The occasion commemorated the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the bank by eighteen New York merchants, who in 1850 assessed themselves $220 each for this purpose. Most of the early depositors were Irish immigrants.

"It is a great satisfaction to us," said John J. Pulleyn, President of the bank, yesterday morning, "to open this branch. The more a great savings institution can become a neighborhood service to our progressive citizens who have learned the value of savings the greater the benefit to the community. A large savings bank is an educational as well as a financial institution. It does more than wait passively for people to come in. It explains the importance of savings as a means of living insurance to provide against unemployment, sickness in the family, depression in business and all those unexpected things for which a man cannot take out an insurance policy.

"This bank was founded chiefly on the deposits of immigrants. We have watched the progress of the families of these earlier depositors, and it has been an impressive lesson in what savings can do to bring a man to prominence and success.

"In seventy-five years we have become the largest savings bank in the United States, a mutual bank, without stockholders, in which every cent earned goes back to the depositors themselves either in interest or in the surplus we build up for their protection. On this anniversary we are particularly pleased to welcome the hundreds of new depositors who have been coming in since early this morning to add their names to our membership roll."

SEES GOOD COPPER OUTLOOK

John D. Ryan, Chairman of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company in commenting on the copper situation yesterday before his departure for Europe said that the outlook was favorable, demand for the metal being heavy at home and abroad and much better than at any time since the war.

"The price is still too low to give a satisfactory return to many of the mines," he added, "but that is largely due to the bitter competition that exists in the selling of the metal here and abroad.

"Nothing is done and nothing can be done under our laws to do away with this competition. In any other commercial country copper producers that were exporting a very large part of their products would be induced or compelled by their governments to get a fair price for such a great natural resource as copper. Our laws force us to fight not only the producers of all other countries but our fellow Americans in the important markets of the world. I expect all important copper companies to make a much better showing this year than they did last. I think that the general business of the country will continue good during the year."

2 BANK CHANGES MADE.

Manufacturers Trust Company Increases Number of Units.

The number of unit banks operated by the Manufacturers Trust Company increases to fifteen today with the opening of the Fifth National Bank as the Twenty-third Street office and the Gotham National Bank as the Columbus Circle office of the company. Arrangements for these changes were announced several weeks ago. The absorption gives the Manufacturers Trust Company resources of $220,000,000, capital and surplus of about $22,000,000 and deposits of approximately $190,000,000.

Officials of the company said yesterday that each branch is a unit in itself, with the power to transact all business without reference to the main office, each giving service to its own district.

BANKERS COMPETE FOR FOREIGN BONDS

APPROVED BY THE LEAGUE

Proceeds to Be Used for Income-Producing Improvement—Other Issues Being Prepared.

Competition for foreign bond issues, which has become unusually keen among big Wall Street investment houses, is now reported to be international in its extent. Information has been received here that several large American and European banking groups are bidding for a Saar Basin bond issue, which would carry with it the approval of the League of Nations. One factor which has added to the competition for this particular issue is the success of former loans to territories supervised by the League. Several other important foreign issues are understood to be in course of preparation.

Cable advices indicate that definite information regarding the closing of a contract for a Saar Basin loan with an American banking group will be forthcoming within the next few days. Loans to the Saar Basin are made only with the approval of the governing commission representing the League of Nations, under whose jurisdiction the basin is being administered until the plebiscite of 1935. Recognition by investors of the value of the League of Nations connection is indicated by the movements of the Austrian Government 7 per cent. bonds, which were offered a year ago at 90 and are now selling at about 98, and by the successful sale of a Greek Government issue.

It is understood that the syndicates which are bidding for the new Saar loan include representatives of some of the strongest banking connections in Europe. The Saar Basin at present has no national debt, and the territory is prosperous. It is understood that proceeds of the new loan will be used only for income-producing capital improvements such as water works and light and power plants. The budget of the Saar territory has always been balanced under the administration of the League's governing commission.

Among the other foreign issues expected is one by the Dutch East Indies, though the discussion is only in the preliminary stages. A number of additional foreign issues are the subject of bidding among the banking groups, actuated by the small amount of such securities available to meet the broad, active demand.

Discussion of a possible Dutch East Indian loan has been based in part on the strong movements of the old issues of these colonies. Heavy buying of the bonds has come from Holland, and there has been considerable demand from London, presumably for Dutch account. This buying has sent the prices of Dutch East Indies 5½ per cent. bonds to a point above par, while other Dutch East Indian issues have gone as high as 103. This has attracted considerable interest among bankers in view of the prevailing prices of similar foreign issues. It is pointed out that Holland is steadily strengthening her financial position and that business conditions in her possessions have been improving.

There was talk also of a possible Rumanian Government issue of $100,000,000 in behalf of the Rumanian railroads, but in Wall Street it was said that no such loan would be attempted, at least at this time.

TEXAS LED NEW YORK IN EXPORTS IN 1924

This State Second With $731,593,502—Total for Country $4,498,151,936.

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP).—Statistics announced today by the Department of Commerce show that during 1924 New York, with merchandise exports amounting to $731,593,502, dropped to second place, losing its lead to Texas, which totaled $737,218,927. The total export trade of the United States for the year was $4,498,151,936.

New York led in the first nine months but in the final three months Texas forged ahead to first place by a margin of about $6,000,000. Dr. Julius Klein, director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, under whose charge the figures were compiled, explained that this was the first time in the history of Government trade statistics that an attempt had been made to show the relative yearly standing of the States in foreign export trade.

Pennsylvania ran third with $263,290,133. Eleven of the fifty-two States and regions included in the tabulation showed an export trade of more than $100,000,000 each. Besides Texas, New York and Pennsylvania, they were Illinois, with $239,314,270; California, $234,684,210; New Jersey, $223,921,264; Louisiana, $222,847,224; Michigan, $177,876,654; Virginia, $150,198,225; Ohio, $133,550,362, and Massachusetts, $114,418,430.

Brief Halt on Cotton Exchange.

Three Companies Put 30,000 Shares of Interstate Power Preferred in Market.

A syndicate headed by Pynchon & Co. and including West & Co. and W. S. Hammons & Co. is making a new offering today of 30,000 shares of Interstate Power Company 7 per cent. preferred stock at a price of $98 per share and accrued dividends, to yield about 7.37 per cent. On the completion of this financing the company will have a total of 40,000 shares of 7 per cent. preferred stock outstanding.

The corporation supplies electric light and power to about 150 cities and communities in Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois and furnishes gas, steam heating and electric railway service to other States. The total population served is estimated at 338,000.

The management has interconnected its properties by high tension transmission lines and thus made available over practically the entire service area the electric energy produced at each generating station. To aid this program the present plant at Dubuque will be enlarged and a new superpower plant erected at Clinton, Iowa, where the Clinton Gas and Electric Company was recently acquired.

Gross earnings for the twelve months ended March 31 of the Interstate Power Company and owned and controlled companies were $3,727,865 and the net for the same period was $1,696,546. The earnings accruing to the Interstate Power Company after interest on funded debt and all other charges except Federal taxes were paid amounted to $760,732, or nearly two and two-thirds the annual dividend on the preferred stock, including the present issue.

A large part of the proceeds of the new financing will be expended for extending and perfecting the physical equipment of the company, particularly at the strategic points in the territory it serves.

RAILWAYS ASK HIGHER RATES FOR U. S. MAIL

Declare That the Amount Carried Has Greatly Increased Since the Tests of 1919.

The railroads feel that the present rates paid by the Government for the transportation of United States mail are too low and have applied for an increase. A committee of counsel representing the principal carriers of the country has filed a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission asking for an investigation of the present service performed with a view to ordering higher rates.

The present rates were fixed by the commission on Dec. 23, 1919, after Congress had given authority to fix mail rates by a law passed in 1916. Detailed statistics were compiled from a selected test period. Since then, the carriers assert in their petition, the average loadings of all units and the total weight of the mails has so increased that the rates are not fair. The present loading of storage units, they say, is twice that of the test period, upon which the existing rates are based, and the average loading of all units has increased at least two-thirds.

The substitution of the space basis of payment for the old weight basis, it is said, has enabled the Postoffice Department to greatly increase the amount of mail carried in a given space without giving the railroads more for it. It is also asserted that the roads are required to provide greatly increased trucking and handling service at the terminals.

The total volume of mails carried by the railroads has almost doubled since 1917, it is set forth, as indicated by the fact that postal revenues in that time have increased from $329,726,116 in 1917 to $572,948,778 in 1924, while the railway mail pay, adjusted to the Postoffice Department's fiscal year ending June 30, has increased from $74,165,246 in 1917 to $97,298,011 in 1924.

The commission is asked to order a weighing of the mail and to require that statistics be prepared by the Postoffice Department setting forth the present weights of mail being transported in the several units.

ITALIAN PRICE AVERAGE HAS BEEN DECLINING

An Italian review of the country's price situation shows that the index number of wholesale prices (based on averages for the years 1901-05) has registered a further slight decrease during the past month of April, passing from 830.9 in March to 829.2 in April. The decline has been specially noticeable for vegetable foodstuffs, chemicals and textiles, while there has been an advance in the index number for animal foodstuffs, sundry vegetable products, sundry industrial manufactures and building materials.

The wholesale index number of the Chamber of Commerce of Milan shows slightly different results, but the main tendency is practically the same as that shown by the Bachi figures. The general average index number of wholesale prices for April is reported to be 616.39, on the basis of the 1913 average equal to 100, as against 625.63 in March. The purchasing power of the lira has therefore increased from 15.98 in March, to 16.22 in April, or in other words 100 lire are worth today, in Italy, as far as prices are concerned, as much as 16.22 lire in 1913.

American Express Net Decreases.

The American Railway Express Company reports February gross of $21,137,674, compared to $21,900,002 for the same month the year before. Net income after express privileges, expenses, taxes, &c., was $313,126, against $362,490 for February, 1924.

ROCK ISLAND MERGER REPORT IS DENIED

Traffic Agreement Instead to Be Sought With Southern Pacific, Officials Says.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Reports that the Rock Island and the Southern Pacific Railway lines are arranging a merger were denied officially today.

Instead of a financial deal by which the Rock Island would be acquired or the two great railways joined, a traffic agreement is sought, it is declared. This, it was explained, would materially enhance the prosperity of both carriers and give the prosperous Santa Fe Railway, competitor of the Rock Island, a stiff race for revenues.

The traffic agreement is sought by President James E. Gorman of the Rock Island. The prospect of obtaining it is said to be brightened by the fact that the chief stumbling block, Julius Kruttschnitt, retired today as Chairman of the Board of the Southern Pacific system. L. J. Spence, Director of Traffic, was moved into the ocean shipping side of the Southern Pacific's business, and Mr. Gorman's brother-in-law, T. M. Schumacher, Executive Vice President, succeeded to complete direction of all Southern Pacific freight traffic.

"If the Southern Pacific gives the bulk of its traffic to the Rock Island, as the Clinton Gas and Electric Company was recently acquired.

Gross earnings for the twelve months ended March 31 of the Interstate Power Company and owned and controlled companies were $3,727,865 and the net for the same period was $1,696,546. The earnings accruing to the Interstate Power Company after interest on funded debt and all other charges except Federal taxes were paid amounted to $760,732, or nearly two and two-thirds the annual dividend on the preferred stock, including the present issue.

GOLD RESUMPTION AS ARRANGED IN HOLLAND

Bank May Prevent Gold Exports —Shipments Only to 'Free Gold Markets.'

A statement describing the precise nature of gold resumption as adopted in Holland is published in The London Economist. It emphasizes the fact that "no changes of importance will take place in this country. This principal difference is that heretofore the Netherlands Bank exclusively has decided when it wished to resort to gold exports, while now individuals also may be authorized to ship gold. The bank, however, has declared itself prepared to issue gold at the fixed price of florins per kilogram fine gold as long as they are able to do so, and as soon as the exchange rates abroad rise above the parity of the value of gold. As to foreign countries, only such will be considered as also have a free gold market.

It is, however, an open question if in practice gold exports by individuals or banks will be resorted to. The Netherlands Bank, through the possession of foreign bills and of balances abroad (on May 4 the bank possessed 152,400,000 florins in foreign bills, while under the heading of miscellaneous accounts, amounting to 70,100,000, a large amount of foreign balances is included), has it largely in its power in any case to keep the rates of exchange below the gold points. These, however, are conditions with which the practice of the trade in gold and foreign exchange has to take account.

"The principal thing is that now a period of unstable values in the foremost foreign currencies has officially been closed. Unofficially, this has taken place long ago, because the Netherlands Bank of late has maintained the guilder around parity with the dollar—which before the restoration of the gold standard was equal to gold parity. For this purpose gold had been exported long ago, as is shown from the circumstance that the gold supply on May 4 amounted to 479,400,000 florins, as against 740,200,000 florins as highest point on April 10, 1918.

"Gold has not yet been restored as a means of payment in this country itself, any more than it has in England. We, have, however, actually got the gold exchange standard, which, according to the definition of Mr. Vissering, the President of the Netherlands Bank, is a system by which gold is not current in the country itself, but by which the circulation consists exclusively of silver currency, currency notes, and banknotes; but with all fiduciary money founded on a nominal gold value, and the par value with regard to foreign countries guaranteed by placing gold values abroad available for payments against that fiduciary circulating medium.'

"The return to this system—that was practically also in vogue in this country before the war—may be looked upon as a step in the direction of the return to normal conditions. The only abnormal thing in our currency is the 19,200,000 florins in currency notes that are still in circulation. It would, however, already be possible to redeem these now, as the Netherlands Bank possesses more than 20,700,000 florins in silver currency."

STERLING AND HUNGARY.

Commenting on the fact, noticed in recent dispatches, that the rise of sterling has automatically brought the Hungarian crown to parity with the Austrian crown, the bulletin of the London foreign exchange house, Montagu & Co., recalls that at the end of April, 1924, the New York quotation for 10,000 Hungarian crowns was .12 cents while the same amount of Austrian crowns were quoted at 14⅛ cents. The Hungarian crown was pegged at the rate of 345,000 crowns to the pound sterling when the Hungarian National Bank was established last June, and the parity has been maintained ever since that time.

Securities Admitted to Curb.

The New York Curb Exchange has admitted the following securities to trading privileges: La Salle Extension University, 15,000 authorized shares 7 per cent. cumulative convertible preferred stock, par value $100, and 245,000 authorized shares common stock, par value $10; Kingdom of Norway, $30,000,000 principal amount forty-year 5½ per cent. sinking fund external loan gold bonds due June 1, 1965, on a "when, as and if issued" basis.

$5,000,000 A DAY PUT INTO THE UTILITIES

$611,000,000 IN 4 MONTHS

President of Gas Association Says Record Is Most Remarkable in Corporate Financing.

The American people in the first four months of 1925 invested their savings in the securities of public service companies "at the almost unbelievable rate of $5,000,000 a day, $212,000 an hour, or $3,500 a minute, Sundays and holidays included," according to a statement made public yesterday by the American Gas Association quoting H. C. Abell of New York, its President. The record was said to be perhaps the most remarkable in the history of corporate financing. Mr. Abell said:

"The most accurate data available shows that $611,000,000 of new money was obtained by the public service companies from the sale of securities to employes, customers and the general public from Jan. 1 to April 30, 1925. While the figures for the first four months of this year establish new high records," he said, "they do not tell the real story of the tremendous development which has been going on in our business to take care of an unprecedented demand from the American people for the essential services of light, heat, power, water, transportation and communication.

"A veritable flood of gold has been pouring continuously into the public utility business for the last two years. In 1924, for example, $1,325,000,000 was invested in gas and other public service company securities. This was at the rate of $3,600,000 a day. In 1923 the total was $876,000,000 or at the rate of $2,400,000 a day.

"In other words, for the brief period of twenty-eight months ended April 30 this year the huge total of $2,800,000,000 was invested in all branches of the public service industry by the thrifty men and women of America. To appreciate the immensity of this sum let me say that it represents the continuous flow of capital in our business at the rate of $137,000 an hour for 204,000 consecutive hours—a record which I believe is without a parallel in the history of our country. As these words are being read, the public is buying our securities at the rate of about $60 a second."

Mr. Abell said that this money had come from millions of Americans, a large percentage of them customers and employes of the companies themselves. Latest available statistics show that the public utility industry has about 5,200,000 security holders, divided about evenly between stockholders and bondholders. The banks and life insurance companies hold about $4,000,000,000 of utility securities, which makes all the insurance policy holders, bank stockholders and depositors throughout the country vitally interested in properly maintaining public necessities.

TERMINAL CO. SEEKS FUNDS

Cleveland Union Would Issue $15,000,000 Gold Bonds.

Information was received in Wall Street yesterday that application had been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Cleveland Union Terminal Company for authority to issue $15,000,000 first mortgage 5 per cent. fifty-year sinking fund gold bonds. It is expected that this issue will be offered by J. P. Morgan & Co.

There has been discussion for some time of an issue by the Terminal company, but it was believed that the offering would apply only to the work actually done on the new Cleveland terminal, which is now under construction. Previous estimates had placed the total cost of the improvement at between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000.

The New York Central, the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis and the Nickel Plate railroads would guarantee the issue. The bonds are to be sold at not less than 97 per cent. of par.

MAIL ORDER SALES GAIN.

Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward Trade Ahead of Last Year.

Sales by mail-order houses continue to run well ahead of those for the corresponding months last year. Two companies announced their figures yesterday.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. reports gross sales of $17,468,982 for May, against $16,318,121 last year, a gain of $1,150,861, or 7.1 per cent. For the first five months of 1925 the company reports gross sales of $102,147,358 against $90,979,029, a gain of $11,168,329, or 12.2 per cent.

Montgomery Ward & Co. reports gross sales of $12,059,534 for May against $11,085,679 last year, a gain of $973,855 or 8.78 per cent. For the five months ended May 31, the company reports gross sales of $67,994,815 against $62,686,303, an increase of $5,308,512, or 8.47 per cent.

To Issue $15,000,000 Terminal Bonds.

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP).—The Cleveland Union Terminal Company, which is constructing passenger facilities for Cleveland, sought permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission today to issue $15,000,000 in 5 per cent. bonds to finance a continuance of its work. The Nickel Plate and New York Central systems joined to guarantee the payment of interest and principal.

The Old Virtue Of Reliability

WHETHER you are buying an automobile or roofing or linoleum or investments, there is one quality you naturally seek most of all—reliability. Without this, you are purchasing a liability, not an asset.

The prime feature of Straus Bonds, which we never weary of emphasizing, is their reliability. They are always paid in cash, in full, on the day due, both principal and interest.

This is due to the care and thoroughness with which we investigate every proposed bond issue submitted to us. Our lending organization, we may state without fear of contradiction, is the largest, the most expert, the most thoroughly equipped, and most experienced of its kind.

When this organization accepts and purchases a bond issue for resale to the public, investors may know that the bonds are reliable.

We suggest that Straus Bonds, for safety, yield, market, and diversification, should form a goodly part of your investment holdings. They yield at present prices up to 6.15%. Investigate them. Call or write for

BUSINESS FAILURES DECREASED IN MAY

1,767, With $37,026,552 Debts, Reported by Dun, Smallest Since November.

DROP IS IN MANUFACTURING

400 Defaults With $18,183,856 in Liabilities, as Against 507 and $17,156,977 in May, 1924.

Business failures in the United States in May were fewer than in April and fewer than in May a year ago. They were also the smallest for any month since last November. According to compilation made by Dun's Review, there were 1,767 commercial failures last month, with liabilities of $37,026,552. These figures contrast with 1,859 defaults for $37,188,622 in April, and 1,816 in May 1924, involving $36,500,906.

The reduction in failures from April is 172, says the review, or nearly 10 per cent., whereas in both preceding years there was an increase. Little change appears as to the amount of indebtedness involved, the liabilities for May this year being slightly less than for April, and $435,647, or only about 1 per cent. larger than in May, 1924.

The reduction in the number of defaults in May was in manufacturing lines, as was the case in April and for recent preceding months. There were 400 manufacturing failures last month, with liabilities of $18,183,856, against 507 in May last year, involving $17,156,977 of indebtedness, and 1,256 trading defaults for $15,519,357 of liabilities, against 1,215 in May, 1924, for $15,346,028. There were 81 failures of agents and brokers owing $3,022,739, compared with 94 similar defaults in May last year for $3,457,905. The increase in the number of trading defaults in May over the preceding year, both as to number and indebtedness, was not as marked as it was in April. In addition to these commercial failures there were 39 bank failures, chiefly located in the West and South.

Monthly and quarterly reports of business failures, showing number and liabilities, are contrasted below for the periods mentioned:

EARNINGS IN APRIL BOON TO RAILROADS

The April earning reports have proved particularly interesting to railroad men this year, although that month ordinarily contributes a relatively small percentage of the season's traffic. This year, however, early reports from Southwestern carriers showed heavy declines from last year, which, coupled with the slight depression in the Northwest, gave rise to a feeling of pessimism.

Later the Southern and Northeastern roads began reporting substantial increases over April of 1924, which evened up the losses in the Southwest and placed the total net operating income reported to date at about the figure for last year.

Although the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific have shown a decline in traffic railroad men do not feel that there is any reason to worry about the future earning power of these roads. It is often remarked that they serve a territory with the greatest possibilities of expansion of any in the country.

Just now, however, the boom in the South appears to be detracting a fair share of the passenger and freight traffic which of recent years has been going to California. The traffic of the Southern Railway in particular seems to be bounding along at an unusual rate of increase. Some idea of the showing made in April by the Southern may be gained from the following comparison of its net operating income in April, 1924 and 1925, with that of six leading railroads:

Southern Pacific	1,617,000	3,632,000	2,015,000
Union Pacific	1,314,000	1,780,000	466,000
Atchison	1,250,000	1,497,000	247,000
Illinois Central	1,834,000	2,061,000	227,000
New York Cent.	5,216,000	4,994,000	*222,000
Pennsylvania	6,817,000	7,116,000	300,000

*Increase.

The New York Central, the only other road in the group to report an increase, does so in both gross and net for the first time this year. The net was the largest since December and exceeded that of last November, which is ordinarily a good month for all the carriers. It exceeded the April net of 1924 by 4 per cent.

The gain in the Central's gross was small—$192,000, or 6 per cent.—but it compares with decreases of $2,678,700, or 8 per cent. in March and $1,959,300, or 6.5 per cent. in February. As last year's gross showed no seasonal gain between March and September, it may be expected that the road's gross for the next few months will remain above the 1924 figures and that net operating income will show a corresponding gain.

The $500,000 drop in net sustained by the Pennsylvania was largely due to an increase in operating expenses, mostly to the amounts spent on the maintenance of way account. Transportation expenses of $19,520,634 showed a decrease of $788,447, notwithstanding that gross revenues ran ahead of April, 1925, by $48,394. All of this saving and much more was put back into the property, with the result that the maintenance of way and structures outlay increased from $1,532,613 to $4,737,069. Car loadings on the Pennsylvania had been averaging about 10,000 more a week in May than they did in April, which indicates that there is no cause for anxiety regarding the Pennsylvania.

Of almost equal brilliancy with the showing of the Southern roads is that of the carriers in the Northeast. L. F. Loree, President of the Delaware & Hudson, predicted recently that two sections of the country would show prosperity during 1925. It was not generally understood at the time that he associated the Northeast with the South. The April car loadings of the strictly Northeastern roads, however, made clear that he had in mind the section in which his own road operates. Earning statements of the Reading, Lackawanna, Lehigh Valley, New Haven and Delaware & Hudson have clinched the prophecy.

The Lackawanna and Reading showed gains of 25 and 35 per cent., respectively, in net operating income; the Lehigh Valley registered a very substantial gain, while the Delaware & Hudson and New Haven report great improvement over last year. The Jersey Central is also continuing its remarkable earning record.

The explanation is thought to lie in the large amount of coal in storage. This time last year consumers had ordered much more coal than they have now. Consequently it is thought that what coal has not been carried must be taken care of during the Summer and early Fall months.

MANUFACTURERS TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK, Trustee

Property: The 18-20 East Forty-first Street Building is one of the best located office buildings in New York City; situated in the heart of the shopping, hotel, club and up-town financial districts, a few steps from the main entrance to the Public Library, two blocks from Grand Central Terminal, Biltmore and Belmont Hotels and one block from 42nd St. and 5th Ave., said to be the "busiest corner in the world."

The Building, twenty stories and basement, constructed of steel and concrete with stone and white terra cotta exterior, occupies approximately 5,000 square feet of land, was completed in 1914, and contains a net rentable area of 69,217 square feet, 100% of which is leased to sixty-five tenants representative of over twenty-five different professional and business activities.

The interior is so arranged that every rental unit has the benefit of outside light. Through the control of the low building and land immediately adjoining on the east, leased under very favorable terms, this advantage of outside light will be maintained.

Security: This Loan will be secured by first mortgage on the land and building at 18-20 East Forty-first Street, owned in fee simple, valued, according to two recent independent appraisals, at $1,625,000 and $1,800,000 respectively. Policies of the Title Guarantee & Trust Co., New York, guaranteeing the validity of the title to the property and of responsible insurance companies for ample fire insurance on the Building will be deposited with, and made payable to, the Trustee for the benefit of the holders of these securities.

Legal for Trust Funds: Based upon the above appraisals, this Loan, in the opinion of counsel, will be legal for the investment of trust funds under the laws of the State of New York, upon the issue of the Loan as planned.

Earnings: Leases now in force, less operating expenses and taxes for the year ended April 30, 1925, show net income applicable to principal and interest on this Loan of $135,790.34, or approximately twice the maximum annual interest charges.

Sinking Fund: The mortgage will provide for deposits with the Trustee of $72,000 annually in quarterly installments, commencing September 1, 1925, for the payment of interest, and of $97,000 annually in quarterly installments commencing June 1, 1927, for the payment of interest and the reduction of principal. Securities shall be called for this sinking fund at prices as above noted if not purchasable in the open market at or below these figures.

This Sinking Fund will, it is estimated, reduce the amount of the Loan approximately $500,000 by maturity.

These securities are offered when, as and if issued, and received by us subject to the approval of counsel. Legal matters in connection with this Mortgage Loan are under the supervision of Messrs. Noble, Morgan & Seammell.

ADAIR protected BONDS

The Ultimate Degree of Safety

—bonds which can be insured against loss at the option of the investor

SOMETIMES an improvement over old methods so exactly fulfills a need and is so absolutely right that you wonder why it has never before been accomplished.

It is not surprising, then, that when the Adair Realty & Trust Company offered first mortgage bonds so safeguarded as to qualify them for insurance against loss, at the investor's option, by one of the strongest insurance companies in the United States, the investing public immediately began to absorb these bonds faster than they could be offered.

Today, the demand for Adair Protected Bonds so exceeds the supply that investors can usually obtain them only by making advance reservations for future offerings.

The only investment of its kind obtainable.

Undoubtedly there will be other insured or guaranteed bonds offered in the future and, though we feel that investments offering guarantees similar to or approaching that of Adair Protected Bonds will have made a great step forward, we know of no first mortgage bond on the market today of a similar character—where the investor has the option of purchasing the identical bond, either with or without the insurance and further has the privilege of discontinuing the insurance at any time and converting his investment to a higher yield.

WHEAT DROPS EARLY, RECOVERS A LITTLE

BULLISH REPORT UNHEEDED

Corn Goes Down on Heavy Selling —Rye and Oats Also Close Lower.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Despite a bullish crop report by Cromwell, the wheat market broke 5@5¾ cents after an early bulge due to pressure from a local operator and unloading by many of the pit elements, and the close was at net losses of 2¼@2¾ cents, with September leading.

A Winter wheat crop of 413,000,000 bushels, or 35,000,000 bushels less than the Government May figures, was shown by the Cromwell report, while the Spring wheat yield is estimated at 250,000,000 bushels, a total for the country of 663,000,000 bushels, or 210,000,000 bushels less than harvested last year.

Acreage of Spring wheat is 20,465,000, compared with 17,771,000 last year. Condition of Winter wheat is 66.6, against 77 by the Government a month ago, while Spring wheat is 90.8 against 82.3 last year. Cromwell says the recent cold damaged the Winter crop in sections of North and Central Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. A rye crop of 57,000,000 bushels was shown by Cromwell, compared with 58,700,000 by the Government in May and 63,000,000 bushels harvested last year, while the indicated oats crop is 1,391,000,000 bushels against 1,542,000,000 bushels harvested last year. Oats acreage is 45,848,000, an increase of 8 per cent.

The wheat estimates suggest an exportable surplus from the 1925 crop of around 50,000,000 bushels, the smallest in many years.

A decrease of 2,205,000 bushels in the visible supply brought the total down to 34,968,000 bushels, against 37,173,000 bushels the previous week and 43,111,000 bushels last year.

Primary arrivals for the day were 1,647,000 bushels; week ago, 1,249,000; last year, 1,055,000. Shipments were 875,000 bushels; week ago, 1,231,000; last year, 913,000.

Heavy selling of September corn headed by a local commission house was largely responsible for a break in that grain with the close 2⅝@2¾ cents lower. Houses with Western connections were good buyers, but the pressure was too great to hold the early advance and the finish was about the bottom. Spot basis was 1¼@1 cent lower, as compared with July, with receipts of 670 cars.

Primary points had 1,068,000 bushels for the day; week ago, 1,034,000; last year, 1,587,000, and shipments, 642,000 bushels; week ago, 576,000; last year, 506,000.

The visible supply decreased 243,000 bushels for the week and is 17,140,000 bushels, against 17,383,000 bushels the previous week and 12,238,000 last year.

Oats closed ⅛@¼ lower and rye was off 2¼@2½ cents in sympathy with other grains. Crop damage reports were received from the Dakotas and Minnesota.

CONDITION GUESSES PUT COTTON LOWER

Prices Fluctuate Narrowly and End Day at a Decline of 2 to 6 Points.

MAKE STATE OF CROP 74.6%

This Is the Average Estimate of 81 Members of Cotton Exchange—U. S. Report Due Today.

Cotton fluctuated within limits of 15 points yesterday and ended the day at a decline of 2 to 6 points. The average guess of eighty-one members of the Exchange on the first report of the season to be issued by the Department of Agriculture at 12 o'clock today was 74.6. As a result of conditions in drought sections of Texas, there has been considerable diversions of opinion over the average figure to be assigned to that State. The Texas condition has been placed all the way from 68 to above 78 by the various agencies and one firm in dividing the State, gives North Texas 84, Central 72 and the southern portion only 54. The best and poorest portions of the entire belt are reported within the confines of this one State. A New Orleans newspaper placed the condition at 74.6, while a local commercial publication gave 73. The first bale of new cotton was reported at Houston, compared with June 26 last year.

Reports of rain at points in south and southwest Texas, where virtually no moisture had been received for several months with the warmest weather of the season over Sunday, caused an opening loss of a few points. The amount of cotton changing hands on the call proved the smallest in some time and business throughout the session was confined largely to a routine character. As compared with the local market New Orleans ruled not far from Friday's closing quotations during early trading and later in the session the list recovered all initial loss in prices. The holiday at Liverpool deprived the market of operation from that quarter and even professional trading reduced their interest waiting for the Washington report. Exports of over 47,000 bales for two days compared with 59,000 for the entire week last year and reports from spot circles of the difficulty experienced in securing good staple cotton had a steadying influence on the market. A further loss occurred in the local stock, with the amount of certificated cotton here now 135,000 bales. Scattered liquidation in the July position from time to time tended to reduce the premium over October, and July at one time sold 45 points over that month.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Sharp Decline in Cash Grains on Heaviness in Future Markets —Cotton Lower.

Cash grains tumbled sharply yesterday as a result of the heavy liquidation in the contract grades on a rainfall over the crop belt. Wheat, corn, oats and flour all showed substantial reaction from last Friday's prices. Spot cotton also dipped, yielding 10 points to 23.65 cents. Butter and lard scored moderate improvement, but groceries, other provisions and metals were firm and unchanged.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Holiday Abroad Restricts Business Here—Rates Barely Move —Sterling Firm, Continentals Irregular.

Business in the foreign exchanges was at a standstill yesterday, observance of the Whitsuntide holiday in London and Continental Europe restricting trading here to a very small scale. The movement of rates, therefore, was narrow and changes from Friday's finals unimportant.

Sterling moved over a range of ½ cent, finishing at $4.86, for a gain of ¼ cent. Dealers said there was good support for spot sterling, but future sterling was sold in fairly large amounts. French francs dropped a point to 5.00¾ cents, after having been up to 5.02 in the preliminary trading. Belgian francs sagged ¾ point, to 4.89½ cents, a year's low. Italian exchange was another weak feature, lire easing 2¾ points to 3.96 cents, and matching the year's low touched a week ago. Swiss, Holland, Spanish and the Scandinavians hardly moved.

Easterns were firm, except for the Japanese yen, which dropped ¼ cent to 41.50 cents, speculative selling by the Chinese accounting for the break. South Americans were dull and unchanged.

TANAKA TO FIGHT KATO ON BUDGET THIS MONTH

It Will Be New Japanese Leader's First Chance to Seek Overthrow of the Cabinet.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, June 1.—The fall of the Kato Cabinet, it is expected by many political observers today, will be precipitated by General Baron Tanaka's party, the Seiyukai, when the budget for the next fiscal year comes up for consideration this month.

The breach which has been growing between the coalition parties was made wider by the assumption of the Presidency of the Seiyukai by Tanaka, and still wider two days ago by the independent action of Premier Kato in appointing Kenzo Adachi, Kato's right hand man in the Kenseikai, to the post of Minister of Communications in succession to Kisnukai, fromer President of the Kakusmin Club, which was recently amalgamated with the Weiyukia.

Inasmuch as the Inukai had become a member of the coalition, it was expected that the post would go to another member of that party, but Viscount Kato unexpectedly appointed Adachi and inducted him into office hurriedly without consulting his Seiyukai colleagues.

The budget will give the Seiyukai its first good opportunity for blocking Kenseikai politics, and many expect Tanaka to try to disrupt the Cabinet.

Baron Tanaka is continuing his efforts to bring the Seiyuhonto, which broke away from the Seiyukai some months ago, back into his party. Takejire Tokonome, President of the Seiyuhontos, is prominently mentioned as probably the next Premier, but, being a much younger man, he might step aside for Tanaka.

Reconciliation between Tokonem and Tanaka would give them an absolute majority in the Diet. It is freely predicted today that the Kato Cabinet will fall when the Diet opens in December, and perhaps before.

To Inspect Delaware & Hudson.

Directors of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad will leave on Thursday for an inspection trip of the company's coal properties, preparatory to segregating the coal companies from the railroad. Leonor F. Loree, President of the road, will lead the delegation, which will leave the Pennsylvania Station and go as far as Wilkes-Barre on the Lehigh Valley.

$50,000 TO SALVATIONISTS.

Laura Spelman Rockefeller Fund Helps Home Service Campaign.

The Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial Fund has contributed $50,000 to the 1925 Home Service Campaign of the Salvation Army. It was announced yesterday by David H. Knott, General Chairman of the Citizens' Committee in charge of the army's campaign. The gift, which was tendered without restrictions, is the largest individual contribution that the Home Service Campaign has thus far received. The largest previous donation had been the $30,000 gift of Edwin Gould.

The goal of the campaign is $522,000, and the Rockefeller gift brought the total received up to $317,000.

Fall Season Opening Up.

A growing number of cost and suit salesmen are now on the road with early Fall lines. Some buying has already been done, but it will be a little while yet before the manufacturing trade here is able to get a "definite line on the probable policy of retailers. The bulk of the business of the stores, in any event, will be booked in the local showrooms, and the main influx of buyers is not expected until after the July 4 holiday. Some of the important style lines have yet to open, but it is figured that most of these will be ready within the next two weeks. Ensembles are now confined to the higher grade lines, with separate coats, either of the dressy or mannish variety, and tailored suits are featured in the medium priced category.

A Boon for Parents.

Something new in the way of a boon for parents is now being introduced in this country by a concern which imports novelties from abroad. It is a vacuum bottle so made that it can be fitted with a nipple and used as a feeding bottle for infants. As with bottle of this kind that are meant for other purposes, the contents will keep hot or cold for twenty-four hours, and any father who has "dug out" of bed on a Winter's night to warm milk will appreciate the value of the thing. It is a nickel-plated device in which the glass container—it holds eight ounces—can be changed at will, and wholesales at $24 a dozen.

No Reduction on Fall Clothing.

One of the large Rochester manufacturers of men's clothing has felt called upon to advise his customers that as far as Fall clothing prices are concerned there is no chance of any reduction. "Since our purchasing for the Fall season," this clothing firm says, "no reputable mill has offered us any merchandise at any prices that would indicate that it was able to produce fabrics cheaper than at the prices we originally purchased. We had left ourselves open at take advantage should there be any such offerings, but as yet we have not been able to find any. We can assure our customers that their purchases can be placed with the utmost confidence that they are buying merchandise at the right price and that they need have no fear there will be anything like a break in the market. From present indications, we would say that prices for next Spring would be somewhat lower, but even this condition may change, depending upon the condition of the retail business as reflected to the manufacturer and to the woolen mills."

Gray Goods Buyers Waiting.

With buyers and sellers of gray goods waiting in this market yesterday for today's report on the condition of the cotton crop, no great volume of merchandise was moved. Some trading was done, however, and in the printcloths it took the form of spot deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s at 9¾ cents. Sizeable bids of 9¾ cents for the goods for prompt shipment were reported to have been refused. Twelve cents was paid in a small way for 39-inch 80-squares. Quick deliveries of 36-inch 56-60, 4-yard sheetings were sold at 9¾ cents. Other sheetings disposed of during the day included 36-inch 5 yards at 7⅛ cents, 5.50s at 7⅛ cents and 6.15s (44-40s) at 6½ cents. The rest of the market was lifeless.

Good Outlook for Balbriggans.

Knitted garments of balbriggan jersey continue to have a strong run of popularity. The belief is held that the Fall outlook for this type of apparel is very good. Commenting on this, John Dettens, one of the executives of Gera Mills and Keystone Mills, pointed out that the possibilities of these fabrics are by no means exhausted by the popularity they have enjoyed during the Spring. He added that balbriggans had been featured earlier in the year by some of the best-known couturieres of Paris, and it was only due to the lateness of the Spring was concerned that their favor had not been evidenced earlier here. Pure worsted yarns are featured in the best balbriggans, the most popular colors being natural, jade, orchid, shell pink, light blue and royal blue.

Furniture Trade Is Quiet.

The furniture trade is looking ahead to a rather quiet Summer. Practically no developments of importance have occurred since the recent holding of the Fall show here. Buyers operated cautiously at that event, although the attendance was about up to expectations. Prices continue firm at wholesale. Both manufacturers and retailers' stocks are credited with being a little larger than they would like to see them. Forward production is being done with care, in order to hold the market to a stable condition. Mohair suites continue to lead in the higher grade parlor sets, while walnut wood dominates in both dining and bedroom furniture, the darker shade being preferred in the former. The next show will be held in this city from Oct. 19 to 31.

Increasing Use of Brand Names.

The use of brand names by department stores to identify their own merchandise in the consumer mind is greatly on the increase. This is the case not only with regard to upstairs lines, but basement goods as well. One of the large Boston stores, for example, is now seeking a brand name for many lines of merchandise it carries in its low-priced basement department. It has already adopted a name for some of the lines in its upstairs division. The store is staging a contest, with $50 as the prize, for the best name submitted by any of its employes. The brand name, to be effective, it is pointed out, must be short, must be significant, must compel interest and, finally, must be original.

Weather Aids Underwear Demand.

The hot weather of yesterday was of material benefit to the local underwear trade inasmuch as it produced considerable house demand for nainsook union suits of the athletic type. Most of the buying from concerns which sell to the jobbers was reported to have been done by the smaller wholesalers in the metropolitan territory. Buying of light-weight ribbed goods was apparently not so active, although an interesting feature of it was said in one quarter of the trade to be the call for women's garments of this kind, especially vests. Mail business was hardly more than fair.

Now Comes the Jeweled Anklet.

The jeweled anklet that has become so popular with women of fashion in Central and Western Europe is now making its appearance in this country. It is so made as to permit crossing above and around the ankle and draping over the sandal. In the higher-priced lines it is made of platinum and white gold and is set with large emeralds, amethysts and aquamarines, encrusted with diamonds. In the cheaper goods metals and gems more within the reach of the average woman's spending ability are used. New and novel garter buckles, for wear below the knee, are also being offered to the trade. The more elaborate of these show a minimum of elastic and a maximum of ornamentation, the latest being made with an invisible snap to hold them in place.

Are Sold Far Ahead on Hose.

Although those manufacturers of full-fashioned hose for women who sell direct to the retail trade have not sold their production any further ahead than the demands made on them by the retailers have required, mills which make the goods for distribution through jobbing channels are in some instances covered with orders that will absorb production up to Thanksgiving. With many mills of this class the only thing that prevents the selling of more goods is the inability to make and ship them for the deliveries wanted. Despite the pressure for goods and their general scarcity, it was said yesterday that actual price advances have not been many. This is due to the fact that set retail selling prices, which arbitrarily establish the figures the jobbers can pay, have prevented them. However, there has been a lessening of quality by way of compensation. In some cases this was said yesterday to have taken the form of shortening the silk "boot" of the hose a couple of inches.

GRAND JURY INDICTS J. R. WAIST COMPANY

The Federal Grand Jury returned indictments yesterday against the J. R. Waist and Dress Company, Inc., on a charge of concealing assets in a bankruptcy proceeding and charged the following with aiding and abetting in the concealment: Jacob, Henry, Sol and Sarah Rechtschaffer; Morris B. Isaacsky, Max Buchman, Irving Levine and the Elite Textile Mills, Inc. One of the four indictments charges the Baby Fair Coat Company, a subsidiary of the Elite Textile Mills, also a bankrupt concern, with being a party to the alleged conspiracy.

United States Attorney Buckner and his assistant, Jac M. Wolfe, said that several months before the petitions in bankruptcy were filed, the individual defendants had planned for the shipment of goods to the Bankrupt concerns for which there was to be no book record, so that the cash received for them would not have to be recorded. Another method of defrauding creditors, it was said, was to issue bills of pretended sales to the bankrupts and to make checks in payment of these fictitious debts. A third plan was for the Elite Mills to present proofs of claims on fictitious sales which would purport to show an indebtedness due the Elite Mills, although no consideration passed.

The J. R. Waist and Dress Company went into bankruptcy on Dec. 30 and the Baby Fair Coat Company followed it into bankruptcy on Jan. 8. The loss to the creditors was said to amount to about $150,000. Jacob, Henry and Sol Rechtschaffer, members of both concerns, were indicted some time ago on a charge of concealing assets. On the advice of their counsel, Abraham I. Menin, they consented to disclose all they knew, which led to the present indictments.

WON'T HALT GARBAGE PLANT

Supreme Court Justice Guy denied yesterday without an opinion the application by John A. McCarthy, as a taxpayer, for an injunction to restrain William Wirt Mills, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, from proceeding with bids for the erection of a garbage incinerating plant on the marginal street along East River, east of Tompkins Street and between Rivington and Stanton Streets.

Mr. McCarthy sued on the ground that the use of city money to build the incinerating plant would be a waste of city funds, because the law provides that such property can be used only for docks or other commercial improvements. The city authorities contended that Commissioner Mills has power to erect the plant in question.

Mr. Mills in an affidavit said that the law directs the Dock Commissioner to set aside vacant and unused city land similar to the property in question for purposes of the Street Cleaning Department. He pointed out that the garbage removal problem has been a vexing question for a long time, and that the Street Cleaning Department desired to end the old method of disposal of the refuse by hauling it out to sea and dumping it in deep water.

He said that plants similar to the one projected for Tompkins Street have been erected at Fifty-sixth Street and Twelfth Avenue and 138th Street and Fifth Avenue. He said the plan was, under advice of the engineering department, to put the incinerators far enough from the residential districts so that the least ideal objection might be raised.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Edward Isaacs has been engaged as coat and suit buyer for the stores represented by the Research Alliance, Inc., 141 West Thirty-sixth Street, several of which have recently been added. Mr. Isaacs has been associated with the ready-to-wear trade, wholesale and retail, for sixteen years.

Miss G. Schoenman, who for a number of years was in charge of the converting department of Denser & Nathan, Inc., of this city, has resigned. Her resignation takes effect at once.

Sterngold Bros., 493 Seventh Avenue, have taken over the stock formerly conducted under the name of William Avedon. With the exception of the discontinuance of the Avedon name, the business will be conducted as heretofore.

Elias P. Herbert, for twelve years the directing head of Fearlman & Herbert, has withdrawn from that concern. He is now forming a new organization of his own for the production of a general line of dresses.

Arrangements have been made whereby Glaubinger, Greenberg & Klein, manufacturers' agents, 96 Madison Avenue, became the sole agents yesterday for the Mandarin Silk Company of Phillipsburg, N. J. They will continue as sole agents for the Breen Silk Company.

Announcement was made yesterday by Converse & Co. that the price of "Fruit of the Loom" 4-4 bleached muslins would be 19 cents for delivery during June, July and August. This price has been in effect for some time.

SOLD BY J. H. & C. K. EAGLE

Merchants Take Long-Term Lease in the Building—Thirty-ninth Street Investment.

Frederick Brown, the operator, went into the silk district yesterday after a long absence from trading in that vicinity and purchased the twenty-story Eagle Building at the southeast corner of Fourth Avenue and Twenty-first Street.

The property, one of the finest buildings in the section, was sold by the Eagle Investment Corporation, representing J. H. and C. K. Eagle, silk merchants, who erected the structure about ten years ago from plans by Warren & Wetmore, architects. Sale of the building does not, however, mean the removal of the Eagle firm from the downtown district, as they have arranged with Mr. Brown for a long-term lease in the building they have just sold. As a result of the lease the silk merchants will have the store, basement and second floor which they now occupy for their own occupancy.

The structure fronts 115 feet on Fourth Avenue and 90 feet on Twenty-first Street and has an annual rental of $300,000. This is Mr. Brown's first purchase in the silk district since he purchased the Mills & Gibb Building at the northwest corner of Fourth Avenue and Twenty-second Street and resold it to E. J. Bowes for investment.

In the sale of the Eagle Building yesterday Byrne & Bowman and Beatine & Co. were the brokers.

The Interstate Landholding Company sold to an out-of-town client of Hewson, Wolfe & Co. the twelve-story building, 75 by 100 feet, 225 to 229 West Thirty-ninth Street. The property is tied up with a twenty-one-year lease to the American Press Association, and will be held by the buyer as an investment until the present lease expires. The brokers in the sale were Cross & Brown Company.

Meister Builders, Inc., operators, purchased from the Oskar Realty Corporation the six-story apartment building at 614 West 152d Street. The structure accommodates fifty-four families and rents for $55,000. It was held at $400,000.

The plot measures 100 by 100 feet. N. Rattner was the broker in the transaction.

Philip L. Goodwin, architect, sold to Adolph and Aaron Weiss, the five-story modern apartment occupying the entire block front on the east side of Bedford Street, between Commerce and Barrow Streets, and known as 76-80 Bedford Street, 37 Commerce Street and 35 Barrow Street. Albert B. Ashforth, Inc., were the brokers in the sale.

This building contains thirty apartments and was built about five years ago by Mr. Goodwin, who incorporated many special features in the construction. This is the first sale of the property since the new building was erected. The house will be held by the purchaser as an investment.

The five-story apartment on a plot, 40 by 102.2 feet at 175 East Seventy-ninth Street, was sold by Hulbert & Huberth, as agents, through Douglas L. Elliman & Co. to a client for investment. It was held at $150,000.

Other Multi-Family House Improvements

The Athenia Realty Corporation, Paul A. McGolrick, President, sold to Nat Gilbert, an investor, a five-story flat at 11 West 114th Street, with a rental of $6,500; held at $39,000. Max Liebesknd, Inc., as brokers, negotiated the sale.

Solomon Ginsburg, operator, resold to an investor premises 228 East Fortieth Street which he had recently bought. This is a six-story, twenty-two family building.

Andresen & Bremer in conjunction with Henry Struckhausen sold to an investing client the five-story triple flat, with two stores, 1,778 Second Avenue, on a plot 25 by 100 feet, adjoining the southeast corner of Ninety-third Street.

Joseph Oatman sold to a client, Neuhorn & Co., the property 725-727 Ninth Avenue, 36 by 80.6 feet for John W. Foster. The property was held at $160,000. The property has been in the seller's family for sixty years.

A. & S. Hermann sold for the Sigley Realty Company to the Thelias Realty Corporation, Charles Levy, President, 439 Columbus Avenue, near Eighty-second Street, a five-story flat with one double store, 25x100.

The five-story tenement at 971 Columbus Avenue, on a plot 25 by 100 feet, was purchased by the Thelias Realty Corporation, Charles Levy, President, from H. K. Wallack. It was held at $75,000. A. & S. Hermann were the brokers.

$800,000 OPERATION FOR WEST SIDE SITE

A nine-story elevator apartment house, representing an investment of $800,000, will be erected on Seventy-eighth Street, between Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue, the plot for the project being assembled yesterday by Henry A. Blumenthal.

Mr. Blumenthal assembled a site on the north side of the street, 52 by 102 feet, improved with four private houses. The house at 211 he bought from Julia J. Baggs, 213 from Isaiah Honigman, 215 from Lena R. Whitehead and 217 from William H. and Flora Friedman. The broker in the deal was Leonard Markels.

PRIVATE HOUSE SALES.

Islebrook Estates Buy East Sixty-eighth Street Altered Dwelling.

George J. Mercer & Son sold to a client the three-story and basement dwelling, 332 West Eighteenth Street, on a lot 20 by 92 feet.

John J. Meenan, Inc., resold for the Athenia Realty Corporation the four-story and basement dwelling, 20 by 100 feet, at 9 West Ninetieth Street, to Francis Reilly.

Cooperative Sale.

Ladd & Nichols have sold for Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co. a large apartment of fourteen rooms and four baths in the new 100 per cent cooperative building being erected by Starrett Brothers at 808 Park Avenue, northwest corner of Seventy-fourth Street, to Henry C. Martin.

Seek New Construction Record In Millinery Centre Building

An attempt to break building construction records on Manhattan Island will be made on the northeast corner of Sixth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street, where Louis Adler and A. N. Adelson are about to erect a twenty-four-story building designed especially for the millinery trade.

Possession of the plot 100 feet square was obtained May 1 and since that time the seven old structures on the site have been demolished and the excavation about completed by the Foundation Company of America.

This company has agreed to start the erection of the steel on June 15 and have at least sixteen stories up by July 15.

An extra large force of men will be put on the entire job, which will be rushed toward early completion in the Fall.

Manhattan's Changing Streets and Avenues

FORTY-SECOND STREET is called the crossroads of the universe—the street where ultimately you meet everyone from everywhere. Certainly 42d St., East and West of Fifth Avenue, is the "hub" of New York's transit and suburban Railroad Systems and will be for many years.

Forty-Second Street has two distinct "hubs,"—one at Times Square and one at Grand Central, where the Lexington Ave. subway, Queensboro subway, and the crosstown connecting shuttle all converge.

A result of the concentration of urban and suburban transit at 42d St. is the terrific congestion of vehicular and pedestrian traffic, the development of an 18-hour a day business district, and the establishment of values second only to Fifth Avenue.

The removal of the spur of the elevated railway from Park Ave. to 3d Ave. was of greatest benefit to East 42d St. Property values responded and Lexington Ave. building sites became in demand. There should be some improvement in traffic when the extension of the Queensboro subway to 8th Ave. is completed, but this relief will be partly offset by the ever increasing office building population of the Terminal Zone.

Forty-Second Street, at Eight Ave., is the centre of the building movement which is anticipating the construction of the proposed, new Eighth Ave. subway.

An even more interesting Forty-Second Street movement may be expected if the 6th Avenue "L" is replaced with a subway. A forerunner is the announcement of mercantile buildings for Sixth Ave., south of 42d St., for theatres between 50th and 54th St., and for new hotels and apartments between 53d St. and Central Park where the "L" has been removed. Forty-Second Street has had an amazing growth; the future seemingly is to be marked by even greater developments.

Superlatives Can Add Nothing To The Beauty and Charm Of

The Towers

ONLY a personal inspection can convey a fitting picture of the comfort, beauty of surroundings, architectural character and the atmosphere of distinction that surrounds The Towers, "the finest apartments in the world".

To say that The Towers is an architecturally fine group of fire-proof, detached, elevator, Garden Apartment buildings, in a great garden, 500 feet long, means nothing until you see these finer city homes. The fact that the windows of The Towers look down on this great garden, and wide parked streets, conveys little until you stand in those windows and compare the glorious, restful, open sunlight outlook with what the usual city apartment of even the highest type has to offer.

We invite you to see The Towers at Jackson Heights. It will be a revelation in what foremost home designers have created. The fact that these finer homes offer you a social and personal environment based on sane restrictions, with fine schools and playgrounds, splendid churches, and exceptional recreational facilities, is not the least desirable feature of life in this desirable residential section of New York City.

The new, fireproof, detached, elevator, Garden Apartments in The Towers are of 6 and 7 Rooms and 3 Baths. They may be purchased on the Jackson Heights Plan of 100% Cooperative Apartment Ownership. Liberal Terms arranged.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The Northwestern disturbance has increased slowly in intensity and it is now central over Eastern North Dakota. Fresh winds also quite low over the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions and the Canadian Maritime Provinces and it is relatively higher over Northern Ontario and Northern Quebec and from the South Atlantic States eastward to Bermuda.

There have been local showers or thunderstorms within the last twenty-four hours in New England, New York, the northern lake region, the Missouri and upper Mississippi Valleys, the Plains States, the Rocky Mountain region, the central and northern plateau States and in the Pacific States from Central California northward.

The temperature has continued to rise in the Middle Atlantic States, and the Ohio Valley, and is now considerably above normal in middle and southern sections east of the Rocky Mountains. There has been a change to cooler weather in the northern lake region, the Upper Mississippi Valleys and the Central and Northern Plains States.

The indications are for mostly fair weather Tuesday and Wednesday in the Washington forecast district. Local thunder showers are probable, however, on Wednesday in the Ohio Valley and the lower lake region. The temperature will not change materially east of the Mississippi River during the next two days.

FIFTH AND GOTHAM NATIONAL BANKS NOW UNITS IN MANUFACTURERS TRUST COMPANY SYSTEM

UNIT BANKING

As Created and Developed by the Manufacturers Trust Company

What It Is — How It Works

The Manufacturers Trust Company has fifteen unit offices in Greater New York.

Each office is a complete, separate unit—practically an independent bank.

Each unit office is equipped for complete banking, trust, and investment service, not depending upon the Principal Office for any of these services except in an advisory way.

Each unit office has its own directing officers who have full power to make decisions promptly and finally.

Each unit office is backed by its own strength and the resources of the entire institution, approximately $220,000,000.

Mergers That Make Better, Stronger Banks

Twelve of these offices were acquired in mergers which, contrary to the usual results in absorptions, gave the districts served by these banks complete unit offices with added strength and facilities instead of just branch banks with most of their services transferred to main offices.

De-centralization into strong units—not centralization—is the policy of unit banking. As a result, every merger into the Manufacturers Trust Company "adds to" instead of "takes from" a district. It gives a neighborhood every service which an absorbed bank previously gave, then adds other services which individual banks of smaller resources can not perform and which branch banks usually do not perform.

Proof that districts served by these merged unit offices appreciate and welcome such increased facilities is shown by the progress of the twelve merged banks. Each has grown far larger since absorption, one quadrupling deposits in the seven years it has been a unit in the Manufacturers Trust Company.

Every Unit Office Makes Its Own Loans

When you apply for a line of credit at any office of the Manufacturers Trust Company, your application is acted upon promptly at that office.

The unit system plan works this way: An office may have a number of trained loaning officers, each with a different limit on the amount of the bank's funds he can lend. For instance, a junior loaning officer (depending upon his experience), without consultation with any other officer, can lend up to a certain amount. Another more experienced officer can lend a larger amount. The senior officer in charge of the office can lend still more. If a combination of two or three officers agree that an even larger loan is justified, they can make it, within fixed limits—without reference to any other office of the company.

Under the unit system, a decision on a loan may be obtained promptly at the office where you bank and where you are best known.

Each Office Complete Unit In System

As in loans, so in all commercial banking matters, investments, trusts, foreign banking. Each unit office of the Manufacturers Trust Company stands complete, taking active part in the business of the district it serves.

Through the unit plan, fifteen widely-separated districts in Greater New York receive neighborhood banking completely attuned to their individual needs. And yet each office provides the district it serves with all the facilities of a great banking organization having large resources and connections extending to every part of the world.

Through this plan, fifteen offices are as one, one for all, and all for one. This is the system of unit banking as created and developed by the MANUFACTURERS TRUST COMPANY.

NATHAN S. JONAS, President.

Mergers Bring Opportunity To Clerks In Banks

Many Employees of Absorbed Institutions Become Officers Of Manufacturers Trust

The Manufacturers Trust Company has absorbed or merged with ten other banks since it was organized in 1905 and today there are officers of high rank with the Manufacturers Trust Company who were minor clerks when the institutions with which they were connected were absorbed.

Just a single example! Of clerks with the Broadway Bank of Brooklyn when it was absorbed in 1912, one now is a Vice-President and Secretary of the Manufacturers Trust Company, one is Vice-President in charge of offices in Brooklyn and Queens, and three are Assistant Secretaries.

PRINCIPLES GUIDING MERGERS

In every merger, two principles guide the Manufacturers Trust Company:

First: The merger must give the district served by the absorbed bank a more complete institution than before.

Second: Every employee in the absorbed bank must have a better opportunity for advancement than he had before.

When the Manufacturers Trust Company absorbs another institution, its sole idea is to build a better bank for every customer. New departments usually are added, for every office of the Manufacturers Trust Company must have five complete departments—commercial, trust, investment, thrift and foreign.

PERSONNEL LITTLE CHANGED

Thus strengthened and with greatly increased resources, the merged bank starts out as a separate unit as fully equipped as all the other units in the strongly welded chain. Its personnel, however, has been changed but little. Virtually all persons who greeted customers of the bank before the merger still are there—old friends of the district.

Officer Heads Credit Conference Committee

Henry C. Von Elm

When the Manufacturers National Bank of Brooklyn was absorbed by the Manufacturers Trust Company in 1914, Henry C. Von Elm was a discount clerk in the former institution.

Four years later when the West Side Bank became a unit office in the Manufacturers Trust Company System, Mr. Von Elm was placed in charge of that office with the title of Assistant Secretary. In 1919, at the age of 32 years, Mr. Von Elm was promoted to the office of Vice-President and when the Columbia Bank was absorbed in 1923, he was placed in charge of the Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street Office.

Today, 11 years from the time he started with the Manufacturers Trust Company, Mr. Von Elm is Vice-President in charge of the Fifth Avenue Office and also is head of the Credit Conference Committee.

He is equally and deservedly popular with both our customers and our organization.

No Hard And Fast Rules For Extension of Credit

"What are your rules for extending credit?" persons sometimes ask the Manufacturers Trust Company.

We have no rules. A customer's balance and statement do not automatically determine the line of credit to be granted. Each case is handled on its own merits.

Founders of Manufacturers Trust Company Planned Such Chain When First Office Was Opened

A dream of twenty years becomes realization today with the completion of arrangements by which the Manufacturers Trust Company takes over the Fifth National Bank and the Gotham National Bank and operates them as unit offices in its city-wide banking system.

The Fifth National, 181 East Twenty-third Street, corner of Lexington Avenue, opens today as the Twenty-third Street Office of the Manufacturers Trust Company. The Gotham National, 1819 Broadway, at Columbus Circle, now is the Columbus Circle Office of the Manufacturers Trust Company.

The group of men who founded the little Citizens Trust Company in the Williamsburgh section of Brooklyn twenty years ago, were men of vision and imagination who had well-conceived and definite plans of expansion.

7 YEARS TO LAY FOUNDATION

These men were headed by Nathan S. Jonas, who then was President of the Citizens Trust and now is President of the Manufacturers Trust, the outgrowth of the Citizens Trust.

The founders dreamed of a personal service banking institution with a few hundred million dollars on deposit, capital and surplus in proportion, and about a dozen offices strategically located along the line of the city's march of progress. And they set to work to accomplish their plan.

It took seven years to lay the foundation for the expansion which was to come, seven years of patient, struggling effort, during which the little trust company successfully weathered the great panic of 1907. It emerged from that period of stress with the fullest confidence of the Williamsburgh community which it served, and ready for the first step of the founders toward the achievement of their goal.

FIRST MERGER IN 1912

The merger in 1912 of the Broadway Bank into the Citizens Trust Company was the first of a series of mergers, which included the Manufacturers National Bank of Brooklyn, after which the company adopted the name of the Manufacturers Trust Company; the West Side Bank of New York, the Ridgewood National Bank of Brooklyn, the North Side Bank of Brooklyn, the Industrial Bank of New York, the Columbia Bank of New York, and, about two months ago, the Yorkville Bank of New York.

The present double merger through its purchase of the Gotham National Bank and the Fifth National Bank rounds out the plans conceived 20 years ago. With resources of $220,000,000, capital and surplus of about $22,000,000, and deposits of approximately $190,000,000, the Manufacturers Trust Company now closely approaches the vision and ideals of the founders.

NEW UNITS IN THE SYSTEM

The last published statement of the Fifth National Bank showed capital of $1,200,000, surplus and undivided profits of $1,462,218.65 and deposits of $19,392,226.44.

At Columbus Circle, the Hub of New York and the starting point of all motor trails from the city, the Gotham National Bank has served one of the fastest growing districts in Manhattan.

The Gotham National was founded in 1910. The last published statement showed capital of $1,500,000, surplus and undivided profits of $546,800 and deposits of $17,294,000.
